EDWARD VII. IS REAL RULER

British Sovereign Upsets Tradition and Dictates New Cabinet.

HE IS NO FIGUREHEAD

Summons Ministers and Questions Them Closely and Will End Army Scandal.

DOES NOT BLAME LANSDOWNE

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

London, Sept. 23.—The political crisis has taken on a phase which lends to the present situation an historical and constitutional importance of almost unprecedented interest. The king has interfered, not unconstitutionally or beyond the powers vested in the crown, but in the exercise of his prerogatives to an extent never dreamed of in the Victorian era.

Premier Balfour's continued presence at Balmoral has given rise to much surmise and comment, but it is due to the king's determination not to assent to the formation of a new cabinet until thoroughly satisfied that its personnel and combination is such as to insure the efficient carrying on of the affairs of the empire pending the resumption of parliament.

For years previous cabinets were formed of ministerial vacancies filled with the mere formal presentation to the sovereign of the names of the new ministers. King Edward has done away with this tradition. Ministers now holding office and those nominated for office have been summoned to Balmoral to join in these conferences, and all have been subjected to a degree of interrogation such as has surprised even those who knew King Edward intimately as Prince of Wales.

Holding Veto in Reserve.

To such an extent is King Edward holding his power of veto in reserve that now he is almost regarded by the inner circles as more the cabinet maker than Mr. Balfour himself. Though, with his usual tact, the king has refrained from expressing any political views or infringing the initiative belonging to the ministers, this has not prevented him from expressing his genuine desire, amounting to almost a command, that steps be taken to remedy the scandals in the army administration revealed by the report of the South African war commission, and insisting that the new cabinet shall be one adapted to deal with the question.

After the long conversation he has had during the last few days at Balmoral with Lord Lansdowne, Mr. Brodrick, Lord Esher, who was president of the South African war commission; Lieut.-Gen. Sir T. Kelly-Kenny and other military authorities, the king is said to have expressed the opinion that Lord Lansdowne's record as war secretary was due more to the badness of the system then in vogue than to any defect in Lord Lansdowne's own judgment.

Wants Strong War Secretary.

King Edward has not shared the keen public indignation against Lord Lansdowne aroused by the report of the South African war commission and after a minute examination of the circumstances, he is understood to have consented to his lordship continuing as foreign minister.

This decision has not prevented his majesty from frankly telling the ministers that he wanted something done to improve the military muddle, and that he hoped some man would be appointed who, with the commission's report as a basis, would be capable of changing the system which rendered inefficiency unavoidable.

ALL MUST GO AT HAMMER'S FALL

MUST HAVE MONEY

STOCKHOLDERS' NEW PLAN

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Sept. 23.

Speyer & Co. today announced that on October 1, at noon, they would sell the Consolidated Lake Superior Company at public auction at No. 161 Broadway to satisfy a claim of $5,050,000 held by their syndicate. This sale will dispose of a $117,000,000 combination, whose stocks and bonds represent $28,000,000 of real money invested. As there are prior liens of about $4,500,000 to be satisfied, there will have to be a bid of at least $9,350,000.

High officials of the company who have their fortunes bound up in the great Canadian concern were busy today devising some plan of saving the property for the stockholders. Meetings were held in Philadelphia and in this city. The plan agreed on and approved by the protective committee in Philadelphia is to sell $5,000,000 of bonds and to assess the stockholders $3 a share. Many members of the Speyer syndicate are willing to take new bonds for their share in the syndicate loan. Less than $8,000,000 of cash, therefore, is needed.

According to the circular the sale will take place at the offices of Muller & Sons, auctioneers, No. 161 Broadway, the terms being that the securities, etc., must be bid for and purchased in one parcel, and Speyer & Co. reserve the right to bid in the properties offered for sale.

Long List of Properties.

The stocks of the subsidiary companies are enumerated in the circular as 200,000 shares of the Algoma Steel Company, Limited, par value of $100; 200,000 shares of the Algoma Commercial Company, Limited, par value $50; 100,000 shares of the Algoma Central & Hudson Bay Railway Company, par, $100; 14,000 shares Manitou & North Shore Railway Company, par, $100; 5,000 shares Michigan Lake Superior Power Company, par, $100; 10,000 shares Tagona Water and Light Company of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., par, $20; 4,000 shares St. Mary's Traction Company, par, $100; 3,000 shares International Transit Company, par, $50; 1,000 British America Express Company, Limited, par, $100; 7,500 the Sault Ste. Marie Pulp and Paper Company, preferred, par, $100; 12,500 Sault Ste. Marie Pulp and Paper Company common, par, $100; 150 Lake Superior Power Company, preferred, par, $100; 119,300 Ontario Lake Superior Company preferred, par, $50, and 279,880 shares Ontario Lake Superior Company common, par, $50.

Bonds of the subsidiary companies are next enumerated, as follows: Temporary first mortgage 5 per cent 30-year gold bonds of the Algoma Central & Hudson Bay Railway Company of 1903, face value $6,750,000; temporary second mortgage 5 per cent 30-year gold bonds of the Michigan Lake Superior Power Company, $2,400,000; temporary first mortgage 5 per cent 30-year gold bonds of the Manitou & North Shore Railway Company, $405,000; temporary first mortgage 5 per cent 30-year gold bonds of the Sault Ste. Marie Pulp and Paper Company, $1,200,000, and temporary first mortgage 5 per cent 30-year gold bonds of the Algoma Steel Company, $5,000,000.

Faith in the Soo.

A number of notes, all but one of which are demand notes, are announced for sale in addition to the stocks and bonds. An examination of the notes to be sold tells the story of the losses of operation from month to month and the amounts borrowed to make them up. There was a steady decrease in the amounts required.

The citizens of the Canadian "Soo," it is announced, have not lost faith in the future of their city, which practically

SECRETARY SHAW TO REFUND BONDS

FIVES ARE TO BE REDEEMED

Secretary of the Treasury Shaw's announcement today that he would resume the refunding of 3 and 4 per cent bonds with 2 per cents, and that he would redeem the 5 per cent bonds which mature on February 1, 1904, paying the interest to maturity, is expected to have at least two salutary effects. One is a very large increase in the circulation of the country, which will be appreciated by the bankers. The other is the reduction in the market price of 2 per cent bonds, and thus putting a stop to the rush of national banks to retire a part of their circulation.

Owing to the high prices that these 2 per cents have commanded in the market recently, banks have been eager to get possession of those that they have had deposited with the treasury as security for circulation in order that they might dispose of them at a handsome profit.

The total amount of the 5 per cent bonds outstanding and which will mature on February 1, is $10,385,050, and treasury officials believe that a large part of them will be offered for redemption in a very short time. This will put that amount of money into the money market and will redeem the interest bearing debt to the amount of whatever sum is redeemed. The debt now stands at $911,541,400. L. W. STRAYER.

TWO WOMEN ROBBED OF LARGE SUM OF MONEY

Attacked by Man in Yard. Mother and Daughter in Serious Condition.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BEAVER FALLS, PA., Sept. 23.—Mrs. E. H. Scott, who keeps a grocery store and boarding house at Seventeenth street and Seventh avenue, was robbed at her home at 8 o'clock this evening and as a result she and her daughter are now lying at their home in a serious condition from the shock. Mrs. Scott had drawn a large sum of money from the bank today.

While in the yard in back of the house a man suddenly sprang at her and tearing open the bosom of her dress, seized the pocketbook and escaped with it. Mrs. Scott ran screaming into her house and fell to the floor, fainting. Her daughter Myrtle, when she saw her mother run into the house, ran to meet her but fell unconscious.

Neighbors who heard the screams of the women summoned physicians who have worked over the women all night but up to a late hour the daughter had not been revived from her faint. The mother was half conscious but could not speak.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB WILL BUY ANOTHER HOME

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Charles M. Schwab, former president of the United States Steel Corporation, has become so much attached to Philadelphia that he is looking for a home in the suburbs of this city. He visited several properties recently, with a view to purchasing the one that suits him best.

Among those that seem to meet with most favor in the eyes of the steel magnate, are the estate of Craig Biddle, in Devon, and the Kimball estate, in Radnor. There is a handsome stone mansion on each and 150 acres of land in the first mentioned and 300 in the latter.

WATSON MAKES FIRST DEFENSE

Pittsburgh Attorney Opens for United States Before Alaskan Boundary Commission.

SHOWS UP BRITAIN'S GREED

London, Sept. 23.—Attorney General Finlay concluded his argument in behalf of Canada at this morning's session of the Alaskan boundary commission. He received the thanks of Chief Justice Alverstone and the congratulations of Messrs. Root and Lodge on his "lucid explanation of so technical and comprehensive a subject."

The attorney general made it clear that Canada wants above everything access to the sea. American counsel state that every effort will be made by them to convince the tribunal that the treaty contemplated a barrier between the dominion and the ocean and that the question of territory, is not important, provided the shores and inlets remain in the possession of the United States.

David T. Watson of Pittsburgh, of counsel for the American side, opened for the United States, describing the purchase of Alaska, and stating that the United States published in 1867 the map issued by Russia in 1826, one year after the treaty with Great Britain, and that no protest was made against the boundaries therein fixed, either by Great Britain or by Canada.

Mr. Watson pointed out that it was three years after gold was discovered in the Yukon territory that Great Britain made her first formal notification that she would question the title of the United States to the heads of inlets. The correspondence prior thereto referred to the actual demarcation line on the ground, but no question as to the accuracy of the boundary claimed by the United States as universally shown on the maps, had ever previously been formally raised by Great Britain.

A. H. Aylesworth, K. C., of Canadian counsel, remarked that in 1867 Canada had no concern in the question and had no right to interfere with an objection, as her territory was not extended to the Pacific until 1871.

Mr. Watson, continuing, quotes the report of the surveyor-general of Canada, in 1874, agreeing that the line was across certain rivers which were emptying at the head of the Lynn canal, and argued that Canada thereby acknowledged the United States claim to the heads of inlets. The commission adjourned for the day.

Gave $50,000 to Yale.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Sept. 23.—John Hays Hammond, who with Cecil Rhodes made millions in the Johannesburg mines in South Africa, today made the Sheffield Scientific school of Yale a present of a new building. He gave $50,000 for a new laboratory in metallurgy. Prof. Hammond is now at the head of the instruction in mining engineering at Yale.

Mayor Low Again Indorsed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(Special.)—The Republican and Citizens Union city conventions tonight renominated the entire "fusion city ticket—Low for mayor, Grout for controller and Fornes for president of the board of aldermen. No opposition to the nomination of Low, such as had been predicted by District Attorney Jerome, was made.

MILLER CASE IS MODIFIED

Roosevelt's "Unfairness" Not Mentioned in Federation.

DISMISSAL IS ASKED

DECISION IS NOT REACHED

Today the case of W. A. Miller, foreman of bookbinders, was officially brought before the executive council of the American Federation of Labor. James W. Dougherty, secretary of the International Bookbinders union, accompanied by a committee of that organization, appeared before the council and made a plea for the indorsement of the demand that President Roosevelt dismiss Miller from the government service.

Documents were read and copies of evidence were produced to substantiate the charges that have been filed against Miller. The case was discussed to some extent and laid over until later in the session.

When the announcement was made this evening that the matter had been brought before the council, it occasioned some surprise, as it was believed by many that a decision had been reached to keep the question in the background, at least until the annual convention in Boston in November. But now that it has come up, there is a disposition on the part of the labor leaders gathered here to not dodge the issue, but to discuss the matter to a final decision.

However, from the report of proceedings given out by President Gompers, it appears that the question brought before the executive council is solely the demand by the Bookbinders' union for the dismissal of Miller upon the charges that have been filed against him. These charges are still pending before Secretary Cortelyou, of the department of commerce and labor, and the committee designated by the president to investigate them has recently made its report. If the charges are sustained it is quite certain that the president will discharge Miller.

This issue as brought before the executive council is very different from the resolution passed by the Central Labor union. These resolutions are the ones that contain the political pith, in that they only ask for Miller's dismissal for the good of the service, but they also ask that the president modify his "open shop" order, or in other words declare the government printing office a union shop. Consequently the council may sustain the Bookbinders' union in its demand for Miller's discharge on charges preferred and yet not concur in the proposition of the Central Labor union that the president is "unfair" to organized labor. Whatever action is taken by the council, the president will decide the Miller case upon its merits, without any consideration of its standing with his union.

FURNACES OUT FOR 30 D

Practically All Will Take This Action Before January 1.

MEET HERE TUESDAY

Purpose of the Banking Is to Prevent a Threatened Accumulation of Stock.

STRUCTURAL OUTLOOK GOOD

Practically every furnace in the Pittsburgh district, in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys and in the Cleveland district will go out for 30 days at some time between now and January 1. An agreement to this effect has been reached and further steps to make it effective will be taken at a meeting of furnace owners from all the interested districts in this city next Tuesday.

The purpose of the proposed action is to prevent an accumulation of stock. The demand for pig iron has not been brisk for several months. The prices are established by the agreement reached some time ago so that the price does not figure in the proposed action. It is merely a plan to forestall a threatened excess of production. At a meeting in New York this week the situation was gone over carefully and a decision was reached that by each furnace going out of blast for this period an output equaling to the current demand would be obtained and no one would suffer later from overproduction.

"It is practically assured that all the furnaces will join in this action," said a prominent man yesterday. "What is fair for one of the furnace companies is fair for the others, and this view is taken generally. All will be signed at next week's meeting."

A telegram from Youngstown says that one reason for the furnaces of the valley being banked is that the Steel Corporation has not yet contracted for the fourth quarter supply. The contract for 110,000 tons for the third quarter will expire October 1, but about 10,000 tons of this will not have been delivered by that time, and when delivered will carry the corporation mills over for one or two weeks of October. The fact that some of the corporation's mills have closed down has seriously curtailed the demand for Bessemer pig.

At the same time that the pig iron market has become so noticeably slack, the structural mills are beginning to see before them one of the most prosperous years in their history. The conditions that have prevailed in the money market this summer and the succession of labor troubles are the factors that tend to make the coming year promise a large business for the structural mills. All over the country, but especially in the larger cities, the labor troubles have held up buildings in which steel frames are to be used.

There are indications that these difficulties are subsiding, and it is expected that next year the construction work can go ahead unharassed. In no city have these difficulties been felt more than in Pittsburgh. Several bridges here, notably those of the Wabash, have been delayed on account of the labor troubles.

PRICE OF PLATE GLASS IS REDUCED 10 PER CENT

Cut Is Made by American Manufacturers to Force the Belgian Producers Out of the American Trade.

The prices of plate glass have been cut an average of 10 per cent. The announcement is made from official sources, the reduced rates going into effect after midnight yesterday morning. The cut is made for the purpose of saving to the American manufacturers close upon $2,000,000 worth of American business which the Belgian manufacturers have been enabled to take from them. It is the purpose of the American manufacturers to put the Belgian producers entirely out of the American trade.

An intimation of the consternation which had been created in Belgium by this cut was given in The Gazette of yesterday in a special cable from Brussels. It is realized that by the lower prices thus offered the producers on this side of the ocean will be well able to keep the entire American business to themselves. A cablegram, verifying The Gazette cablegram, was received by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company yesterday.

The reduction will average 10 per cent on all the sizes of plate glass. Both glazed and silvered glass are included in the cut of prices and the cuts in each size and line are made to suit the conditions prevailing in that particular case. There are some reductions as high as 15 per cent, while in other cases the reductions are not over 5 per cent.

These reductions came out of a realization by all concerned that the growth of the Belgian trade here was becoming too marked. The past year in particular has seen the business increase. The reports of the imports of glass for the last fiscal year showed that approximately 6,000,000 feet of plate glass had been received from abroad. It is believed that the value of this product is close to $2,000,000. The loss of this amount of business was found to be due to American prices being too high, and the leaders in the American plate glass trade decided upon the reduction.

Ten companies are engaged in this business in America. By far the largest is the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company. Other companies are the Penn Plate Glass, the Columbia of Blairsville, the Allegheny of Hite station, the Saginaw at Saginaw, Mich., the Ford at Ford City, the Heidelcamp Mirror Company of Springdale, the Kittanning of Kittanning, the Standard of Butler and the St. Louis of St. Louis, Mo.

The protective tariff on plate glass is considered by the American manufacturers altogether too low on the smaller sizes. On the larger sizes of the product the tariff affords greater protection. The wages paid to the workers in Belgian factories are just about one-third those paid to American plate glass workers.

VOTERS OF NEW JERSEY REJECT AMENDMENTS

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 23.—Revised returns received up to late tonight make it certain that the constitutional amendments have been defeated. The majority in the state against them will range from 2,000 to 3,000. The correct official returns will not be known until after the meeting of the several county election boards on Monday next.

MANY BULGARIANS KILLED IN FIGHTS WITH THE TURKS

Seventy-Four Insurgents Fell in One Battle and Twenty-One in Another—War Declaration Is Urged.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

Salonica, Sept. 23.—A combat took place between the Turkish troops and the insurgents yesterday on Radar heights, which are situated in the Prespe district of the vilayet of Monastir. Seventy-four Bulgarians were killed, while the troops lost only four men, 11 others being wounded. In the village of Vitoch, in the Corsana district of the vilayet of Corsforeo, a body of soldiers yesterday killed 21 insurgents and captured 18 others. Among the dead are Capt. Vangruedo and Capt. Pango.

SOFIA, BULGARIA, Sept. 23.—A largely attended meeting of Macedonian sympathizers at Rustchuk, Bulgaria, adopted resolutions appealing to the Bulgarian government to declare war on Turkey immediately. In revolutionary circles, war is believed to be imminent unless Turkey stops massacreing the Christians, of which there are no signs at present.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(Special.)—If conditions in Turkey become sufficiently calm the entire European squadron under Rear Admiral Cotton, now at Beirut, Syria, may take United States Consul Skinner to Abyssinia when he goes on his mission to negotiate a commercial treaty with King Menelik. It has already been decided that the gunboat Machias, now at Port Said, shall be placed at the disposal of Consul Skinner. The navy department, however, is averse to separating the ships of the squadron and prefers that the fleet cruise as a unit.

It is believed Minister Leishman thinks the ships may to advantage be withdrawn in a few weeks if the situation takes no change for the worse. It will be several weeks at least before Mr. Skinner is ready to start. He is at present in the United States and must confer with the state department before returning to his post at Marseilles, France.

League of Republican Clubs Heard Cheering Words at First Session.

SPEECHES ON THE CAMPAIGN

Business Session of the Convention Will Be Held Today—Delegates Enjoyed an Outing Yesterday Afternoon—Governor Went to a Fair.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WILKESBARRE, PA., Sept. 23.—The convention of the State League of Republican clubs was formally opened today at the Grand opera house this morning. President Fleitz presided. The morning session was devoted to speeches and the appointment of committees.

Hon. John B. Robinson addressed the delegates at considerable length. He said he was at Lancaster in 1888, when the league was organized and had attended every convention since except two. The league is an excellent school for young men to prepare for future work in the party. It was the duty of the league to put forth its best efforts this year in order to get ready for the national battle of next year.

William L. Matthues, of Delaware county, candidate for state treasurer, was received with much enthusiasm when he appeared on the stage. In his speech, he said he was a firm believer in organization, because it brought good results. This should not be an off year for the Republicans of Pennsylvania. A president is to be elected next year and if present prosperity of the country is maintained, Republican principles must triumph.

J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, president of the National League of Republican clubs, gave a detailed account of the workings of the national organization and how necessary it was that Pennsylvania should maintain her lead as the banner league club state of the union. He claimed there were 500,000 men now enrolled in the Republican clubs of the country and that they would all be found working hard for the success of the Republican national ticket next year.

Governor Pennypacker left for Allentown at noon, where he will visit the big fair. The Philadelphia delegates caucused after adjournment for state officers. The meeting was a lively one and lasted an hour and a half. About 10 candidates were proposed for vice presidents. It is conceded that Philadelphia will have three vice presidents and the other two will go to the country districts. The following led in the balloting and were declared the choice of the caucus for vice presidents:

John McCleary, Joan C. Sheets and Joseph Call. There will be no opposition to John R. Wiggs, of Philadelphia, for state president. Philadelphia will also get the treasurer in the person of J. H. Shaw. John Kelly, of the Quaker city, will be named for corresponding secretary.

GROSSCUP MAY SOON LEAVE THE BENCH

Federal Judge Offered Position as Counsel for Northern Securities Company.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Judge Peter S. Grosscup of the federal court has been offered the position of counsel for the Northern Securities Company, and he has the proposition under consideration. Close friends say that he is almost certain to accept the offer and it is probable that his resignation will go to President Roosevelt in a few days.

Judge Grosscup was out of the city today, but Marshall E. Sampsell, one of his closest friends, said that he knew the offer had been made and that the judge had it under consideration. He also said that Judge Grosscup was particularly anxious to decide the Union Traction franchise case now pending in this city before he resigned from the bench.

The conditions of the offer were not made public, but they are said to be "flattering." Apart from the large fee which he would undoubtedly receive, it is said that Judge Grosscup is aware of the chance to add to his reputation by appearing for the company before the supreme court of the United States.

The last stand of the company will soon be made, and the rich men behind the corporation are anxious to be represented at that time by the best legal talent they can secure.

MRS. KOUNTZ GETS JUDGMENT

Mrs. Margaret E. Kountz, whose husband killed Contractor John E. Walsh last spring, received judgment for $35 against Charles Newman, a dyer and cleaner of No. 650 Penn avenue, at a hearing before Alderman Charles F. Anderson, yesterday. Mrs. Kountz alleged that Newman ruined a dress which had been given to him to clean by mistake.

At the hearing Mrs. Kountz testified that she had given the dress to a colored boy to take to Newman's cleaning establishment and the boy in mistake took it to Newman's. When Mrs. Kountz found the dress had gone to the wrong place she went to Newman and asked that it be returned to her. She alleged that Newman refused her request. Newman said he cleaned the dress according to the order delivered by the boy, but Mrs. Kountz declares he ruined it. Newman says he will appeal the case.

was built by the Consolidated Lake Superior promoter, F. H. Clergue. With them Clergue is still popular. The majority of the collapsed company's employes cannot afford, however, to await developments. They have called on the government of the province to aid them by bringing influence to bear on the mortgagee or the company to provide funds for wages. The government can do that, they say, by threatening to cancel the liberal concessions to the company.

It is announced that the United States Steel Corporation will buy the Superior company, and the Rockefellers do not want it. It is expected, therefore, that there will be but two bidders at the sale next Thursday—the Speyer syndicate and a salvage committee made up of stockholders. FRANK A. PARKER.

ANOTHER PLAN FOR SAVING LAKE SUPERIOR COMPANY

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—A new plan has been suggested to save the Lake Superior Company and its properties for its stockholders. It is proposed to raise a fund approximating $5,000,000 to buy in the assets, which will be sold at public auction by Speyer & Co. on October 1. The reorganization plan, so far as perfected, has been submitted to a number of bankers in Philadelphia. It meets the approval of the Miller committee, which is said to represent 100,000 shares of common stock. The plan calls for an assessment of $3 on each share of stock and the sale of 5 per cent bonds, to realize nearly $5,000,000. There are outstanding 1,025,000 shares of Lake Superior. The assessment, if paid by every stockholder, would net $2,075,000.

It is proposed to make the bond issue $7,000,000, but to sell them at $70, which would net $4,900,000. This, added to the stock levy, will furnish $7,075,000 cash. Speyer's loan amounts to $5,050,000. In addition to that there are unpaid wages and notes aggregating about $1,750,000, or a total of $6,750,000 that must be paid off immediately. Under the suggested plan of reorganization these obligations can be wiped out and $1,225,000 will be left over.

A new Lake Superior company is to be organized that will have a total capitalization of about one-quarter of the present authorized capital. Shares in the new company will be exchanged for stock in the old. A bonus of stock probably will be offered with the bonds to make them more attractive. The old stock upon which no assesment is paid cannot participate in this reorganization. Hence a stockholder will first pay $3 on each share he owns and then he can come in on an equal footing with everyone else. It will not be obligatory upon shareholders to buy the bonds, but they will get the first chance.

"We have received information that an effort is being made to formulate a plan which, if successful, we feel will be satisfactory to those we represent."

It can be said positively that this class of shareholders will be satisfied with a $3 assessment. The question of collecting unpaid preferred dividend assessments of the past will come up for consideration after the foreclosure proceedings. If this reorganization shall be successful the money can scarcely be raised in the one week remaining before the sale. But it will be guaranteed.

SHIMER LIKES OUTLOOK.

Pittsburgher at the Canadian Soo Looking Over Lake Superior Plants.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Two of the interesting developments of the day are the facts that a representative of the United States Steel Corporation is in the Soo looking over the Consolidated Lake Superior plants. It has been impossible to find him or his name, but another steel man has been located here whose name is J. M. Shimer of Pittsburgh. Shimer was seen, but would say little beyond the fact that he was a steel manufacturer in Pittsburgh and was here in the interest of minority stockholders. After looking over the company, especially the steel plant, he said that it was the most complete plant, both as to construction and equipment on the North American continent. He stated that the only suggestion he had in regard to the plant was that two more open hearth furnaces be installed of 3,000 tons daily capacity and that with a mixture of 80 per cent Helen mine ore and 20 per cent Mesaba he could turn out the finest grade steel rails on the continent and that he was not at all surprised that the time would not come when he would be operating it.

GIRLS AS ROBBERS.

Trio Showed Hiding Place of $1,000 Worth of Goods.

Detectives James W. Eagan and George W. Cole arrested Agnes and Mamie Murray and Annie Cooney, 12, 10 and 9 years old respectively, all of State alley, yesterday morning. They are charged with having stolen about $1,000 worth of china and silverware from a house in Fifth avenue, near State alley. The children confessed to having taken the articles and revealed the hiding place to the officers. The detectives took the children to the place and recovered the articles. The articles were found in a deserted house in Yellow row.

On account of the juvenile law the officers are unable to make informations against the children. After they recovered the stolen articles they were dismissed.

CONDEMNED MURDERER INDIFFERENT TO FATE

The death warrant was read to George Meier, convicted of killing his brother-in-law, John Schaffer, on October 28, 1902. Sheriff William McKinley in his official capacity, notified the man that Gov. Pennypacker had fixed November 12 as the day on which he must be hanged. Meier did not seem to understand the meaning of the warrant. The jail officials and officers present say Meier is insane. The doomed man was of the opinion he was about to be released from jail. Sheriff McKinley said inquiry should be made into the matter, as Meier is more fit for a lunatic asylum than the gallows.

PANAMA CANAL TREATY THOUGHT TO BE DEAD

No Word from Colombia on Ratification of Convention Within Time Limit.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Not a word had been received by Dr. Herran, the Colombian charge, up to a late hour last night regarding the Panama canal treaty. Dr. Herran says he would not be surprised if Colombia should take the initiatory steps for a renewal of the canal negotiations along somewhat different lines from that on which the last convention was framed. That this is possible, he says, is indicated by the communications which have come to the state department from the Colombian legation to the effect that the Bogota government was anxious to keep alive the canal negotiations.

The reports from Minister Beaupre indicate that the whole subject has ended in a deadlock.

HEARINGS TO BE CLOSED.

Viewers on Virgin Alley Widening Soon to Make Report.

The viewers on the widening of Virgin alley heard two witnesses yesterday and adjourned until Monday, when they will finally close the matter so far as hearing exceptions to the award of benefits and damages is concerned. They will then formulate their final report and file it in court, where it may be confirmed or where appeals may be taken.

D. H. Meyers appeared before the board yesterday to object to the benefits assessed against his property, $91,200. He had expected to abide by the decision, but said he was influenced by the fact that other property holders had filed objections, and if concessions were made he wanted to be on record and enjoy his share.

W. M. Fox, a contractor, appeared for Mrs. Sophia Meyran to testify that alterations deemed necessary in her property after the improvement of the street would cost about $14,500. The board was of the opinion that the alterations in this and other property testified to would not be necessary, as the street is not to be regraded.

SAM PARKS IS GIVEN A CONVENTION SEAT

Credentials Committee Decides in Favor of the Fighting Delegate.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 23.—After being in session behind closed doors since early this morning, the convention of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers at 10 o'clock tonight voted in favor of seating Sam Parks and the other delegates from Local Union No. 2 of New York. There were but three votes cast against Parks and his friends. These were the ballots of President Buchanan, the Kansas City delegates, and one other. The result was a decided victory for Parks, as it reinstates him and Local No. 2 of New York, of which he is the business agent, and directly repudiates the action of President Buchanan in suspending it.

Parks announced tonight that Robert E. Naidig, president of Local Union, No. 2 of New York, the only officer of that union who has supported the policy of President Buchanan, has been deposed as president, and that his expulsion from the union is under consideration.

The credentials committee today reported favorably on the question of allowing inside men or shop men in the membership. This was passed up to the convention itself, although it has not been taken up yet. There are 150,000 of these men, and if they are accepted it will immensely strengthen the organization. There seems to be a strong sentiment looking toward their acceptance.

SAID HE COMMITTED MURDER NEAR IRWIN

Man Who Is Supposed to Be Crazy Was Locked Up in the Tombs in New York.

Daniel Burns of Brooklyn was yesterday committed to the Tombs prison, in New York, until tomorrow on a nominal charge of intoxication, but really to give time to investigate a statement he made last night that 10 years ago he killed Margaret Fens, the child of his sister, in Shafton, near Irwin, Pa., on the Pennsylvania railroad. He went to the police station last night and asked to be arrested, saying that he had cut his niece's throat and then burned her body, and had been unable to sleep comfortably since. He appears to be mentally unbalanced.

Burns' confession could not be verified in Allegheny or Westmoreland counties yesterday. Constable Charles Meerhoff of Irwin investigated the story at Shafton, but was unable to get any information. Residents of that borough for the last 20 years know nothing of a man named Burns or Margaret Bens, the girl supposed to have been murdered. About 16 years ago a Daniel Burns lived in that place. He was about 18 years old then and left for South Africa.

POWELL MAKES DEMANDS.

American Minister Gives the Dominican Government Sharp Notice—Must Settle Claims.

SANTO DOMINGO CITY, Sept. 23.—The Dominican government has informed United States Minister Powell that it absolutely does not recognize the validity of the agreement regarding the claims of the improvement company, and therefore cannot appoint an arbitrator in that case.

Mr. Powell has informed the government that the engagements made must be kept, and that he expected it to name its arbitrators. He also pointed out to the Dominican government that if they accepted engagements with other powers those made with his government must also be respected, and if some of the acts of ex-President Vasquez's government considered illegal then all must be. Quiet prevails throughout the republic.

FOUR HOUSES BURNED BY OIL TANK FIRE

Explosion Caused by Collision of Freight Cars on Baltimore & Ohio.

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 23.—In a freight wreck at Norwich, on the Baltimore & Ohio, 15 miles east of here, this afternoon, two oil tank cars collided and exploded. There was a terrific report and a sheet of flame rose 100 feet into the air and spread on all sides. Four houses at the side of the track caught fire and were consumed in a few minutes. The occupants escaped, but lost everything.

All trains are detoured over the Panhandle around the wreck. Wreckers cannot work on the burning cars and must wait for the fire to burn itself out. At a late hour tonight a column of flame, 30 feet high, was shooting upward from the manholes of the wrecked oil cars. The loss is not heavy.

SYNOD MAY COME HERE.

Commission Considering Removal of Greek Church Headquarters.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—The commission appointed by Bishop Tikahon Bellavin to gather data as to the removal of the headquarters of the Greek church in America from San Francisco to a more central point, began its work here today.

Sometime ago the bishop, who is in charge of the church in this country, thought the headquarters should be located in the Ohio valley, so he went to St. Petersburg, Russia, to get permission for the removal from the holy synod. He found that he was not sufficiently prepared with data, and appointed the following commission to gather information: Archpriest John Nedzelnitzy, Pittsburgh; the Rev. K. Bopoff, director of mission schools at Minneapolis; Prof. A. Kukulevsky, of the mission schools at Minneapolis; Father A. Nemovolsky of Philadelphia, and the Rev. Jason R. Kappanadze of this city.

Pittsburgh is making a strong fight for the headquarters, offering both land and money.

HOW TO FIND OUT IF YOUR KIDNEYS ARE DISEASED.

Let your morning urine stand 24 hours. If you find a reddish, brick dust sediment in it, or if particles are floating in it, or if it is cloudy your kidneys are in a diseased condition and unable to perform their work. The result will be the bladder and urinary organs will become inflamed, uric acid will poison the blood, the stomach will become affected and unable to digest the food, you will have pains in the small of the back, torpid liver, pains in the back of the head and neck, rheumatic pains and swellings all over the body, eczema and jaundice; the system will become weak and a breakdown of the general health will take place, with Bright's disease or diabetes, which will prove fatal if not treated promptly and with great care.

It is a valuable and effective tonic, a stimulant to digestion and awakens the torpid liver. ## TRAIN IS HELD UP AND TWO MEN ARE SHOT

PORTLAND, ORE., Sept. 24.—The Atlantic Express on the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company's line, which left here at 8:15 p. m., was held up at Corbett, 20 miles east of this city, shortly before 10 o'clock. It is reported that Engineer Barrett was fatally shot. Details of the robbery are very meager, and it is not known whether the robbers secured anything or not. The train was run to Bridal Vail, six miles, where it will be met by an engine from The Dalles, bringing another engineer.

A special train left this city for the scene at 11 o'clock, carrying a posse. The Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the highwaymen. The point where the holdup occurred is in a sparsely-settled country on the bank of the Columbia river.

It is reported that when the robbers went to the express car and attempted to enter, the express messenger opened fire and killed one of them. An engine is expected to arrive in Portland soon, bringing the wounded engineer.

ELOPED WITH PROMISED WIFE AND $250 IN CASH

Katana Schesla and Nick Trilkovic were placed in No. 7 police station last night on a charge of stealing $250 from Rudolph Borthlo of Steubenville, O. The girl and the man who makes the charge were sweethearts in Kroatien, Austria, and he sent for her to come over here and marry him. She arrived about six weeks ago.

Borthlo runs a boarding house in Steubenville, and the girl went directly there on her arrival in this country. She and Borthlo were to have been married on October 1. At the boarding house Katana met Trilkovic, a tall and handsome young Austrian. They fell in love and ran away to Pittsburgh. Borthlo charges them with taking $250 of his money, and when he located them yesterday at No. 2002 Sarah street, South Side, he had them arrested. They had nearly that amount of money with them, but they declare it was given them by guests at the boarding house as a wedding present.

MASS MEETINGS TO BE OMITTED

But Few Will Be Held by Either Side in Coming County Campaign.

REPUBLICANS SHOW ACTIVITY

Smithfield Street Headquarters Are Besieged With Workers—Citizens "Chopped Up" Platform May Be Announced Saturday.

In the coming county political campaign it is expected mass meetings will play a very small part. Heretofore, during campaigns big mass meetings were one of the salient features of the contest. This fall, however, there will be but few held. The Republican party will be satisfied with less than a dozen meetings, while the Citizens are not likely to hold many more.

A meeting of Republican leaders was held at the Smithfield street headquarters yesterday afternoon, at which committees for the coming campaign and a plan of action were talked over. County Chairman Thomas J. Ford stated after the meeting that it had been determined that but few mass meetings will be held.

"We do not intend holding numerous mass meetings this fall," said Mr. Ford. "One meeting will be held in Allegheny, one in Lawrenceville, South Side, East End, West End, in the downtown section of Pittsburgh and in the large municipalities like Braddock and McKeesport. As this is a fight where purely local interests are the issues, it is not necessary to have numerous big meetings. These meetings will begin in Allegheny on October 8. It will be held in Carnegie music hall and the speakers will be announced tomorrow."

Now that the Republican ticket has been named the county headquarters have taken on an air of brisk activity. All day yesterday the Smithfield street rooms were crowded with Republican workers. Particularly noticeable among the callers were prominent Republicans from the country districts in Allegheny county. Expressions of strong approval of the ticket nominated on Tuesday are being received at the headquarters by the hundreds.

The Soldiers' Civic league of Allegheny holds a meeting tonight and it is expected it will indorse the Republican ticket. The veterans also planning to do much more than merely support the ticket with their votes. They have plans laid for the opening up of an active campaign within the next few days.

The Citizens party platform is completed and will be considered at a meeting of the county committee on Saturday afternoon. James W. Clark, secretary of the committee and one of the drafters of the platform, stated yesterday that the platform would be announced on Saturday, if the county committee approves it. Mr. Clark spoke of the platform as "what we have, chopped up." This is taken to mean that the old platforms of the party, which have become famous for not having been kept, have been rehashed for the new statement of the party's promises.

Murry A. Verner, county chairman, was asked if there will be a brand new kind of reform or the same old kind in the new platform, and he replied that there will be something new in the latest literary effort of the platform builders.

The factional fight in the Citizens party in the Fourteenth ward still goes merrily on, and Mayor Hays stated yesterday he is becoming disgusted with it. A fresh consignment of trouble broke out in the Citizens camp in the Sixth legislative district yesterday morning. The mayor, who is running things in this district regardless of the Citizens' organization there-appointed W. V. Meehlin as the campaign chairman for the district. John Campbell is chairman of the Citizens' organization in the Sixth district. He was elected to that position by the Citizens' organization of the ward. He made a kick at being superceded and yesterday afternoon Hays, Campbell and Meehlin had a meeting at the Third avenue headquarters, at which it was decided to put Campbell in charge and the trouble was settled.

Senator M. S. Quay came to Pittsburgh yesterday morning and so far as known did not confer with any of the local leaders. He stated that politics were tabooed on this visit. The senator spent the forenoon with Cashier William Montgomery of the Allegheny National bank and Col. Samuel Moody of the Pennsylvania railroad.

WITNESSES WERE HEARD IN THE COURT-MARTIAL

Mattie Terwilliger Insisted That Lieutenant Drury Was at the Arsenal Shooting.

The court-martial hearing the case of Private John Dowd, the soldier who shot William H. Crowley, near the Allegheny arsenal on September 10, resumed its sitting yesterday morning shortly after 9 o'clock. Mattie Terwillinger took the stand again, and the cross-examination was begun by Lieutenant Ralph W. Drury, who is acting as counsel for the defense. The girl is still positive that Lieutenant Drury gave Private Dowd the command to fire.

She was handed a diagram of the scene of the shooting and was asked to point out the position Lieutenant Drury was in at the time. She said he was somewhat in advance of her and named a spot on the Allegheny Valley railroad tracks at the foot of Fortieth street. Lieutenant Drury has already testified that he was not near the scene of the shooting.

The girl also maintained that Crowley was facing the soldier when he was shot. Lieutenant Drury asked her if she noticed what he had in his hand on that day. She was unable to remember whether he had anything. She was asked if she saw a rifle in the lieutenant's hand and was unable to tell.

Frederick Beerman, bookkeeper for G. B. Barry & Co., on the Allegheny Valley railroad told of having telephoned for Dr. J. W. McFarland and of finding the bullet which killed Crowley imbedded in a plank in a lumber pile. He said he seen boys taking copper from the arsenal. He was of the opinion they had accomplices on the inside, and by this he meant the soldiers. He did not see the shooting, although he was about 50 feet away at the time.

Mrs. Hanna Lodg, of No. 97 Almond alley, said the soldier shot Crowley after he had surrendered. The court adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

The Fashion Show Lasts Throughout the Week.

If household or social duties prevent a visit today or tomorrow, kindly make a memorandum that the interesting exhibit will not be taken from the floors until after 5:30 P. M. Saturday evening.

That it is an interesting exhibit is attested by the thousands of women, as well as a great many men, who have viewed the now famous costumes and dresses from Paris. There is no gainsaying it is the handsome wraps and gowns that catch most eyes, although the eye feminine seeks out the pretty things in Millinery as well as the charming conceptions in Wraps.

Altogether we are well satisfied that this Exhibit of Fashion merits all the good words that have been said of it—and they were not a few. Again, any hour today, tomorrow and Saturday you will be welcome.

Autumn Suits for Elderly Men.

For men of a sedate turn of mind, for men who seek perfect neatness in their clothes. Our line of such suits were selected purposely for men of quiet tastes. We would like to show them, very much, the Cutaway Suits that we have here in such large variety.

We didn't forget the Sack Suits by any means, because after all they are the most favored.

The old pepper-and-salt mixtures, to be plain, still have many admirers. This black-and-white mixture in cheviot made up into the most fashionable Sack Coats at $15.00, $20.00 and $22.00.

A special line of Sack Suits of soft unfinished worsted, black, with just the faintest mixture of gray, $24.00 to $32.00 per suit.

Plain black Suits of English Thibet, the sack coat cut almost square, $15.00 a suit and up to $35.00.

Of Cutaway Suits we have either the three or four-button style, in black undressed worsted, silk lined. The price is $35.00. Now the neat suit is not always black. Take the coat and vest of this suit for $28.00 and choose a pair of trousers, say from $5.00 up to $10.00 and you have something that is undeniably dressy.

Another style of Cutaway Suits comes in oxford gray undressed worsted, a particular pleasing color for elderly men. $25.00 and $30.00.

The English Walking Suits of dark mixtures in Scotch tweeds have found many friends among men who still favor the frock coat. The price is $32.00.

As to the workmanship on these suits, we will stand good for it. If our tailors grow careless in the least degree they hear from us in short order. All work must be up to specifications or back goes the suit.

Inexpensive New Dress Goods.

A little space to tell women of some new and inexpensive dress goods that have just come in—especially the zibelines. You know these shaggy materials are just the smartest of fabrics for the street dress—the dress for runabout occasions in general.

At 75c a yard we have new Fur Zibelines, 44 inches wide—the favorite Fall colors.

At 50c a yard, new 38-inch wide Zibeline Cheviots. The point about this zibeline-cheviot is that style and colors are exact counterparts of the $1.00 grade.

At $1.00 a yard—worth all of $1.25—new fancy Cloth Suitings in mannish style. We are quite sure that most women will approve of the color effects.

New Ribbons From France.

Many of them novel—all of them selected with an eye to pleasing the multiplicity of tastes.

See these new and attractive novelties, our own direct importations, for Sashes, for Neckpieces and for every millinery usage. Prices from 60c a yard to $3.50.

The Greatly Reduced Prices Now Prevailing in Our Housefurnishing Department, Basement, and the Cause.

There are $30,000 of Housefurnishings in this Basement Store, and we are going to sell them for much less than $30,000 owing to this cause: The stock rooms holding the goods of this department have been turned over to the builders, who are about to connect the present store with the new building. All this stock has been moved to the Basement Store, and you can imagine it is pretty well congested.

Only one way to relieve the congestion and that is to quote the

Most Remarkable Low Prices Ever Named for First-Class Household and Kitchen Helps.

Thursday, September 24, 1903.

That row in the Citizens camp of the Sixth legislative district is increasing rather than diminishing in proportions. After forcing a resolution through at an irregular meeting for the appointment of a leader in lieu of the one elected, the sapient city bosses of the party have appointed the man who was beaten by a vote of 88 to 8. Naturally the workers resent this reversal of their verdict and refuse to follow the man they rejected by so decisive a majority. But of such is the Citizens organization. It is a proprietary concern. Why should any one dispute the will of the owners?

While the margin of profit on plate glass has not been tremendous, the manufacturers have found it necessary to make a cut of ten per cent. in the price to prevent the importation of Belgian glass. They are determined, at least, to hold the entire American market. Plate glass is one of the protected articles that have given our Democratic friends so much worry, but, of course, they will not notice the fact that the margin of duty has not been sufficient to maintain the price. But for the fact that American plate glass machinery is the best in the world the Belgian competition would ere this have forced a reduction in the wages of American plate glass workmen.

Prince Alert is crowned king of the turf for his marvelous performance yesterday, when he paced a mile in one minute, 57 seconds. The new record is full two seconds below that established by Dan Patch and is three seconds better than the sensational trotting record of Lou Dillon. It had been thought by the horsemen when Lou Dillon trotted in two minutes last month that the trotters and pacers might get on even terms again, but yesterday's effort of Prince Alert restores again the gap in favor of the "side wheelers." The pace appears to be the faster gait. Nancy Hanks and Lou Dillon made noble efforts to overhaul the kings of the turf, but no sooner is the gap narrowed to a second than it widens again.

It is notable that neither party is arranging many meetings for the county campaign. There will be a few, of course, maybe a dozen on each side, but it is to be emphatically not a spellbinders' contest. The public will likely appreciate the change. The time has passed for arousing public sentiment by the glare of torches, the blare of trumpets and the rattle of empty oratory. A few public meetings, addressed by able speakers who are competent to speak for their parties, and whose speeches can be reproduced in the public prints, better serve the purpose of enlightening the public upon the issues of the day. The modern citizen prefers to read and digest an authoritative statement rather than listen to a silver-tongued orator who has, himself, but a vague idea of the principles at stake.

Chairman Upperman of the select council corporations committee has announced an intention to call a meeting of his committee some time next week. The meeting will be after the meeting of select council on Monday so that whatever bills may be reported will have to wait two weeks for consideration, or be taken up by a special session. The business for which the committee is to be called is the discussion of the Duquesne way franchise, but it is just possible Chairman Upperman and his associates may, at the same time release two Baltimore & Ohio ordinances which have been held up since early summer without reason or excuse. One of these measures means larger permanent employment of labor in the city and both mean large temporary employment, but select council and Upperman's committee have prevented any action during a favorable season for construction.

Pitiable, indeed, is the wreck of the Lake Superior consolidated, carrying down all the vast fabric of the Francis H. Clergue schemes. A year ago Mr. Clergue was advertised as an organizing genius, who had made the forest and earth yield untold wealth. He was then piling project upon project; putting in millions upon millions of capital; harnessing the power of the Sault Ste. Marie falls and turning wood into money. The whole structure has fallen because Mr. Clergue and his associates overreached themselves and were expanding when the money market contracted. They have valuable assets and a good plan, but they have no ready money. Their thousands of workmen cannot eat wood pulp or iron ore and unfortunately the company's securities will not buy bread and meat. Thus one of Canada's greatest industries has been eclipsed and is threatened with complete ruin unless the creditors can reach some rational conclusion on a plan to give the management an extension of time and some additional assistance to pull it through. That would be the sensible course.

Secretary Shaw's Action.

Developments of financial policy through administrative action are proceeding rapidly in these days. Secretary Shaw announces that "owing to the scarcity of 2 per cent bonds, both for circulation and as security for government deposits, he will renew funding operations to the extent of $20,000,000." This is a frank admission that the government is borrowing money at 2 per cent to provide the banks with a basis for note circulation and with securities upon which to obtain deposits. With the national treasury overflowing and a surplus of several hundred millions constantly increasing, there is no conceivable reason for refunding operations upon government account. Instead of issuing $20,000,000 in new bonds to take the place of maturing bonds, there are funds in plenty to redeem them outright.

That to bolster up the bank circulation and counteract its tendency to decline is the real purpose of the secretary of the treasury is further shown by his announcement that "approved state and municipal bonds" will be accepted as security for government deposits. This means that so far as possible the issue of the new 2 per cents is to be devoted to stimulating bank note circulation. By way of additional inducement it is the announced policy of the secretary in making deposits of government funds to discriminate against banks who retire circulation. It has been a profitable operation for banks to retire circulation and then use the bonds which had been pledged to secure circulation as security upon which to obtain deposits of government funds. Secretary Shaw is now blocking this maneuver.

In accepting state and municipal bonds as security for deposits Secretary Shaw assumes an authority which the Aldrich bill of last session proposed to confer. If Secretary Shaw is right in his construction of the law, the Aldrich bill might as well be dropped, as it is unnecessary. Such determination of legislative controversy by administrative action is not unusual in our financial history, and is a result of congressional inability to act with promptness and decision. The administration is compelled by pressure of circumstances to do something, and hence finally makes the law to suit the occasion. A noted case in point is the establishment of the gold redemption fund, now a cardinal feature of our financial policy. It was originally established by Secretary Sherman, without any specific warrant of law. It was accepted as a fact and subsequent financial legislation conformed to it.

While executive authority at times develops unsuspected resources, as is abundantly shown by Secretary Shaw's recent proceedings, yet it is extremely unlikely that the question of currency supply can be settled without radical legislative treatment of the problem. And the longer it is postponed the more complicated it becomes. Secretary Shaw certainly appears to have gone to the extreme limit of existing law in his efforts to make the present system work.

As to Platforms.

The Dispatch, as the organ of the Citizens party, was in a difficult situation in dealing with the party platform adopted by the Republican party. The Citizens party has no platform now, and all the platform pledges it made in the past have been ignored. Being unable to directly commend the Citizens party, the Dispatch tried to extenuate its offenses by arguing that the Republican party is just as bad and its pledges equally valueless. In doing so the Dispatch has to ignore or misrepresent notorious facts.

Referring to the purification of the water supply, the Dispatch asks "what action has the minority taken to force that issue to settlement." The Republican party gave to that issue the only sensible and practical treatment it has received, and if the work had not been suspended by the efforts of the Citizens party we should be having filtered water now at half the cost now estimated as necessary. As to forcing action now, how can a minority force action?

The Dispatch also asks what the Republican party has done on the franchise tax issue and vaguely observes, "The attitude of the leaders at Monday night's meeting is sufficiently illuminative." It is illuminative of the fact that the Republican party means business and no humbug, and therefore proposed to put upon the city solicitor the duty and responsibility of preparing the measures. That is the proper way to proceed, and the resistance of the Citizens leaders demonstrates their lack of sincerity. Franchise taxation is with them simply a dicker with the Orphans for their campaign support. Their ordinance is, by its terms, for this campaign only, and implies a yearly invitation to the public service corporations to "come and see us." But the Republican members, when they had discharged themselves of responsibility in this respect by urging amendments voted for the ordinance. The gross receipts ordinance passed by common council over a year ago and hung up in select council ever since, received the support of the Republican party. They have done what a minority party can do and have fulfilled their pledges so far as they are able.

The Dispatch indiscreetly asks, "How about making the collector of delinquent taxes a salaried officer, another campaign promise?" Yes, how about that? The Republican members of Allegheny councils actually passed an ordinance through select council abolishing the delinquent tax office as a separate department and consolidating it with the city treasurer's office, where it belongs; but the whole city administration elected by the Citizens party turned out to lobby against the passage of the measure, and by straining every nerve defeated it in common council by Citizens votes exclusively. In Pittsburgh measures to reform the office introduced by Republican members have been smothered in committee, the latest instance being only last Friday.

While there are evidences of corrupt alliance between individual Republican members and the Citizens party graft control of councils, yet the Republican party record as a whole in all these matters has been honorable and consistent. The evidences of individual perfidy are noted and will be laid before the party voters in the next councilmanic election; but in the meantime the responsibility for legislation rests, not upon the Republican party, but upon the fusion combination which controls the city administration and both branches of council. The pledges of the Republican party platform are entitled to confidence because the Republican party has been faithful to its pledges in the past, and so far as the power of a minority party can extend, it has been and still is endeavoring to secure fulfillment of those pledges.

Temperance Text Books.

The condemnation passed by a committee of the State Medical society upon the character of the text books on physiology used in our schools agrees with that of prominent educators. Since the requirement was established by law that such text books should contain "scientific" instruction in temperance, text books on physiology have assumed a character which has evoked strong protests from disinterested sources. A recent report of the United States commissioner of education brought together a number of articles by prominent educators condemning the text books gotten up to comply with this requirement, many of them with the indorsement of the Women's Christian Temperance union. The committee of the State Medical society only repeat what other competent investigators have previously declared when they say that these text books "contain many errors and much misleading information."

This subject is instructively discussed in a recent work entitled "The Physiological Aspects of the Liquor Problem," containing the results of scientific research of the highest and most disinterested character. The work is issued under the auspices of the Committee of Fifty, organized by prominent citizens to secure an impartial and scientific study of the subject. It includes bishops, clergymen, educators, scientists and leaders of social reform, and is under the presidency of Mayor Seth Low of New York. The association has issued a number of reports on various phases of the liquor problem. In 1893 Dr. J. S. Billings, United States army; Gen. Francis A. Waller, president of the Massachusetts School of Technology, and Prof. R. H. Chittenden of Yale university were appointed a committee on the physiological and pathological aspects of the drink problem. This committee secured the assistance of distinguished experts, and their reports, in two volumes, were recently published. The subject of present instruction on the physiological action of alcohol is discussed by Prof. H. P. Bowditch of the Harvard medical school and W. C. F. Dodge, professor of physiology in Clark university, Worcester, Mass. This sub-committee review in detail the character of the temperance text books on physiology and say in conclusion that "under the name of 'scientific temperance instruction' there has been grafted upon the public school system in nearly all our states an educational scheme relating to alcohol which is neither scientific nor temperate nor instructive." It is declared that "a prolonged struggle will be necessary to free our public school system of the incubus which rests upon it." The general committee indorses these conclusions, and it is now one of the objects of the Committee of Fifty in their efforts to promote wise and salutory treatment of the liquor problem to rid the public schools of these so-called temperance text books.

A curious feature of the case, according to the researches of the committee, is that the same influences which have foisted these inaccurate and misleading books upon the public schools are promoting the sale of so-called "tonics" and "temperance drinks," some of which contain more alcohol than beer or wine. One "tonic," of which 300,000 bottles are sold annually in Massachusetts, contains 26.2 per cent of alcohol. Prof. Bowditch remarks that "very large quantities of drinks containing a greater percentage of alcohol than ordinary wines and beers are consumed among the most rigorous of total abstinence circles, and one of the foremost advocates of total abstinence has permitted her picture to be used as an advertisement of one of the most alcoholic of those drinks."

The Alaska Boundary.

David T. Watson, Esq., has begun his argument on the American side before the Alaskan boundary commission, and it is evident he does not intend to follow the example of Attorney General Finlay, on the Canadian side, of threshing out the arguments contained in the documents in the case. He has begun with the assertion that in 1867 the United States published the map prepared by Russia in 1826 and the boundary there shown was not disputed. In fact that boundary was not questioned until the discovery of gold in the region near the boundary, at which time Canada suddenly discovered the convenience of having a seaport near the gold fields.

Counsel for Canada interrupted to say that Canada did not control the Northwest Territory in 1867, but was given jurisdiction in 1871. Mr. Watson went on to show that in 1874 Canada virtually accepted the boundary as marked on the Russian map. Thus the Canadian counsel's contention upon the date of Canadian responsibility fell. We anticipate that in the same way Mr. Watson will meet and demolish the Canadian points, because the matter is principally a question of facts, the facts are against Canada and Mr. Watson has a clever faculty for assimilating facts in their proper order and relation.

In short, this Alaskan boundary contention on the part of Canada has no foundation. It has been raised on the discovery of gold which gives value to the territory and makes seacoast privileges desirable. But the United States is no Transvaal republic to be driven in for a mere matter of a gold range, and so a commission of adjustment is preferred to a resort to arms. And when the United States proves its right, Great Britain will surrender Canada's contention with as good grace as it can summon for the occasion.

The plan of fumigating all the money in the Thirteenth ward is not a bad one, in view of the approach of election day. It may be necessary, however, to do this work all over again after that date.

To call a police magistrate in Allegheny a "lobster" cost the man who did it thirty days to the workhouse. We haven't any lese majeste laws and we manage to get along without them.

It is up to the labor delegates now in Washington to remember that Theodore Roosevelt is president of the greatest union on earth and that he is, to use a popular phrase, "on to his job."

The circumstance that a man who confesses that he committed murder says his conscience has since troubled him is fresh evidence that too many consciences do not get busy soon enough.

Of course the street car people naturally take it into consideration that the early morning open cars are so crowded that the people will keep each other comfortable, except on the edges.

The British counsel in the Canadian boundary dispute make it plain that they want access to the sea. Couldn't a special excursion to Atlantic City be arranged to settle the difficulty?

IN THE EYE OF FAME.

J. T. Trowbridge, Arlington's "grand old man" of literature, was 76 years old on September 18.

The first naturalization papers ever granted to a woman in Cuyahoga county, O., were issued recently to Mary Ann Argyle, an Englishwoman.

Bishop Murphy of Hobart, Tasmania, has the distinction of being the oldest Roman Catholic prelate in the world now in active service. He was born on the day the battle of Waterloo was fought.

The Rev. Dr. Edmund Dowse, the Gladstone of Congregationalism in this county, who has been preaching for sixty-five years, and who is the oldest Congregational minister in point of service in the pulpit, was 90 years old Thursday of last week.

The countess of Warwick intends to establish agricultural settlements in different parts of England, where women who are expert in horticulture, dairy farming and poultry rearing can work on the co-operative principles. She believes that the problem of agricultural depression can be solved by training intelligent and educated women to this calling.

Justice Lore's Charge.

The charge delivered by Chief Justice Lore, of Delaware, to the grand jury at Wilmington, having for its text the riot that took place there last summer, has the ring of character and justice. Will it avail to bring the perpetrators of the crime committed to book? One could hope so, but at the same time must confess that in the present state of public feeling on the subject of lynching the chances are all the other way. No man, we may feel sure, will go to the gallows for assisting in burning George White to death. Still, deliverances of this character from the bench are not without great service in holding up before the country the true character of men who compose mobs for murder, and the necessity in the common interests of moving against them.—Washington Star.

That Franchise Tax.

The ordinance recently introduced into Pittsburgh councils taxing public service corporations upon their street franchises is right in principle and probably sound in law. But the time and manner of its introduction give rise to the suspicion that it may be a "hold up" for a campaign contribution rather than a genuine tax ordinance.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

THE CLUTCH OF CHANCE.

For the man who wins there is pomp and pride,
And the laurel wreath, and the cheer beside;
And for him who fights but in fighting falls
There are echos still of the trumpet calls—
But there is no balm in his bitter lot
If he meets defeat with his fight unfought.

There are sore defeats that are all unknown
And they send their gloom to the proudest throne;
And they plunge their shade on the humblest life—
For they bring no stress and they bring no strife;
By a time or chance is the loser caught
And he knows defeat ere his fight is fought.

There are singers mute—and their hearts are wrung
And their souls are thrilled with the songs unsung;
There are men who dreamed of a picture fair—
But the hand is still and the canvas bare;
And the others, too, with their goals unsought—
They have seen defeat with their fights unfought.

And has heard the lance and the armor crash—
If he loses then he will shed no tears;
He has dealt his blows, he has heard the cheers,
But his soul must shrink from he knows not what
When he meets defeat with his fight unfought.
—W. D. Nesbit, in Chicago Tribune.

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

The country is probably safe.

The birth rate among the common people, generally designated as the lower classes, is given at 15 per hour, by Dr. Haupt, commissioner of the New York board of education.

You will note that this is the hourly rate, not daily or monthly.

The mortality in this class is heavy, fully one-half die within five years.

Is it any wonder they are howling for more school houses and greater, or that so many schools are working double turn for the teachers and half turns for the children?

Fortunately for all, these solons recognize the fact that the problem is up to them; also, that it must be solved at whatever cost and trouble.

Nor is New York the only city in which the children are forcing themselves upon the attention of those in power.

We hear complaints of crowding right here at home, but they are not to be compared with the complaints made in other cities.

+ + + +

Naturally you turn to the better class, the Murry Hill, up-town sections for figures to balance those from the lower districts.

But they don't balance worth a cent.

Dr. Haupt reports only one birth per month in these sections as against 15 per hour in the crowded sections.

No wonder the poor man is half crazy, and sees things when asleep, and hears things when awake.

You may not think that a fair division of children. It does not seem to be right; and yet nature generally knows her business, and attends to it, too.

If babies are not wanted in the up-town districts the stork will keep away.

But there are worse visitors, and more to be dreaded, than the stork.

You may have heard it said that the absence of flies is a sure sign of a pleague; while a scarcity of squirrels indicate a grain famine.

What might be the absence, or even the scarcity of babies pretend? Or, rather, what might it not portend?

This question becomes all the more alarming when we stop to consider that in this country the majority rules.

+ + + +

However, the country is probably safe.

It is safe as long as its management is in the hands of the people—natural, human, working people.

Industry is the key to health, wealth and prosperity—that prosperity which prospers the nation as well as the individual.

Those who are compelled to work become disciplined to do things, and to do them at the right time, and in the right way.

Those who are not compelled to work are not subject to discipline, but go ahead in their own way, and a poor way it usually is.

The men folks among these have to look after automobiles, polo, yachting, sporting and the like, and have no time for the commoner, or even the standard things of life.

The women folks are so taken up with dress, travel, receptions, and the various galetics of life, that they have no time to fool away caring for babies. All botheration of that sort they leave to the common herd; and the common herd is attending to it, all right.

And then there is a kick and a howl when the common herd demands school houses, teachers, and entertainment for the new members of the herd.

Children are bothersome during infancy and childhood, but if you don't bother with them then they will bother you later on—bother you to build prison pens, pay police and court expenses, and such.

Can it be that nature regards higher society as unfit to survive?

We know, or at least believe, that nature strictly enforces the law which provides for, and compels the survival of the fittest. Therefore, according to this law children of the working classes are more fit to be, than are the children of the workless classes. This would mean, also, that working people are more fit to survive, and to continue on earth than those who do not have to, or don't want to work.

This does not prove that all of the children of all working people will be profitable and worthy to live; and that their environment is more favorable to their development of men and women fit to survive.

These, must of necessity, be industrious, and practical industry is what makes men useful; and they in turn make the nation great.

Have you every known any one to be either useful or great who was not industrious?

Or have you ever known any one to be strictly, or even reasonably moral, who was indolent, lazy and generally distinclined to work, or to be actively employed in something to make the world better for his having lived?

No doubt you have heard that old saw: "Satan finds some work for idle hands and minds."

There is something in it.

* * * *

Would you work industriously if you didn't have to? Would you work as earnestly and diligently as you do now?

Maybe not. Indeed the chances are that you would knock off as soon as you learned that you didn't have to work any more if you didn't want to.

And of what use would you then be to the world, to society, to yourself?

Time would soon begin to hang heavily, and you would turn hither and thither in search of rest and entertainment.

Just here is where Satan would get his work in. He knows his business, and he attends to it. He wouldn't allow you to want and wait very long, but would take you into some high place and show you just lots of nice things, any or all of which you could have.

And with that suavity of manner, and clever palaver for which he is so famous, he would quiet your conscience, and lead you to think that you had been wrong in your notions as to what was right and proper for you to do.

Busy men and women—busy about matters and things necessary to the comfort and welfare of themselves, their families, and their neighbors—rarely go wrong. And it is among these that you find the happiest, most contented, most useful people.

* * * *

Anyway, we had better look carefully after the children of the laboring classes, and see to it that they are given fair chances to become better men and women than their forbears.

And we can't get about this any too soon, for their tastes and habits form early in life, and are not easily changed.

There isn't much use, really, in trying to reform men and women after they have entered life on their own account. As a rule, they continue much the same in morals, in tastes, and in habits as when they left school.

Children, to become well conditioned men and women, must be well born, well reared, and well coached. And they must be taught to respect competent coachers, and to heed their advice and directions. This comes of discipline—it is discipline.

The feelings of the people seem to be undergoing a change concerning schools and schooling, not unlike that which has taken place concerning religious faith and teaching.

Indeed the people are being stirred up on all sides these days, and it behooves us to get in our best licks for the boys and girls, and for the classes in particular which nature shows a disposition to propagate and to develop.

Were parents to aim to raise families of healthy, hardy children rather than to get rich, they would be doing great things for the world and for themselves.

Useless Agitation.

A fatal objection to Senator Carmack's bill to repeal the Fifteenth and Sixteenth amendments to the federal Constitution is that there is no possibility of its adoption by a sufficient number of states even if congress should pass it. Hence the introduction of the bill would merely cause a bootless agitation. These amendments, it is said, are failures, incapable of enforcement by congress or the courts. There are other provisions of the Constitution that cannot be adjusted to existing conditions, but they cannot be repealed on that account.—Philadelphia Record.

Talked of in New York

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Old Columbia began her 150th academic year this afternoon. Bishop Potter offered the opening prayer, and after a brief address by President Butler, Prof. Peck, professor of Latin and literature, but better known to the world at large as a forceful and entertaining writer on literary subjects, as well as a creditable spinner of fiction yarns, delivered an address on "The Impress of the University." Then the singing of the "Alma Mater," which was the joint gift of Mrs. Goelet and her son, Robert Goelet, Jr., in memory of the late Robert Goelet, who was a graduate of Columbia, class of 1860, was intoned. President Butler accepted it in the name of the university. There was an immense assemblage to witness the exercises and a spirit of decorum prevailing which did not suggest in anything the lively times of the campus when the men are turned loose on a bright afternoon in term time. Columbia is an important element of up-town life, for it never allows itself to be forgotten when once it has got down to work, and there is a general feeling of satisfaction in quiet Harlem that the vacation is over on Morningside Heights.

Brave in War and Love.

Lieut. Andrew J. Dougherty, who married one of the lovely Ah Pong girls, and who was mentioned in The Gazette two days ago, has several relatives in New York. One of his cousins told me today that "Andy," as his intimates call him, is the son of an ex-mayor of Mound City, Ill., who is one of the solid citizens of that place. "Andy" enlisted as a private, but his bravery in the Philippines soon caused him to be promoted, step by step, to the lieutenancy.

They Liked Their Teacher.

That useful craft, the "Seeing New York" yacht, has been pressed into the service of various educational institutions in this city. St. Agatha's school, which is connected with Trinity Corporation, yesterday sent one of its classes out to see New York by water, that being its "special study." The young man with the megaphone who describes the wonders of the city as the yacht steams around Manhattan Island was the instructor for the time being, and the young ladies in the class declared he was a most entertaining teacher. The same class will take a ride on an automobile coach to see New York by land, with another megaphone man, next week.

Cleveland Keeps in Sight.

Grover Cleveland does not appear to be troubling himself about the possibility of his being asked to accept another nomination for the presidency, but he is not idle in a public way, for all that. He will make an address at the laying of the corner stone of the College of the City of New York next Tuesday. John Huston Finley, LL. D., will be installed as president at the same time.

"Joe" Gregg Has a New Job.

"Joe" C. Gregg, a well known Pittsburgher, who has been acting as railroad contractor and excursion agent for a circus all summer, is in New York. He is about to start on a southern trip as pioneer of a theatrical company, playing Barries' comedy, "The Professor's Love Story."

Poor Relation Has a Day.

With the approach of the chrysanthemum season, it is interesting to note that the dahlia, a poor relation of the "mum," is basking in the sunshine of metropolitan favor. There is a flower show at the American Institute building uptown, at which it was expected there would be a much larger display of dahlias than there is. As it is the 300 varieties, which so closely resembles the ragged chrysanthemum that it may easily be mistaken for it.

Immigration Is Looking Up.

Immigration at this port is booming. There was an enormous influx yesterday, and today there is a list of 2,461 aliens who came in on the various steamers last night and early this morning. As there are six more ships to arrive, it is expected that the total will reach 15,000 before Saturday night.

Paths of Glory Lead But to the Grave.

Not more than 40 persons, most of them not relatives, attended the funeral services over the remains of Orlando D. Dexter, at St. Thomas's church in this city today. The body of the murdered millionaire was brought down from the Adirondacks yesterday in a handsome coffin. It was covered with white flowers in the church. Three carriages followed the hearse to Woodlawn, where the body was placed in the family mausoleum.

Delay Was Expensive.

It would be hard on a shoemaker or tailor to be fined heavily for not finishing work at the time promised. It is doubtful whether any ordinary shoemaker or tailor in Pittsburgh or anywhere else, would submit to such a punishment. A firm that builds a bridge cannot help it, however. The John A. Roebling Sons Company, which strung the cables for the new East river bridge, will be compelled to pay $175,000 for delay in completing its contract. At least that is the penalty imposed. Whether the city can collect the money will be determined some time in the distant future, after the matter has been argued in the courts to the last possible gasp. It is thought, by some of the sapient New Yorkers, that the penalty may become an issue in the municipal campaign, too.

Says Fulton Talked Too Much.

Jerome, the district attorney; Fulton, secretary of the Citizens-Union, and other personages, are all mixed up in a fierce scrap. It seems that Fulton has talked more than President Cutting thinks he should have done, while Jerome says he did just right. Jerome wears a sort of "I have ate the canary" smile.

Brand New Steamer in Port.

It is always an incident of interest when a new steamer appears at this port. One came in today, direct from the builder's yard at Greenock, Scotland. She is the "Auchenerag" and is intended for the China trade. She is 345 feet in length, and her tonnage is 2,542.

The Canal Problem.

The actual death of the Panama canal treaty with Colombia by lapse, calls for no excited comment. It had long been foreseen and discounted, and commented upon pro and contra. The right of Colombia thus to kill it was beyond dispute. With the motives which prompted her to such folly we have no concern. They are her business, not ours. That she has made a great mistake there can, from the American point of view, be little doubt. That she will in time realize that fact we are equally confident. For her own sake we hope the realization will not come too late.

For ourselves the most pertinent and practical question is, What next? The answer to it is not in all respect a matter of course. The one thing certain is that the United States should act in accordance with its own rights and its own interest. Colombia, we have said, had a right to kill the treaty. Equally, the United States has a right to refuse to be dictated to or in any way forced into offering better terms than those which have been rejected and which were, in fact, comprehensively generous. It also has a right to maintain its treaty privileges and its well defined and long established policy on the canal question—that is to say, that this country is to be the sole guarantor of Isthmian neutrality and that the Isthmian canal is to be "an American canal, under American control."

It is entirely within the discretion of this country to await for a reasonable time renewed overtures from Colombia or to turn to the alternative Nicaragua route. In making choice between these two courses the government will doubtless exercise deliberation and careful judgment. If it chooses the former, it will do so because it believes that course will the better serve American interests, and not because it wants to help Colombia out of a hole. If it chooses the latter, it will have no fear of the Nicaragua canal being paralleled and made unprofitable by a rival at Panama. There will be only one canal across the American isthmus in our time, and that will be the one constructed by the United States.—New York Tribune.

Two courses are now open to the president: He may extend the time granted for the acceptance of the treaty by Colombia in the hope that some agreement which does not modify the bargain in any essential particular may be obtained eventually—a policy which is open to the criticism that it may bring about a period of indefinite delay, with still further quibbling, haggling and evasion on the part of the rulers of the South American Republic. Or he may act under the authority explicitly conferred upon him by congress in the Spooner bill and enter promptly into negotiations with Nicaragua and Costa Rica for the construction of the canal through their territories. The latter course might have the advantage of bringing Colombia to terms quickly. It would at any rate furnish proof that the United States is in earnest in its determination to build a canal as soon as possible.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

+ + + +

Colombia acted with entire propriety in the matter of the preliminaries to ratification, ordering a special congressional election and an extra session of the congress so elected and making dignified haste toward the final consideration of the treaty, but ratification was refused and the treaty fell to the ground. Now come alternative proposals from Bogota, which, as far as they are described, are entirely unsatisfactory. Considering, therefore, the original delay in the negotiations and the ultimate rejection of the treaty, further contemplation of the Panama route under the statute is unwarranted. The country expects the president to act with reasonable promptness in declaring that the dealings with Colombia are definitely closed, in order that negotiations with Nicaragua and Costa Rica may be begun. The American people demand an Isthmian canal. Some prefer Panama to Nicaragua; others prefer Nicaragua to Panama. But excluding the transcontinental railway interests the nation is practically unanimous in favor of either Nicaragua or Panama in preference to no canal at all.—Washington Star.

+ + + +

Whether the president thinks it wise to begin negotiations with Nicaragua and Costa Rica at once or prefers to wait a little longer, he will not forget that the route via Panama is the one preferred. Should a sure and speedy way to get that route be opened he may still consider it. There is more than a possibility that if the Colombians learn that this government is conducting negotiations with the Central American republics they will be much more desirous to come to reason and negotiate a treaty on fair terms. At the same time, if we begin to negotiate in earnest with Nicaragua and Costa Rica we must treat them honorably and stand by our agreements with them.—Chicago News.

+ + + +

By permitting the canal treaty to lapse without even endeavoring to obtain an extension of the time for ratification the government at Bogota has indicated the uselessness of any effort on its part to bring the Colombian congress around to its view. Perhaps the new governor of Panama, who is a member of the Colombian senate, revealed the true inwardness of the opposition when he remarked in a recent interview that the senators were actuated principally by their hostility to President Marroquin. Should General Reyes be chosen to the presidency at the forthcoming election, as is generally expected, the objections to the treaty would vanish. If this be a correct diagnosis of the case the outlook for the ultimate perfection of a treaty on identical lines with the one which has fallen through would not be altogether hopeless.—Philadelphia Record.

+ + + +

President Roosevelt's plain duty is to waste no more time in paltering, but exercise the power conferred upon him, obey the mandate of congress and, taking the protocols already signed with Nicaragua and Costa Rica as a basis, proceed to negotiate for the Isthmian waterway that will be wholly national in conception—the Nicaraguan canal.—New York Herald.

Righteous Indignation.

Rear Admiral Evans has directed a merited blow at the members of the court martial which tried Assistant Paymaster Richworth Nicholson, who was charged with drunkenness and scandalous conduct. While under the influence of liquor on land Nicholson assaulted an old man and afterwards denied it, though it was proved to be a fact. He was found guilty, but was only sentenced to a reduction of five numbers in grade. This naturally aroused the indignation of Admiral Evans, the reviewing officer, who holds that Nicholson should have been dismissed from the service. A "travesty of justice" is what he calls the sentence and he accuses the members of the court-martial with violating their oaths. It is a burning criticism, but it is evidently justified. The navy cannot retain public confidence when a man proved to be guilty of such offenses as those charged against Nicholson is retained in the service.—Philadelphia Press.

CHURCH SEES ITS FIRST CENTENNIAL

Nearly 2,000 People Participate in Exercises at Hilands Church in Perrysville.

ADDRESS BY FORMER PASTOR

Crowds Came in Rigs from Surrounding Country and Many from City Attend. Miss Jane Patterson Honors Memory of First Pastor, Her Brother.

Coming from all parts of the surrounding country, from Pittsburgh, Allegheny and many of the suburbs; traveling afoot, on horseback or in rigs of all descriptions, over 1,500 people assembled in the grove surrounding the Hilands Presbyterian church, in Perrysville, yesterday, to participate in the exercises marking the first centennial of the congregation. The assemblage was a novel one. From miles around came farmers and their families in wagons. Some, richer in devoutness than in worldly goods, rode two on one horse. In traps of more or less magnificence former members, or children and grandchildren of the early organizers of the church, attended.

No better weather could have favored those whose religious ties or family traditions induced them to take part in the events of the day. Early in the morning the crowd began arriving, and before noon more than a thousand persons gathered about the big tables loaded down with a feast that would have done honor to a harvest-home gathering. Twelve large tables, each seating 235 persons, were set out in the grove surrounding the church and the parsonage.

The Commissary Committee.

Mrs. Charles H. Schermer was in charge of the commissary committee and was assisted at the tables by Miss Jennie McDonald, Mrs. Robert Wallace, Mrs. Robert Swan, Miss Kate Crider, Mrs. Richard Berberich, Mrs. Clara Cuncleman, Mrs. Robert Hilliard, Miss Rena King, Mrs. Austin English, Miss Dora Good, Mrs. Harry Zeigenheim and Mrs. Annie Lutz. Mrs. George Ebenberg had charge of the kitchen.

The feature of the day was the presentation of a bronze tablet in memory of the Rev. Robert Patterson, who was pastor of the church from 1807 to 1832. The tablet was presented to the church by the former pastor's sister, Miss Matilda Patterson, who, despite her more than four-score years, was present and heard her brother's grandson, Attorney Thomas Patterson, deliver the presentation speech.

The other speakers were the Rev. Dr. D. S. Kennedy, the Rev. Charles A. McCrea, the pastor; the Rev. Dr. J. D. Moffat, the Rev. J. Allison Platts, the Rev. J. M. Smith, a former pastor; the Rev. William Sangree, the Rev. W. W. Morton and the Rev. J. J. Graham.

The address of Mr. Smith, who was the pastor in the early 70's, elicited considerable emotion among the older members, their memories being stirred by the reminiscences in a historical sketch. From the records of the Allegheny presbytery the following history of the old church was taken:

Story of the Church.

The Presbyterian congregation of Hilands is no doubt one of the oldest organizations west of the Allegheny river, but owing to the loss of all its records prior to the year 1835 the exact date of its organization cannot be given. The earliest historical mention we have of this church is found in the records of the synod of Pittsburgh. In the statistical report of the presbytery of Erie, dated October 5, 1803, we find the following:

"The congregation of Hiland, in the presbytery of Erie, applied for supplies and John McPherrin was sent for four Sabbaths."

In the year 1813 the congregation was transferred by the synod to the presbytery of Redstone. At the time the transfer was made the church had a membership of 54. In the year 1820 its membership had increased to 115. In 1821 the congregation, by act of the supreme court of the state of Pennsylvania, became an incorporate body. In 1822 Hilands, with some other churches, was transferred to the presbytery of Ohio, and several years later became part of the presbytery of Allegheny. The names of the original organizers are unknown, but there is pretty good evidence that the first elders were John Sample, Sr., John Shaw and Allen Means.

The church lot was a perfect square, containing 10 acres, donated by Gen. John Wilkins on July 10, 1812, to William Courtney, John Mason and James Sample, as trustees of the church.

The first house of worship consisted of a rude tent about 10 feet square, covered with clap-boards. The next was a log house and was built about the year 1807. The present brick structure was built in 1836, and has since been improved several times.

SIX WITNESSES WITH BUSY EYES

NAMES WANTED FOR EFFECT

Allegheny Republicans Continue the Work of Forming District Organizations—Scrutinizing the Administration's Record for Campaign Ventilation.

The headquarters of the Republican and Citizens political organizations in Allegheny were scenes of activity yesterday. At the Republican headquarters in East Diamond street more district organization meetings were held and at the Citizens headquarters in Kenyon hall the ward chairmen went in and out getting the blanks to be circulated for signatures of qualified voters to the nomination papers of the Citizens party candidates.

At the Citizens headquarters it was said that the same plan followed on former occasions would be adopted this time. The law requires that the signatures of nomination paper signers shall be witnessed by six men, who must make affidavit to that effect. Under the old method of circulating blanks on the streets too many witnesses would be needed, so that the plan now is to hold meetings in every ward and have the blanks signed at the meetings, with six men present to see every signature put down. The blanks were also received at the Citizens headquarters in Pittsburgh and the same plan will be followed here.

To get the name of a candidate on the official ballot the petitions of 2 per cent of the vote cast for the candidate receiving the highest plurality at the last county election must be obtained. The Allegheny Citizens say that in consequence not more than 1,000 signature are required, but an effort will be made to secure the names of many thousands, in the belief that the "moral" effect of having a big list of names to the nomination papers will be great.

The Allegheny Republicans believe that whatever moral effect the Citizens party nomination papers may have will be largely offset by the immoral effect of the party's record. That record is being searched and the results of the search are being compiled and will be sprung at the psychological moment. Protected speakeasies and gambling houses will be designated, the administration's extravagance in the expenditure of municipal funds will be thoroughly ventilated, the record of the health bureau will be thoroughly exposed and an answer will be required to the question why an effort is made to have city councils create the office of a superintendent of a bureau of detectives, a bureau composed of six men, when the cry has been that no money was on hand for such an important object as the prevention of the spread of smallpox.

Beavers Again Surrenders.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—George W. Beavers surrendered himself today and was arraigned before United States Commissioner Ridgway on the two indictments recently returned against him in Washington for alleged conspiracy in connection with contracts between the Bundy Time Clock Company of Binghamton, N. Y., and the postoffice department in connection with which transaction State Senator George Green of Binghamton was indicted. Commissioner Ridgway fixed the examination for next Wednesday and Beavers was released of $10,000 bail.

Bad Oil Fire at Beaumont.

BEAUMONT, TEX., Sept. 23.—Fire that started at noon today in the east end of the Shoestring oil district destroyed 35 derricks, causing a loss estimated at $125,000. The principal loser was the West Davis Co. Other losers include the Davy Crockett, Emmett Landy and Jackson Tobin companies.

WANDERED INTO WOODS AND ATE GRASS AND NUTS

John Hiller, Who Has Been Missing from the South Side for Three Weeks, Discovered Insane in Washington County.

Losing all reason John Hiller of No. 103 South Twelfth street, three weeks ago suddenly forsook his work and home to follow an hallucination that he must subsist upon green grass, herbs and roots. Yesterday he was found in a dense wood near the Washington county home insanely devouring nuts, twigs and wild plants. His feet were bare and bleeding from contact with stones and exposure to the weather, and his body was barely clothed at all. The hair upon his head was filled with thistles and dirt from the woods and his face scratched by brush and covered with a growth of whiskers, looked wildly inhuman. The man has completely forgotten his identity.

The case was reported to No. 7 police station about 7 o'clock last evening, where Mrs. Hiller, the wife of the demented man has been a caller for aid almost every day during the past three weeks. She was immediately notified, but told Inspector Kelley that she did not have the money with which to bring her husband to Pittsburgh.

"I know that when he sees me he'll be all right," she said.

The man's family has been in destitute circumstances ever since his disappearance, and according to the police perhaps for some days before he left. The family, which consists of the father, mother and several children, came here a month or more ago from St. Louis. Mr. Hiller had at one time by thrift saved a fortune of $10,000, but adverse circumstances caused him to lose every cent. He came here hoping to repair his lost fortune. He managed after much trouble to find work as a laborer on the construction gang of the Pittsburgh & Birmingham street railway. The work was too much for him and one afternoon three week ago he was taken sick. He took a car for his home. He failed to get off at his street and was carried to the end of the line, where he was put off. That was the last seen of him.

His wife has called at No. 7 police station day after day for alms and information concerning her lost husband. Yesterday afternoon she informed the sergeant at No. 7 if some one did not soon come ot her rescue she would end her life and those of her children.

TO GIVE HEARINGS ON DUQUESNE WAY MATTER

Corporations Committee of Select Council to Hold Meeting Next Week.

Select Councilman John Upperman stated yesterday that he would call a meeting of the corporations committee of select council, of which he is chairman, for some day next week to take up the Duquesne way ordinance of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The meeting probably will be held some day in the week after Tuesday. Chairman Upperman gave no indication what disposition the committee would make of the ordinance.

He said a number of persons desired to be heard in regard to the ordinance and they would be given an opportunity to appear before the committee. The Duquesne way ordinance of the Wabash company will not be taken up until after the Pennsylvania ordinance is disposed of, the Pennsylvania measure having already passed common council and reached the committee first.

Leaders of the "orphans" in common council predict that the Pennsylvania ordinance will be amended to suit their views. Common Councilman W. C. Reitz, who is one of the 'orphans," stated that he believed the Pennsylvania company is ready to make concessions that would put the ordinance in satisfactory shape. He said he thinks the Pennsylvania company would agree to a compensation rather than grant the use of its line to the Wabash or some other company. Pennsylvania railroad officials, who have been holding a meeting in Hot Springs, Va., are expected to return home today and open negotiations for the passage of their ordinance.

ALDERMAN CHARGED WITH VIOLATING A FACTORY LAW

George I. Rudolph, deputy factory inspector of the Pittsburgh district, last night made information before Alderman Frank Schellman, against Alderman Walter Wadsworth, charging the latter with violating a state law. It is charged that Wadsworth wrote a certificate for Kate Krucoli, a 13-year-old girl, declaring that she was 14 years old, and was elegible to work in a factory. Wadsworth was out of the city and the warrant could not be served.

Negotiations Declared Off.

Negotiations between the Pittsburgh Association of the Pattern Makers' league and the Manufacturers' association were declared off by the workmen last night. The men were receiving $3.78 a day for eight hours. They asked for $4. The manufacturers offered to pay the same wages as last year, but the workmen declined.

BRUTAL ASSAULT MADE ON WOMAN

SECURED BOOTY WORTH $380

Mrs. Young Was Unable to Give a Description of the Burglars Until Several Hours Later—Her Condition Is Said to Be Serious.

Two burglars made a brutal assault on Mrs. Hugh Young, aged 28 years, at her home, Stanton avenue and McCandless street, East End, shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday morning. They beat the woman into unconsciousness, secured about $300 worth of jewels and $80 in cash and escaped. Mrs. Young's condition is considered serious.

Hugh Young, the woman's husband, who is a patternmaker, went to work early yesterday morning, leaving his wife alone in the house. Shortly afterward Mrs. Young answered a knock on the back gate, and on opening it beheld two fairly well dressed men, both apparently about 30 years of age. The men said they were broke and asked Mrs. Young for some money. She said she would give them some and went into the house to get it.

Mrs. Young returned in a few minutes and handed the men some silver coins. They took the money and then attacked the woman with their fists, beating her into unconsciousness. They dragged her into the parlor and placed her on a sofa and proceeded to ransack the house. The men found several gold rings with valuable settings and household goods aggregating in worth about $300, besides $80 in cash, which they discovered in a bureau drawer.

The men left the house with their plunder, leaving Mrs. Young unconscious and in a serious condition in the front parlor. The woman was found half an hour later by a servant who came to assist Mrs. Young in cleaning the house. A physician was sent for and the woman was brought back to consciousness and placed in bed.

Mrs. Young suffered considerable from the blows and from the shock. It was late in the afternoon before she had recovered sufficiently to give the police a description of the men. The robbery was reported at Central police station and Detective Elmore was detailed on the case. At a late hour last night the men had not been captured, although a determined effort is being made to bring them to justice.

PARK BOND FUND HAS RUN SHORT

City Lacks Money to Pay for the Property Needed for the Institute Addition.

HERRIOTT FORCED TO WAIT

He Gets $44,000 Today and Balance of Over $100,000 Out of Next Year's Appropriations—Tech Site Takes Large Slice.

The city controller will today spend the last cent of the big bond issue voted in 1899 for the extension of Schenley park, amounting to nearly $700,000. The controller's office will today give Thomas Herriott a warrant for $44,000 as part payment on his claim of $149,673 74 for his property in Mawhinney street condemned by the city and turned over to the Carnegie trustees for the addition to the institute.

Mr. Herriott yesterday called upon Assistant Controller E. S. Morrow and found that there was not enough money in the bond fund to pay the whole amount of his claim; that he would have to accept part payment on the account and wait until next year to get the balance of the regular appropriations.

The failure of the city to pay for this property verifies the statement made in The Gazette during the technical school fight that there was not enough money in the fund to pay for both the technical school site and also for the property required for the institute addition. The statement was denied at the time by Councilman W. A. Magee, chairman of the finance committee, who took the leading part in the negotiations with Andrew Carnegie for the adoption of the Flinn-Magee property. Mr. Stevenson went to New York to see Mr. Carnegie, fortified with figures to show that there was enough money on hand to buy the site at $350,000 after all the Institute property had been paid for.

Mr. Magee made the statement on the floor of councils that there was ample funds in the treasury for both purposes, and his statement was accepted. The present developments prove that Mr. Stevenson was mistaken. He will have to add over $100,000 to the appropriations for 1904 to pay Mr. Herriott in full. This $100,000, besides the $225,000 for the bureau of health and several hundred thousands of dollars for the payment of bills from last year will have a tendency to increase the annual deficiency of the city.

Mr. Herriott consented to wait for the balance of his money when he found that he would either have to take what he could get or get nothing at all.

Mr. Herriott took an appeal on the original award of the board of viewers and the jury raised his award to $185,000. The city then took an appeal and Judge John D. Shafer reduced the amount to $149,673 74, giving Herriott the alternative of accepting this or submitting to a new trial. He accepted and promptly made his demand upon the city for the payment of the money. The Carnegie trustees have not waited for the settlement of the Herriott case to remove the buildings on other properties in Mawhinney street, and the Herriott property will also be cleared away at once, but the building of the addition will not be started until next spring.

There are still several pieces of property, besides the Herriott property, which have not been settled for, but which will probably be compromised as the result of the Herriott case. This will further increase the deficiency in the bond fund and enlarge the amount that will have to be supplied out of the regular appropriations next year.

THE ANGELUS

THE ANGELUS DOES NOT PLAY THE PIANO

It is a common error to suppose the Angelus is a mechanical device that actually plays the piano. As a matter of fact, the Angelus is merely the means by which you or anybody else can play the piano better than it would be possible otherwise for anyone to play it. It enables one without experience or technical knowledge of music to produce results far exceeding the best efforts of the trained musician who lacks the aid of the Angelus.

The history of music is a story of progression from the crude and simple to more complex instruments with a constantly increasing power and range of expression. The coming of the Angelus marked the greatest advance of all. It is a far cry from the piano and the pipe organ to the flute and the lyre. And yet the advent of the Angelus marks a still greater step in the art of music.

The Angelus enables you to play any kind of music on any make of piano.

LAUNDRY WAGON USED AS A PATROL WAGON

A laundry wagon served as the patrol wagon of No. 3 police station yesterday for one arrest. When Officer Edward Walsh took charge of Thomas Walsh, at Forty-seventh and Butler streets, in the afternoon, the regular patrol wagon was undergoing repairs. The cause of the arrest was drunkenness and walking to the police station was out of the question. Several teamsters refused to allow their teams to be used by the policeman, but a driver for a laundry finally agreed and all three men were crowded into the little wagon.

We are not only ready with smart styles but with interesting prices. This is true of every department.

The suitings, silks and waist weaves are presented in magnitude that will be thrilling to every woman who loves beauty and quality, besides an opportunity to get these for at least 25 per cent less than the up-town dealers are asking.

There is nothing in the new silk effects that you will not find at this store. It is getting to be a silk store just the same as it has been a woolen suiting store for many a long year. Why is this? Simply because we are selling silks at the prices they ought to be sold at and not at what we might imagine it possible to get.

The silk business here is done on a different basis than it is elsewhere, same as all our business is.

A woman said: "I have been all around and am surprised at the showing you are making of the new Fall suitings. I am surprised, too, at the small figures at which you are selling many really smart productions. Women talk about how you are astonishing the public with your silk inducements. I am more than gratified to find such a marvelous selection of suitings to choose from."

TROOPS AIDED IN KILLING JEWS

Military and Many Christians Participated in the Anti-Semitic Riots.

DATE SET FOR ASSAULT

Hebrews Who Attempted to Go to Relief of Their Race Were Clubbed, Bayonetted or Arrested—Four Hundred Houses Demolished.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]
...IEL, RUSSIA, Sept. 23.—The Associated Press correspondent has made an investigation on the spot of the "Pogroms" as the Russians describe the anti-Semite riots, which occurred here September 11, and were renewed for several days. The riots were smaller, but perhaps more remarkable than those which took place at Kishineff, because the police and military openly sided with the plunderers and murderers, the "Pogromshiks" as the Russians called them.

The troops, supported by many educated and well-to-do Christians, formed a moveable shield behind which the "Pogromshiks" ruthlessly demolished the Jewish homes and shops and cruelly clubbed such Jews as fell into their hands, leisurely proceeding from street to street and district to district as they did so.

The trouble began September 11, a holiday, in a wrangle in the fruit and fish market between peasants and Jews. The wrangle ended in a free fight in which many were wounded, one peasant succumbing to his injuries. The peasants demanded vengeance and employed the following days, Saturday and Sunday, in inflaming the anti-Semite agitation, the leaders being an officer named Pensky and a rich merchant named Petrachenko.

Everybody knew that a pogrom would occur on Monday, and the Jews appealed for protection to Chief of Police Ravsky, who summoned an infantry regiment from the summer encampment. Thus there were 1,800 soldiers in the town. At luncheon hours on Monday the anti-Semitic railway workmen, to the number of some hundreds, began an organized attack on the Jewish houses in Xamovkaya Stre., sacking them and demolishing or spoiling the bulky articles by soaking them with kerosene. Police Chief Ravsky had placed police and troops on the Xamovkaya, but they acted as though they were intended to protect the pogromshiks from interference.

Jews who tried to cross the lines to rescue their co-religionists were brutally clubbed with the soldiers' guns, bayonetted or arrested. Altogether, nearly 400 houses and shops were wholly or partially wrecked, the windows smashed, the blinds and frames being splintered and every scrap of furniture and effects destroyed or stolen. The Jews who did not take refuge with compassionate Christians or conceal themselves in cellars, were generally beaten and in many cases dangerously wounded. Some young Jews, exasperated by the action of the police and troops, armed themselves with any available weapons and tried to force their way to the threatened houses.

BLED HIMSELF OVER A BUCKET

DEATH REPORTED AS NATURAL

It has been determined that R. W. Spring, superintendent of the Mt. Royal cemetery, Shaler township, took his own life by cutting his arms and neck. Although the death was at first reported as due to natural causes, despondency over business affairs and poor health are given as the cause. His body now lies in the Mt. Royal cemetery, having been interred Tuesday afternoon, and will be removed shortly to Baltimore, the deceased's former home. It will be accompanied by his wife, who was Miss Minnie Hugg of Baltimore, and her mother and father.

Mr. Spring had just recovered from a severe attacks of pneumonia and is said not to have entirely regained his health. He complained of feeling unwell Sunday afternoon and quite early bade his wife, two little children and mother-in-law good night. An hour afterward he was found by Mrs. Spring in a guest's bed chamber, with both wrists and neck badly severed by numerous razor cuts. He was undressed and was in a reclining position on the bed with his left arm hanging over a pail, which he had placed to catch the blood. He was barely alive when Mrs. Spring telephoned for Dr. W. B. Ray of Glenshaw, and also Dr. J. M. Douthett of Center avenue, the former arriving at the bedside first.

Beyond Surgical Aid.

He was unable to do anything, and turned the case over to Dr. Douthett, who was the family physician. The report first went to the coroner Sunday night that Mr. Spring had died of heart disease and pneumonia. This was later corrected to conform with the facts.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. Jerome Guss, pastor of the English Lutheran church, West Etna. Mr. Spring came to Pittsburgh several years ago as collector of the Pittsburgh & Allegheny Telephone Company. About a year ago he was elected superintendent of the Mt. Royal cemetery.

In Island avenue, Allegheny, on the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railroad, shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday morning, George Durkey, 55 years old, of Greensburg, was killed outright, and George Duflake, 47 years old, also of Greensburg, was seriously hurt. Duflake was taken to the Mercy hospital. The men were working with a section gang and on account of the fog did not see the accommodation train coming out of Allegheny. The train ploughed through 17 workmen, but the others escaped injury. Both men boarded in Allegheny and their families live in Greensburg.

Killed by Pulley Block.

Paul Black, 18 years old, of Thirty-first and Smallman streets, died at the East End Charity hospital yesterday from injuries received while at work Saturday in a mill. He was struck on the head with a pulley block.

The inquest in the Lincoln avenue bridge disaster of July 4 was concluded yesterday morning by Coroner Jesse M. McGeary. The verdict rendered by the jury was that the three men came to their deaths by the motorman violating the rules of the company in crossing the bridge at a high rate of speed and they censured the railways company for having rails out of order.

Workmen employed in removing the debris caused by the fall of earth and rock in the Wabash tunnel in Greentree borough on September 12 yesterday morning uncovered the body of the laborer who has been missing since the accident. The man killed was Paul Pawerich, 24 years old, an Austrian. He had been in the United States about six months.

John Tanney of Hays street, Homestead, was so badly hurt at the plant of Jones & Laughlin, Pittsburgh, that he died yesterday.

CHAMBERLAIN LOST JOB BY BLUNDER

LETTERS BRING OUT FACTS

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]
LONDON, Sept. 23.—Alexander W. Black, Liberal member of parliament for Banffshire, makes public tonight an interesting series of letters which passed between himself and Mr. Chamberlain in which Mr. Black maintains that the former colonial secretary launched his fiscal scheme while ignorant of Canada's attitude.

In the first letter, dated September 7, Mr. Black points out that Mr. Chamberlain, replying to a question from the writer in the house of commons, July 22, stated that the Canadian government had had no direct correspondence with Germany concerning the tariff arangements, and that the Canadian government could only communicate with Germany through her majesty's government.

The subsequent publication of the tariff correspondence showed that official correspondence had passed between the Canadian premier and Mr. Boop, German consul at Montreal, in which the Canadian policy toward Germany was clearly defined. Mr. Black asked the colonial secretary to reconcile his reply with the facts shown in the correspondence.

Replying on September 9, Mr. Chamberlain said he was unaware of the correspondence, as the Canadian government had not kept him informed, but he had now asked the dominion government to keep him informed of any unofficial negotiations they might conduct.

Mr. Black, replying to this letter, pointed out that Mr. Chamberlain makes the damaging admission that he announced his preferential tariff scheme without having knowledge of the correspondence which showed that Canada intended to negotiate directly with Germany and was prepared to give Germany the same preferential treatment as the mother country. Mr. Black said that Mr. Chamberlain must see that the reciprocity part of his fiscal scheme cannot stand without the colonies surrendering their fiscal independence.

FOG CAUSED CONFUSION IN DOWNTOWN STREETS

Four Persons Hurt in Collisions During the Gloom Which Enveloped This Vicinity.

Heavy fog enveloped this section yesterday morning, and for several hours after scheduled daylight the city was wrapped in darkness almost like that of night. Before the sun's rays penetrated the gloom several accidents occurred on the streets crowded with people going to work. Motormen and teamsters had their usual troubles in keeping clear of each other and avoiding collisions, and railroad crossings were made more dangerous through the inability of people to see approaching trains. Those hurt during the fog were:

MISS LEONIA GRINER of Fair Haven; hit by car and bruised.

Miss Rupert and Miss Griner were on their way to work when struck by special car No. 158 of the Pittsburgh Railways Company in Sixth avenue at 8 o'clock in the morning. The young women stopped in front of Trinity Protestant Episcopal church to wait for a wagon to pass, and then started across the tracks. The heavy fog prevented them seeing the approach of the car and they stepped in front of it and were knocked down. The car was running slow and was stopped just as one of the front wheels touched Miss Rupert's left leg, the wheel having already caught her dress. After being assisted from under the front platform of the car the young women refused medical attention and continued on their way to work at No. 715 Penn avenue.

Combs was injured while riding a bicycle in Homewood avenue. He collided with a brewery wagon and his wheel was wrecked and he was thrown to the ground.

While driving across the West Penn railroad tracks at the Western avenue crossing in Aspinwall, Elder's wagon, owned by the Valley Ice & Supply Company, was struck by a shifting engine and wrecked.

Fair and cooler conditions are promised for Pittsburgh today and tomorrow by the weather man. Yesterday after the fog cleared the sun grew warm rapidly, and the day was rather hot for this season of the year. Yesterday was the last day of summer and the first blast of the equinoctial storms was experienced last night, when the streets were swept by sharp gusts of wind which drove the dirt and paper through the downtown streets and filled the eyes of people coming from the theaters with sand.

"Money seemed but poor and paltry compared to health, and yet a few dollars invested in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me good health. I suffered for several years with general weakness and bearing-down pains, caused by womb trouble. My appetite was frightful, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of its advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. ## "SWEET BONNIE NELL."

New Ballad by Composer of "Sweet Marie" to Be Printed in Sunday Gazette.

"Sweet Marie" is one of the very few popular songs of the past 20 years that will live and find a place for ages along with "Old Folks at Home," "Love's Old Sweet Song," "Home, Sweet Home," and other productions of past generations. The immense popularity of the composition several years ago has caused it to be ignored now as are all really popular songs of a year or so past, but in another decade its true musical worth will be firmly established and "Sweet Marie" will be another home song in the hearts of the people.

The composer, Raymond Moore, lives in a beautiful home in the Bronx district, New York City, that he built from the royalties received from the sale of the song. He is quite a modest gentleman, with a decided taste for the real joys to be derived from a life spent among his family and friends. His new song, "Sweet Bonnie Nell," is said by competent musicians to be a better song even than "Sweet Marie." At its initial production in Boston, Mass., last week it received encore after encore and professionals all over the country are eagerly awaiting the advance copies.

The regular piano scores are not ready for sale, but on next Sunday the first copies ever printed of Raymond Moore's greatest song, "Sweet Bonnie Nell," will be published in The Gazette. A copy free with each Sunday Gazette.

GREAT FUTURE FOR PITTSBURGH ASSURED.

ITS COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL SUPREMACY CANNOT BE CHECKED.

It does not require a very careful study of conditions to convince one that the great natural resources of this section are a guarantee that Allegheny county is to become the great manufacturing center of the world. This means that many new conditions will be created and new social and other problems will arise incident to the cosmopolitan character of such a community. It also means that, to handle these questions properly, the present and future citizens of the section must familiarize themselves with the social and political conditions that prevail in the countries whence will come a great number who will make their home here. It will also be necessary for the business man to know something about the other countries of the world in order that he may take advantage of the markets which they offer for his commodities. The business man can no longer afford to remain provincial. He must possess and utilize a broad and thorough knowledge of the world, which can be obtained only through his own personal experience, gained by long, tedious and expensive visits to other lands, or by utilizing the information furnished by well-equipped and experienced travelers who have made a specialty of the subject. For the great majority of people the latter course is the best, especially since John L. Stoddard, through the medium of his travel lectures, has brought the whole world to our very doors.

Men of affairs are enthusiastic about the lectures, because they furnish a convenient and needed relaxation from business cares.

Educators most heartily recommend them because they are broadening and cultural and furnish a wealth of needed information not otherwise obtainable.

Clergymen of all denominations unite in indorsing them because they appeal to the best that is in human nature, and, by presenting in an interesting and graphic form the wonderful works of God, they inspire a deeper interest in their Creator.

No other work has received such a cordial reception from our people, which speaks well not only for the merits of the lectures, but for the intelligence of [illegible] seen the work? If not, read [illegible] announcement, in another column, [illegible] the publishers, Balch Brothers Co., No. 36 Bromfield street, [illegible] information about their specialties.

The New Merchants and Manufacturers Association Will Spend $10,000 Yearly.

SECOND MEETING A SUCCESS

Resolutions Naming the Organization and Providing for Its Financial Resources Are Adopted at Meeting in Chamber of Commerce Rooms.

"The Merchants' and Manufacturers' association of Pittsburgh" was the name formally chosen at yesterday's meeting for the new organization of business men of this city, who are being brought together to extend the importance of Pittsburgh as a wholesale center. The name was adopted on motion of A. M. Scott of Allen Kirkpatrick & Co. at the session yesterday at the chamber of commerce rooms.

The adoption of the name somewhat extends the scope of the membership of the association. The fact that many of the wholesalers of Pittsburgh are to some extent manufacturers and that a number of the leading manufacturers wholesale their products led to the inclusion of the word "manufacturers" in the title.

Progress toward a condition of financial stability that will insure the continuance of the work of the association was made yesterday, when the proposition was advanced that each member should bind himself to contribute $100 annually for three years. The plan was adopted and 35 prominent wholesalers present signed the subscription paper. It was further agreed that the organization be assured of $10,000 a year before it go ahead with its work. The subscription paper will now be passed around among those interested who were unable to attend the meeting until 100 names have been secured. This is believed to be only a matter a few days and the next meeting, to be held at 11 o'clock next Wednesday, at the chamber of commerce, will, it is believed, see more than 100 pledges of this kind given.

The temporary organization, with E. J. Lloyd of the Bindley Hardware Company as chairman, was continued yesterday. Permanent organization and securing of permanent quarters have both been put off until such time as the preliminary matters are brought well toward completion.

Among those taking part in the discussion at yesterday's meeting were Otto Feltx of the Pittsburgh Supply Company; C. W. Costello of Weaver, Costello & Co.; H. W. Neely of the Pittsburgh Drygoods Company; F. Herbert Brown of the Brown & Zortman Machinery Company, and A. M. Scott of Allen Kirkpatrick & Co. There was unanimous agreement on every one of the suggestions made and the sentiment that the new association will prove its worth, as similar ones in Cleveland, St. Louis, Kansas City, Detroit and St. Paul have done, was generally expressed.

One of the plans which has been carried out annually or semi-annually by these association has been the running of a special train throughout the district in which each city had a chance to increase its wholesale trade. This plan is favored by many of the members of the Pittsburgh association.

Those who signed the subscription paper at yesterday's meeting included the following:

Allen Kirkpatrick & Co., Rauh Bros. & Co., Stewart Bros. & Co., the Thomas Wightman Glass Company, Weaver, Costello & Co., J. B. Haines & Co., Hartje Paper Manufacturing Company, L. J. Butler, James McClurg Company, W. J. Gilmore & Co., Logan-Gregg Hardware Company, J. J. Porter & Co., Pittsburgh Supply Company, Fort Pitt Supply Company, Pittsburgh Drygoods Company, Somers, Pitler & Todd Company, Arbuthnot-Stephenson Company, J. D. ## COSTLY INCENDIARY FIRE.

A Discharged Employe Caused Blaze That Did Over $300,000 Worth of Damage.

MELLEN, WIS., Sept. 23.—Incendiaries started a fire which nearly wiped out the village of Morse, in Ashland county, this morning, and caused a loss of $300,000. The saw mill and store of T. R. Chase were destroyed, together with 6,000,000 feet of lumber. The fire also burned several small buildings in the vicinity. One man was hurt.

From all the authorities can learn the fire was the work of a former employe of the mill who was recently discharged. The man has disappeared but it is thought that he will be arrested in a few days.

CHILD FATALLY BITTEN BY A SPOTTED ADDER

HOBART, KY., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Struggling with all her tiny might to free herself from the coils of a venomous spotted adder, which attacked her while she was walking through a meadow, the little two-year-old daughter of Hiram Van Deusen was fatally bitten. The pretty child's face and arms were terribly torn by the fangs of the serpent. When Mrs. Van Deusen reached her daughter, the snake had its fangs buried in the baby fingers of the right hand. It was with the utmost difficulty that she wrenched the reptile loose.

WESTINGHOUSE GETS CONTRACTS

Will Equip Big Plant of Paper Company in Aberdeen, Scotland.

BUSINESS IS BRANCHING OUT

Power Station to Be Constructed at Manila Will Be Equipped by Pittsburgh Product—Firmer Grasp on Foreign and Domestic Trade.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The British Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, limited, has been awarded important contracts for a complete electrical equipment to be installed in the plant of the Donside Paper Company, Aberdeen, Scotland.

The machinery will include a 375-kilowatt, double-current generating equipment to give, on the alternate current side three-phase current at 220 volts, 25 periods, and on the direct current side current at 125 volts. Continuous current will be used for the operation of several variable-speed motors. A number of poly phase induction type motors will also be installed. These will include five 50-horse power motors to be utilized for the purpose of driving the beaters and brenkers. A 35-horse power machine will also be used for operating a breaker and three smaller motors are to be put in for working the dry end of the paper making machines and a 50-horse power machine will drive the wet end.

All the pumps will be electrically driven as will also be the finishing house, ink grinders, etc.

First Contract Abroad.

This is the first contract so far secured by American interest for the electrical equipment of foreign paper mills. A good portion of the machinery will be manufactured at the East Pittsburgh plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Westinghouse equipment is to be installed in the power station about to be constructed in Manila, for the purpose of generating current to operate the electric traction system—the franchise permitting the building and working of which was recently granted by the Philippine authorities to an American syndicate composed of Vice President Smith, of the Securities Company of Pittsburgh; ex-President Buhl, of the Sharon Steel Company; Peter L. Kimberley of Sharon, Pa.; J. G. White & Co., of New York, and Charles M. Swift, of Detroit, Mich. The initial capacity of the plant will be 2,000-horse power. Westinghouse turbines will be installed.

The track construction work has just begun under the supervision of J. G. White & Co. Four thousand tons of rails have already been ordered in Europe. The T rails will be of 70 pounds weight. Some 35 miles of the road are expected to be in active operation inside of 18 months. The completion of the system will entail an expenditure not far short of $2,500,000.

Business Rapidly Expanding.

The Westinghouse interests rapidly continue to expand, both their foreign and domestic business secured through New York. The local offices of the sales organization, which have been hitherto located in the Equitable Life building, have just removed to more commodious premises. They now occupy an entire floor consisting of about 30 rooms, in the new Hanover bank building, one of the finest and best equipped office buildings in the country. The executive, financial and stock transfer offices remain in the Equitable Life building.

Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., which concern represent the engineering end of the Westinghouse manufacturing interests now take up four floors, nearly 150 offices, in the new Maritime building. Some six years ago barely half a dozen men constituted this department, where as at present nearly 250 people are employed in this engineering end alone.

NO POLISH DIOCESE IN THE UNITED STATES

Cardinal Gibbons Says Petition of National Alliance Will Avail Nothing.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Cardinal Gibbons, and his private secretary, Father Gavan, dined with Archbishop Farley at the archepiscopal residence in Madison avenue today. When asked about the progress of the commission of the Polish National alliance, which is still in Rome awaiting the opinion of Pope Pius X. on their memorial for three Polish bishops, Cardinal Gibbons declared with special emphasis that there could be no thought of the division of dioceses to create bishops for Polish Roman Catholics in this country. The Polish alliance is said to have gone over the heads of the American hierarchy in the hope of inducing the pope to create native dioceses. On this subject the cardinal said:

"Their petition will not avail. Our Polish Catholics must conform to the cosmopolitan spirit of this country. There can be no Polish diocese or German diocese with native heads. The bishops of the church are selected by the clergy and the provincial bishops. Wherever a Polish priest is found with the requirements for such a responsible office I have no doubt the fathers will recommend him as eagerly as any. But it would be unwise to inaugurate such a principle in this country as is proposed."

NEWPORT IS TO BE THROUGHLY FORTIFIED

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 23.—(Special.) The officers of the war department are completing plans which will make Newport and its approaches one of the most thoroughly fortified seacoast cities on the Atlantic coast. A powerful battery is being thrown up at Fox Hill on the West Side of Jamestown to assist in the defense of the west passage of Narragansett bay, while in the vicinity of Narragansett pier a battery of six-inch breech-loading rifles is to be erected with an elaborate system of communication stations, telegraph and electric searchlight stations.

ROOSEVELT'S SON TO ATTEND PUBLIC SCHOOL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Quentin Roosevelt, the youngest son of the president, has been enrolled as a pupil in the district public schools and will begin his school career at the Force school, in Massachusetts avenue, next week. The president's application to have his son enter the public school is an emphatic denial of the stories recently circulated here to the effect that he had stated that public schools teach a lot of "rubbish."

Child Drank Carbolic Acid.

Marie, the six-year-old daughter of James Baird of Seddon avenue, North Braddock, found a vial containing a solution of carbolic acid yesterday and drank a large portion of the stuff before her mother discovered it. Dr. T. S. Hicks was summoned, and after considerable work the child was pronounced out of danger. Her face and hands were burned by the acid spilling on her when her mother caught hold of the vial.

HANDSOME BANKING HOUSE IS NEARING COMPLETION

Industrial National Bank's New Home.

The handsome new building of the Industrial National bank of Pittsburgh, now being erected at No. 333 Fourth avenue, is fast nearing completion. It is French renaissance in style, and the main facade is constructed of Concord gray granite. The building is 30 feet wide, 120 deep and 48 high, and is of fireproof construction. The main entrance doors are of solid bronze and the vestibule is of marble. The banking room will have a six-foot wainscoting of Italian marble and walls with ornamental panels. The rooms for patrons and directors will be furnished in the most up-to-date style with every convenience. The safe deposit department will be located in the basement and will be equipped with time-locks and modern protective apparatus. C. M. Barisberger designed the building and it is being built by Contractor H. L. Kreusler.

THE SULTAN OF SULU MISSING WITHOUT REGRET

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The war department does not know the whereabouts of the sultan of Sulu, and doesn't seem to care. The report from Manila to the effect that the sultan had gone to Singapore to prepare himself for death is not, however, credited in army circles.

The sultan of Sulu is a very wily person, who was able to keep Gen. Bates waiting for two months before they could confer and then compelled the army authorities to hunt him up. His excuses were plausible, but they were probably of the simple art of deception, which the sultan practiced with equal impartiality upon friend and foe.

The sultan holds down a pretty good job in Jolo, receiving from this government $125 a month as salary, in addition to which he gets $5,000 a year from the North Borneo Company and a substantial tribute from the Chinese pearl fishers, as well as forced contributions from his subjects, who are systematically bled by their relentless dattos. It is estimated that the sultan's income is not less than $10,000 per year, to say nothing of innumerable perquisites. He would hardly be likely to give all these up, along with the very real authority he exercises in Jolo, despite the nominal American supervision exercised by the military government of that section.

There is no more interesting personage on the government pay rolls than this sultan, unless it is some of the dattos, who also receive monthly salaries for no greater tax upon them than keeping the peace.

BIG DAY AT EXPOSITION.

Crowd Expected at the Show at the Point—Patriotic Music to Be Played.

There will be a big afternoon attendance of children, outpouring of excursionists and two large evening audiences, at the Exposition today. Special guests for night will be members of the Sixth Pennsylvania heavy artillery, who are holding a reunion in the city. In honor of these veterans the Fadettes' band will present some favorite patriotic numbers.

The exposition visitors appreciate the vocal duets of the Misses Carbone. The standard set by these artists is high, but Pittsburgh audiences have an instinct for musical merit. This afternoon's program follows:

Overture, "Der Tambour der Garde".....Th'l
Oriental Intermezzo, "Fatima".....Oehmler

Italians to Celebrate Today.

Italians in Pittsburgh who celebrated the thirty-third anniversary of Italy's unity object to the literal statement that Garibaldi entered Rome, remembering that his soldiers took possession of the Eternal City, while the patriotic leader was without its walls. Today the event will be celebrated throughout the city by the Italian societies and native orators when they speak of the triumphal entry into Rome by the patriots they will refer specifically of the army.

BEATING SHATTERED GIRL'S LOVE DREAM

Love's dream has been rudely shattered for Mrs. Ernest Woolridge, a pretty young woman of Homestead. Mrs. Woolridge went before Justice Miller to have separation papers drawn up and to have her husband held for court, for assault. She says she met her husband just 13 weeks ago. A week later they were married, and she alleges that within a month her husband became so jealous he followed her about the house and yard to make certain there was no other object of her affection about their home.

SOUTH SIDE CARNIVAL TO BUILD A HOSPITAL

Several Blocks of Carson Street to Be Given Up to the Fete.

The South Side is to have a carnival, under the auspices of St. Joseph's Hospital association, Saturday next will be the opening day. Carson street, from Twentieth to Twenty-fourth streets, to be given up to the fete, and the Berger Carnival Company promises to put on the best show it has given this season. Several streets north and south of Carson street will also be given over to the show. Director Bigelow says he will see to that end of the arrangement.

St. Joseph's hospital is as yet only a hospital on paper, but before many months have passed Pittsburghers will see an imposing structure erected on the first shelf of the hill immediately above South Twenty-second street. The ground has been secured and plans for the new structure are complete. They call for the erection of a hospital building that will eclipse anything in the state. More than $150,000 will be required within the next year, and the carnival is expected to yield just about one-twentieth of that amount. Almost $60,000 has been pledged and a great steel firm promises to give nearly as much more when the time comes.

Manager Berger has a few surprises to spring upon the public. Thousands have seen the carnivals in different sections of the city during the past three months but the South Side affair gives promise to vastly excel them all. One big attraction has been added to the streets of Idlia, and "Princess Lu, Belle of the Da Creb doesn't Startle her audiences there will be disappointment on the part of the management. The big show has all the side attractions that were in the Oakland carnival and in addition six more that are just as good if not better.

The carnival opens on Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock and will continue next week. The following gentlemen have been appointed as an executive and general committee:

Dr. J. F. Kerr, John Biechlmer, Dr. C. H. Hertzog, Dr. J. P. Selby, Joseph Detterle, W. A. Lartmer, D. L. S. McDonald, Joseph H. Vitchestain.

Long, T. E. Roon, William Cowen.

Girl Stops Wedding Festivities.

Pre-nuptial festivities were stopped at the Polish settlement near Twenty-eighth street yesterday by the arrest of Frank Dudik, the would-be groom. Dudik has been paying attention to two girls at the same time. Yesterday Annie Cross, one of Dudik's sweethearts, learned he had arranged to marry the other girl last evening, and had a warrant sworn out for his arrest. Constable Frank Bowley of Alderman J. J. Kirby's office, found Dudik making things pleasant for his friends and placed him under arrest.

Priest to Get Hearing Tomorrow.

The Rev. Father T. P. Gillen, pastor of the Natcona Roman Catholic church, who is charged with the abduction of a child from its foster mother, will be arraigned for a hearing before Alderman John Groetzinger tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Father Gillen declared that there is no merit in the case against him and that he would immediately set to work to open his campaign of purification on the "Blood alley" region in Avenue as soon as he gets his hands clear of the abduction prosecution.

Disagree on Carnival Scheme.

The Business Men's association of Homestead has turned down the carnival idea for raising money for the new hospital to be erected in the near future, but Burgess Rose has not abandoned the project, and still proposes to push it. Considerable feeling has been expressed between the friends of the burgess and those opposing the carnival scheme.

Old Stock Yards Being Removed.

Workmen began tearing down the cattle pens at the old East Liberty stock yards yesterday morning. There are 200 men employed on the job, and the good lumber is being stored for future use. Many wood buyers visited the yards in search of bargains.

OHIO CHALLENGE MAY BE IGNORED

SENATOR FORAKER CONFIDENT

Believes the Buckeye State Will Go Republican by 100,000 and That Hanna Will Have at Least 30 Majority in the Legislature.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.

Gen. Charles Dick, Republican state chairman of Ohio, is in Washington looking after some departmental business.

"It is a fact," said Gen. Dick, "that we are having the liveliest and most interesting campaign that Ohio has seen in the last decade, with the exception of presidential elections. The Republicans are well satisfied with the situation and are not worried over the outcome of it."

Senator Foraker does not think the challenge of Democratic Chairman Salen will be accepted, and he counsels completely ignoring it.

"It is only a bid for a public notice on the part of Johnson and his candidate Clarke," said Foraker. "I do not think that any attention whatever will be paid to it. The situation in Ohio is all that could be desired. Personally, I will consider it a blessed for the Republican party if we do not roll up over 100,00 plurality for the ticket. Senator Hanna will have at least 30 majority on joint ballot of the legislature, and probably 45."

It is believed that Senator Foraker's views on the challenge are shared by Gen. Dick, Senator Hanna and other leaders in Ohio, and that Chairman Salen's invitation will be declined with thanks.

EMPEROR UNDERTAKES TO SOLVE CABINET PROBLEM

He Grants Demands of Hungarian Diet and Austria Is Angry.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

BUDAPEST, HUNGARY, Sept. 23.—The text of a royal autograph letter, recentrusting Count Hedervary with the formation of a new cabinet was published today. In it Emperor Francis Joseph says he cannot assent to any measures regarding the common army which would possibly weaken both halves of the monarchy and which are not in accord with the interests of Hungary, the integrity of which ties would jeopardize.

The emperor adds that he is, nevertheless, desirous of giving effect to the concessions announced in the lower house of the Hungarian diet by former Premier Deszell and by Premier Hedervary, which he deems to be admissible reforms.

VIENNA, Sept. 23.—The reichrath reassembled today for the purpose, as Premier Von Koerber explained, of passing a bill amending the recruiting law in order to meet the difficulties created by the Hungarian diet. Dr. Von Koerber said some of the Hungarian demands were calculated not only to undermine the unity of the Austro-Hungarian army, but to affect Austria's rights in the common army.

The emperor maintained this view and the proposed bill provided that Austria should not enroll an increased number of recruits unless a corresponding increase was provided by Hungary. The premier urged the speedy adoption of the measure so that time-expired men might be discharged.

THEATERS NEXT WEEK.

A Spectacular and Pleasing Variety of Entertainment Promised for Next Week.

At the Alvin, commencing Monday, and for two weeks thereafter, the big musical extravaganza "Mr. Bluebeard," will be seen with all its wealth of scenic beauty, magnificent costumes, flying ballet and splendid cast. This is the biggest spectacle ever brought to America from the Drury Lane theater, or anywhere else, for the matter of that. The seat sale will open this morning at the Alvin.

The opening date for the New Grand opera house has been settled upon by Manager Davis for Monday, October 5, when the full strength of the stock company, together with an unusually handsome scenic environment will give Pittsburgh theatergoers their first glimpse of "Notre Dame," the much-discussed drama which had a long run at Daly's theater, New York, last season. The sale of seats will be opened next week. Meanwhile, orders for subscription seats are being received by mail.

There will be plenty of fun, music and dancing at the Bijou next week, for the rollicking cartoon musical comedy, "Foxy Grandpa," with Joseph Hart and Carrie DeMar in the leading roles, will be the attraction, beginning Monday afternoon. In "Foxy Grandpa" Bijou patrons will have a first-class musical comedy, one that held away on Broadway, New York, where every big show is supposed to have a long run before it can be declared a success.

Jane Adelaide Hood's Narragansett Ladies' band, which was such an enjoyable feature of Ward & Vokes' production of "The Head Waiters," still retains the same company and will be heard at the Empire theater next week, when Joe Kelly will show us the third edition of this musical and laughing treat. This band is a special feature with this comedy and not, as may be imagined, a lot of chorus girls drilled to do the work.

The bill of refined continuous vaudeville at the Avenue family theater next week will be headed by the quaint comedian Frank Keenan and his company of capable artists, in one of the prettiest sketches ever seen in vaudeville. Other feature acts and novelties on the program will be presented by Max Waldron, the Four Nightons, Kennedy and Rooney, Rae and Broschy, Johnson and Wells, Bissenette and Norman, Mortimer Bassett, the Nice Twins and others.

Manager Williams has engaged Henry Lee and his company of players for the week of September 28 for the Duquesne theater. This company has the reputation of being one of the very best vaudeville shows on the road this season, and with the clever supporting company of people that he has engaged for his show, it should be one of the best.

The "Bloomlight Maids" are billed to appear at the Academy, commencing with the usual matinee on Monday. The name of the burlesque is "A Rialto Rounder." It is described as a bright bit of nonsense constructed somewhat on the lines of the English musical comedies that are, at present, having such a successful run in New York and London.

In the Parks.

Band music with special features will form the entertainment at the trolley parks next Sunday, afternoon and evening, and all of the organizations and specialty people are well-known entertainers.

Kennywood will have a big vaudeville bill besides band concerts, with probably an orchestra. Add the amusements in the steeplechase building will be open. Calhoun park will have Guenther's Pittsburgh band and the Iron City quartet. The Braddock Library band, directed by W. L. Mayer, will be at Oakwood, and with the band will be H. L. Blaney, the local glee singer, and Lorie Barrett, the clever child artist. Southern will have the Pennsylvania State band and the Colonial Comedy Four, a combination that should insure a good entertainment.

LEAGUE GAMES TODAY.

New York at Exposition Park.
Brooklyn at Cincinnati.
Boston at Chicago.
Philadelphia at St. Louis.

The opening game of the final series of the championship season between the Pittsburgh and New York teams, was played yesterday afternoon at Exposition park in the presence of 2,649 spectators, and resulted in an overwhelming victory for the champions, who fairly ran away from the second place seekers, the final figures being 13 to 7.

The majority of those at the game expected to see McGraw open up the series with Mathewson on the rubber, as the Giants have a close fight on with Chicago for second place, and every game counts. McGraw, however, did not care to take a chance with his star twirler, and it was a lucky thing for the big fellow that he was not called on for duty, as the Pirates had, to use an old expression of Pete Browning's, "their lamps trimmed" and were ready to do business with any pitcher the New York manager might set up before them.

The lamb offered for slaughter was Luther Taylor, the deaf and dumb pitcher, who has alternated all season with Mathewson and McGinnity, and what was done to his curves will live in his memory forever. The champions went at his offerings like a hungry tramp at a square meal and pounded away with such persistency that at least one Giant outfielder had to cry for help, and that was Bresnahan, who was set to fielding the hits that Van Haltren had to relieve him at the end of the sixth inning.

The Pirates slugged the Dummy's curves for 20 hits, and the merry swat of the bat was sweet music to the ears of the enthusiastic spectators. Out of this collection of hits Tommy Leach had five—three singles, a three-bagger and a home run. Beaumont had 4 single and a home run. Wagner had a two-bagger and a three-bagger. Ritchey had two three-baggers and a single, and his last two-bagger was a double play, Leach being run out at the plate when he was on the base before being touched. Bransfield had two singles and a two-bagger. Sebring had two singles and Curtis, who was batting for Chesbro, chipped off three singles, but poor Beaumont had to be satisfied with one lone bunch. That was hitting some.

The only regular marked absent when the champions lined up for roll call just before the game was Manager Fred Clarke, who had gone to Youngstown to confer with Bonesetter Reese. Clarke's place in left was taken by Chief Curtis, who made a splendid game, but in the sixth inning he was guilty of a play no one could understand. Mertes had sonked the ball down against the left field bleachers for three bases and Curtis started after it in his tracks, but allowed Beaumont to chase the ball. It looked as though the new man had lost track of the ball, for he should have gone to Beaumont's assistance.

Tommy Leach's vacation trip to Cleveland seemed to have had a wonderful effect on his batting eye, and the way he slugged the ball was a caution. Every time up he got a hit, and his record for the afternoon was five hits for a total of 10 bases. He was a bit off in his fielding, however, making a very wild throw in the first inning, which would have let Wagner score a home run, and he dropped an easy fly in the third, which is a new experience for Tommy. Deacon Phil was on the rubber for the home team, and pitched good ball until the last inning, when Dahlen, a dozen or more runs, then he let up, as there was no use exerting himself, the game being safe. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

After the Pirates had the game safely stored away, Hans Wagner took himself out of the conference lobster, to shoot, where the big youngster had only one fielding chance and he accepted that in fine style. In the absence of Clarke, Wagner was acting manager and the Carnegie boy handled the ribbons like a veteran.

"Chief" Cargo, a local boy, who was with the Albany team of the New York State league, was out in a Pirate uniform yesterday and during the preliminary practice worked a while at short, where he handled grounders in clever style. Cargo looks like a second edition of Tommy Leach and the spectators were wondering who the newest Pirate was.

From the manner in which Tommy Leach wielded his bat yesterday the little fellow must have had an eye specialist working on him during his week's vacation, and it might be a wise move for Manager Clarke to allow some more of his regulars to have a few days off. Tommy certainly stung the ball good and hard yesterday, making a hit every time he was at bat and his afternoon's record was five hits, for a total of 10 bases. He had three singles, a three-baggers and a home run.

Tommy Leach's drop of Babb's fly in the fourth inning was one of the real features of the game. It was a high inneid fly, which Shortstop Babb had no trouble getting under and the ball dropped gracefully into his hands and then dropped gracefully out again. All the Pirates gave Tommy the laugh and he joined in himself. It's a safe bet that the little fellow drops a fly ball, no matter how hard they are to get under and the spectators remembering the game him a hand when he walked to the bat.

That was an awful swatting that the Pirates gave Dummy Taylor yesterday afternoon and it was one that will live in Taylor's memory for years to come. Manager McGraw might have shot Taylor out the second inning on account of drubbing, but after the second inning when the champions scored five runs Mugsy saw that it was all off as far as a victory was concerned and decided to allow Taylor to stay in and take his medicine. The champions' record for the afternoon was 21 hits for a total of 30 bases, which is pretty fierce, making the league batting record for the season.

Claude Ritchey is the latest Pirate to draw a vacation and if ever a lay-off was deserved it is this one. Ritchey has been on duty day after day regardless of sickness and injury and there were times when he should have been in bed, but the team needed his services and he was out there giving his best to the game all under. Manager Clarke decided to give "Little All Right" a chance to rest up after today's game and Ritchey will like him to his home in Emlenton and remain there until Monday night, when he will join the team and proceed to Boston for the world's championship series. During Ritchey's absence Lobert will be pressed into service and will do at second base.

Quite a number of the spectators were disappointed yesterday over the failure of the New York team to have Mathewson do the pitching for that team. Before the game Manager Clarke of the Pirates called the turn when he said that McGraw would not pit the great Christy against Phillippe, but would hold the big fellow in the hope of getting a chance at him on Monday's doings. Today's game would be in the box for the Pirates, Clarke also pointed out that nearly all of Mathewson's victories over the Pirates were scored against young pitchers. This shows the craftiness of McGraw, who watches for easy spots for his star twirler.

Curtis, the recruit from West Virginia, established himself a prime favorite not only with the grand standers, but also with the left field bleachorites, who have not much use for any left fielder but Fred Clarke. They took to Curtis, however, and every inning when he went out to his position they cheered him all the way out and forced him to doff his cap each time. The big fellow's work yesterday was all right, except in the sixth inning, and then he must have lost track of the ball, for it was his place to help chase the hit down and hurry the ball back to the infield. However, Curtis is a bit green yet and has a few rough spots which will be rubbed off in a short time.

Scanlon, the new pitcher secured from the Ilion club of the New York State league, arrived yesterday and took part in the preliminary practice with the champions. The new man is built on the lines for a pitcher and if he only lives up to his reputation he will fit in nicely with the Pirates. Ames, who is touted as New York's pitching wonder, and Scanlon, were companion twirlers on the Ilion team and it was considered a toss of a copper as to which was the best. It is the intention of Manager Clarke to pit Scanlon against Ames if Mugsy McGraw can be persuaded to work his wonder in the present series of games. This battle of young pitchers would furnish a treat for the patrons of the game.

CLARKE ALL RIGHT.

Pirates' Leader Needs Only Rest—Pitchers Battle Today.

Secretary Locke of the Pittsburgh club received word from Youngstown last night that Manager Clarke of the Pirates had called on Bonesetter Reese, who made a close examination of his injured leg and decided that all required to bring the Pirates' leader around all right was a few days' rest, and that no treatment was necessary.

This makes it certain that all the regulars will be in line for the world's championship series with the Boston Americans, which starts in Boston on Thursday next. It has been arranged for the champions to leave here in a special car on Monday night, and on Tuesday a stop will be made at Buffalo, where an exhibition game will be played. From Buffalo the team will go direct to Boston.

Manager McGraw of the Giants stated last night that he will use Ames, the latest pitching wonder in today's game. That being the case, Manager Clarke will send young Scanlon into the box, and it will be a battle between former team mates.

DAN PATCH FAILS TO LOWER HIS MARK OF 1:59

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23.—Ten thousand people witnessed the Grand Circuit races at the Columbus driving park today. The special attraction was Dan Patch's race against time to beat his record or 1:59. The track was fast and weather conditions were almost perfect, but the best the pacer could do was 1:59½.

The 2:08 pace was the sensational race of the day. Nervolo was a prime favorite, selling at 50 to 12 against the field before the start. There was a close finish in the first heat between Nervolo and Winfield Stratton, and when Grover announced the former had won there was a protest from the crowd, many maintaining that Stratton had beaten the favorite under the wire by a neck. Winfield Stratton took the second heat in a driving finish with Sufreet a close second and Nervolo third. The third heat proved the most sensational. New Richmond, who was back in the bunch, began to move up at the half, and took the lead in the stretch. There was a close finish between Nervolo and New Richmond. The crowd thought the latter had won by a head, and when a dead heat was announced Starter Merrill's voice was drowned by cheers. Nervolo had a shade the best of it, and he was unable to finish. The fifth heat was won by Nervolo by a head in a driving finish with Winfield Stratton. Bessie Brown, favorite in the 2:21 trot, would have had to straight heats but for two bad breaks in the second which put her back to third in that heat. In the third heat of this race Tommy McGregor jumped the fence at the three-quarters and ran across the field. His driving was unique.

The record field of the season was furnished when 20 horses started in the 2:17 pace. Black Pet, the favorite, won easily in straight heats. Summaries:

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Coach Mcnigomery of the W. & J. football team sent a strong 'varsity team against the scrubs this afternoon. ### TWO FOR DETROIT.

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—Detroit took both games of a double-header from Boston today. Donovan kept Boston's hits well scattered in the first game, but Detroit's errors made the score close. The second game was easy for Detroit, as Winters was unable to find the wild ball his support ranged and indifferent. The game was called at the end of the eighth on account of darkness. Scores:

PULPIT DISCUSSED AT ATLANTIC CITY

INLET BOATS IN PRIZE RACE

Mehrer II. in Command of Capt. Gale Wins Championship—J. M. Dodd Ends Season at the Shore—Arrivals from Pittsburgh.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Young's Ocean Pier.
ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 23.

The needs of the pulpit were thoroughly discussed at today's session of the Unitarian and other Christian churches by the Rev. L. W. Mason of Pittsburgh; Prof. John M. Tyler of Amherst, Mass.; Charles W. Ames of St. Paul, Minn.; the Rev. George Batchelor of Boston and the Rev. Dr. J. G. Sunderland of Canada.

The Rev. Mr. Ames, who has been doing pulpit service since 1846, said that more ministers were not produced from the ranks of the young Unitarians because of the lack of training of their religious experience. He said they were taught in their societies to speak of religion more in the abstract than as a thing which they felt. "Give them proper training," said the aged preacher, "and no further complaint will be heard about lack of applicants from our ranks."

Owing to a recommendation to place the retirement age for ministers at 60 years the report on allowance rendered by the Rev. Austin S. Carver of Worcester, Mass., was rejected.

Boats Raced for Championship.

After several ineffectual attempts the race for the championship of the inlet fleet was successfully run this morning, the Mehrer II., in command of Capt. Samuel Gale, winning the prize. The Viking, captained by George Gale, and the Goldie Budd, in charge of Capt. Hyle Parker, put up good fights, but could not overcome the big lead the winner took early in the contest. Thousands of persons witnessed the run and much money changed hands, several Pittsburghers taking big pools in the betting.

Mr. Dodd's Visit Ends.

J. M. Dodds, the well-known hotel proprietor, and Mrs. Dodds, who have been visiting this city for seven months, departed this morning for New York to call upon friends. They entertained extensively while here and materially increased their previous large list of friends. They were daily guests of The Gazette bureau on the ocean pier and did much toward making all Pittsburghers feel at home here. Mr. Dodds invested considerable money in Atlantic City ventures and after a brief stay at the metropolis he will go to Confluence and dispose of the Hotel Dodds and other interests there and return here to locate permanently. In all probability he will associate himself with one of this city's largest real estate firms.

LOCAL BANKERS ACT AS HOSTS

First Day of State Association's Convention Here Ended With a Smoker.

ONE EVENT TO MAR THE DAY

President J. R. McAllister Is Called Back to Philadelphia Before Convention Opens by Death in His Family—The Program for Yesterday and for Today.

A smoker at the Hotel Schenley last evening closed the first of the two-day session of the ninth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Bankers' association in this city. The smoker was given by Group 8, the local subdivision of the state organization, and was well in keeping with the reputation of the group in its social affairs. Throughout the evening the assembled delegates from all over the state were the guests of the Pittsburgh district bankers. Close upon 350 were present during the evening. About 250 of these were from towns outside of Pittsburgh.

Yesterday was a busy day for the bankers and was marred by only one untoward event. The death of a member of the family of President J. R. McAllister of the association, who is president of the Franklin National bank, Philadelphia, called Mr. McAllister back to Philadelphia yesterday morning and deprived the association of his presence and of his expected annual address.

Welcomed to Pittsburgh.

The convention was opened at 10:30 at the Schenley yesterday morning with prayer by the Rev. William L. McEwan, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church. The roll call and reading of the minutes were dispensed with by motion and two addresses of welcome were given. On behalf of the city W. B. Rodgers, city solicitor, opened the gates of Pittsburgh to the bankers, and James H. Willock, president of the Second National bank, gave a similar welcome on behalf of the local banks.

The annual report of the secretary and the report of the council of administration were read by D. S. Kloss, cashier of the First National bank, Tyrone.

The annual report of the treasurer, E. E. Lindemuth of Clearfield was heard. The auditing and special committee's reported and the secretaries of the various groups each told of the local developments. Throughout the reports the same story of prosperity was told, only one failure being recorded, and that was due to special circumstances having no bearing on banking conditions generally.

Two Addresses Made.

After luncheon the afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock and the chairmen of the various groups were called upon for statements as to the general condition of business. Two addresses were heard. Dwight M. Lowrey of the Philadelphia bar made an address and was followed by D. C. Wills of the Mellon National bank, Pittsburgh, who spoke on "The American Institute of Bank Clerks." The afternoon session ended with a five-minute discussion of various banking questions which had been entered in a question box prepared for that purpose.

After the adjournment of the business session carriages awaited the bankers at the east portico of the hotel and several hours were spent in a drive through the two parks, along the boulevards and through some of the finest residence streets and avenues of the East End.

The evening hospitalities of the local chapter were the closing feature of the day. Handsome souvenirs were distributed in various forms and cards of courtesy to all the clubs were given each of the visitors. Under the direction of Harry Davis a bright vaudeville entertainment lasting a couple of hours was given, some of the best variety people now in the city appearing. A buffet luncheon of many delicacies followed, and "good night" was said.

Plans Laid for Today.

Today's session will be called to order at 10 a. m. Addresses by William H. Smith of Philadelphia, representing the banking department of the state government on "State Supervision," and by the Hon. Charles G. Dawes, formerly comptroller of the currency of the United States, now president of the Central Trust Company, Chicago, on "Proposed Changes in Our Banking Laws," will be features. The officers for the coming year will be elected and the time and place for the next annual convention will be chosen. The newly elected officers will be installed and the business session will end.

The afternoon will be given over to a trip, starting at 1:30 p. m. to the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company's plant at East Pittsburgh, and thence to the Homestead plant of the Carnegie Steel Company. At 4:15 p. m. the party will go aboard a steamer at Homestead for a trip up the Monongahela, returning to Pittsburgh at 8 p. m. While the gentlemen of the party are visiting the Westinghouse and Carnegie plants the ladies will be given a carriage ride through the parks and as far as Homestead, to join the boat party there.

CONSERVATIVES RETAIN SALISBURY'S SEAT

LONDON, Sept. 23.—A bye-election was held at Rochester today to replace Viscount Cranborne, who resigned his seat in the house of commons on his elevation to the peerage, as a consequence of the death of his father, the marquis of Salisbury. The contest, which was keenly fought on the fiscal question, resulted in the Conservatives retaining the seat, their candidate, Charles Tuff, receiving 2,504 votes, against 1,984 recorded for Sir Harry Johnson, Liberal.

PROMOTERS OF NEW CAR LINES ARE ELATED

Pittsburgh Railways Can Not Attack Projects Until Tracks Are Laid.

The promoters of the new traction companies in this city were considerably elated yesterday over the decision of the attorney general dismissing for the present the application of the Pittsburgh Railways Company for writs of quo warranto. It is claimed that nothing can be done by the traction company now to block the plans of the new companies until the tracks of the new concerns are actually laid up to the point of intersection with the old lines, and that then recourse will be had to an equity court to prevent the alleged "paralleling."

The cases in dispute involve a difference of opinion as to whether the new lines cross or parallel the present lines. The same question is brought up at several points in the city where the charters call for a crossing of a street now occupied by the lines in order to get to another street which does not terminate exactly opposite the first street. One of the cases is at Miltenberger and Dinwiddie streets. At that point the ends of the two streets are 114 feet apart in Fifth avenue, and the Banker's Street Railway Company proposes to cross at this point by a long diagonal line, which the Pittsburgh Railways Company declares is a parallel line. The plans of the company are being rapidly completed, it is claimed, and the application for franchises will be made shortly.

Called Magistrate a "Lobster."

After James Smith paid a fine of $4 40 on a charge of drunkenness at No. 3 police station, Allegheny, yesterday morning, he started to leave the police court room, but on reaching the door turned and called Magistrate Frank Harkins a "lobster." He attempted to escape, but was captured and sentenced to 30 days to the workhouse. Smith said he was a Harvard graduate and a printer.

Suspected of Being Thieves.

Detectives William Elmore and Alexander Wallace arrested Thomas Casey, Edward Hart and George Ford on a street car yesterday at Fourth avenue and Smithfield street. The men are alleged to be Chicago pickpockets and are suspected of being the men who have been operating on the street cars of this city.

Ware Will Speak in Ohio.

TOPEKA, KAN., Sept. 23.—United States Pension Commissioner Ware stated today that he expected to make a few speeches in Ohio this fall. Mr. Ware has received an invitation from Chairman Dick of the Republican state committee to aid in the campaign and expects to comply. Mr. Ware will return to Washington on Saturday.

PERSONALS

Congressman Ernest F. Acheson of Washington, Pa., passed through the city last night on his way to New York, where he will spend several days. When seen at the Union station he said: "The Wabash railroad broke ground for its entrance to Washington yesterday, to the delight of the residents. When completed it will mean much to the place, as its railroad facilities at the present time are very inadequate. I understand Senator Boies Penrose will return next week from his vacation. He is expected to call a meeting of the state committee to decide whether the nomination in the Twenty-fourth district shall be by conference or popular."

The Rev. S. Edward Young, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, left this city last night for Philadelphia, where he will visit the Presbyterian Historical society in order to read up the early records of the Second Presbyterian church. The data will be used in his sermon which he will preach during the centennial celebration, October 18 to 25. A complete history of the church may be published and distributed at the centennial.

D. B. Martin, manager of passenger traffic of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, arrived in the city last night from his home in Baltimore. He will attend a time card meeting to be held today at the Lincoln. He does not anticipate many changes in the winter schedule of the road. The new arrangement will go into effect October 11.

COLONISTS ARE STARVING.

British Government Responsible for Misery of Subjects in West Indies.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 23.—The Gazette of the British island of St. Kitts says: "The moment for the helping hand of the government to be extended cannot be much longer delayed if the laboring population of the islands of St. Kitts and Nevis are to be kept from starvation. An appalling condition of poverty exists."

The Times of the British island of St. Vincent charges the government for the misery prevailing since the volcanic eruption in that island, adding that starvation and disease are killing many persons and that a large number are half naked and homeless. Laborers of both sexes sleep in sheds and in tattered tents erected a year ago, "harbors of disease and immorality and a disgrace to the colony."

HE WANTED TO DIE, TOO.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Reed Northup, a cousin of George Gould, and a wealthy resident of St. Louis, attempted to commit suicide here yesterday. Northup, his wife and two children have been in this city for several weeks. His brother, Sanford, killed himself in St. Louis last June. Ill health of Mrs. Northup and business reverses are at the bottom of the trouble.

Reed Northup took up a residence in St. Louis several years ago as the president of the American Refrigerator Transit Company. He retained this position until last spring when the company was absorbed by the Missouri Pacific railroad. The absorption abolished the general offices of the company, and the cessation of Reed Northup and his brother, Sanford, who was secretary, with the company, was severed. Since then Reed Northup has not been identified exclusively with any other business interest.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or official names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

TEST SHIPPING CASE TO BE TRIED

Court Overrules Demurrer of Clyde Coal Company in Mandamus Proceedings.

RAILROAD HAS A DEFENSE

Poles Were Defendants in Almost Every Case Tried in Criminal Court Yesterday—Hartley Murder Trial Postponed, Owing to Brother's Sickness.

The demurrer asked by the Clyde Coal Company in its mandamus proceedings to compel the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad to furnish cars for the shipment of coal was overruled in an opinion handed down by Judge R. S. Fraser yesterday.

Judge Fraser says it is true the constitution prohibits discrimination on the part of transportation companies between shippers, but it does not make it the duty of such companies to take all the freight offered without regard to the effect this would have on the safe and economic operation of the road. Conditions being equal, companies must not discriminate, but because the product of one company is being transported under usual conditions is no reason why the product of another must be handled when it will be attended with danger to life and property and with pecuniary loss. The court says the returns in the case shows the plaintiff's siding is not suitable for coal shipments, that its use for that purpose would be dangerous, interfere with traffic and cause pecuniary loss. The court holds that a fair legal defense is set up and overrules the demurrer. The plaintiff is given leave to plead and put the case at issue within 10 days.

Criminal court yesterday was given up almost entirely to the trial of cases in which Poles were defendants.

C. F. Boehm pleaded guilty to fraudulently making a written instrument, and with forging the name "Fire Extinguisher" to a check issued by W. J. Nickel and getting $15. Sentence was suspended on payment of costs. Hersh Joseboitz pleaded guilty to taking $162 25 from Isaac Joselvitz and was sentenced to four months in the workhouse.

The trial of William L. Hartley, charged with the murder of E. O. Johnston in a barber shop on the South Side, will be taken up October 1. It was postponed yesterday on account of the sickness of Hartley's brother, who will be a witness.

TRUE BILL FOR LIBEL.

A Railroad Official Charges Another With Maligning Him. Grand Jury Returns.

The grand jury yesterday returned a true bill for libel against C. E. Kemp on a charge made by John E. Reeves. The men are railroad officers and the charge is based on a letter alleged to have been written by Kemp to Superintendent R. E. McCarthy. The letter alleges that on January 6, 1905, Reeves was at the Fourth avenue station of the Panhandle railroad in an intoxicated condition, and gives a somewhat detailed account of his alleged actions. The letter also says that Reeves had been discharged from this division on August 14, 1902, for trying to extort money from a passenger who had lost a finger ring.

A true bill was also returned against William Rice and his companions who are charged with assaulting James McKain of Franklin township. The bill was ignored Monday, but the court sent the boys to jail and the case went again to the jury. Other true bills were:

Fraudulent making of a written instrument, C. F. Boehm; aggravated assault and battery, George Butler; larceny by bailee, Robert Barber; assault and battery, Nicholas Bock, Charles Chuicher, John Duddy, Michael Higgins, William F. Heyer, Joseph L. Kolyeson, John Lieke, James McDaniels, Sadie M. Kain; larceny, James Coleman, Maggie Hanratty; felonious assault and battery, Ruben Davis, alias Montgomery; conspiracy, W. S. Henderson, et al., C. W. Bolen et al.; false pretense, H. C. Ladd and J. Wobehon, C. W. Bolen et al.; pointing firearms, O. F. Mills, John McDonough; misdemeanor, James McDaniels, F. J. Willenport.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

In orphans' court the exceptions filed in the matter of the estate of John Devlin, late of Pittsburgh, have been dismissed.

A decree has been entered ousting Charles J. Pedder from membership of the Lackey sub-school district of the Thirty-fifth ward school board.

A foreign attachment in assumpsit was issued by Joseph and Antonio Battaglia against C. W. Baker & Sons. The Union National bank was named as garnishee.

In common pleas court No. 3 the First National bank of Cadale has sued the Pittsburgh Automobile Company for $2,000, alleged to be due on a note given August 19, 1903, by the defendant company.

In common pleas court No. 1 a jury awarded the plaintiffs $450 damages in the suit of M. Kroener and wife against David Doughty, an action resulting from the shooting of the wife by the defendant.

The executors of the will of the late Bernard McKenna have filed an inventory and appraisement of the decedent's personal property, which aggregates $31,038 37 in value. Much of this is in stocks.

An application for a charter for the United Presbyterian church of Woodville, Scott township, has been filed. The subscribers are Joseph Campbell, J. L. Gillis, John H. Lea, W. W. Connor, James M. Porter and John P. Wilson.

Executions were issued yesterday as follows: Allhouse Company, Limited, vs. Milton C. Teasdale, $2,750; the Marmet Company vs. Flint & Co., $185 79; W. C. Maxwell & Co. vs. John F. Crawford, $404 04; Gustus Dice vs. Charles L. Herdt, $438 42.

The McKeesport Title & Trust Company has entered suit in common pleas court No. 4 against John H. Wertenbach to recover on a note for $10,000. The note was made on December 4, 1902, to John C. Deenny, and was to run four months, and came into the possession of the bank.

Another of the suits of the Farbenfabriken Company of Eberfeld county based on the selling of phenacetine was entered yesterday in the United States district court. The defendant this time is John C. Wallace, the well-known druggist of New Castle, Pa. These suits have been entered in a great many states, and this is the twelfth in the local court.

In common pleas court No. 1 John W. Lytle has entered suit against Swift & Co. to recover $25,000 damages for personal injuries received on January 14, 1902, when he was employed as an engineer in the Allegheny plant. He alleges his skull was fractured by the fall of an elevator, due to the negligence of the company to keep the safety device in proper repair.

In the equity proceedings of A. S. Caldwell against Lauffer & Stevenson, the defendants have filed an answer. They say that the contract secured by the plaintiff from the Standard School Supply Company for the sole right to sell in Pittsburgh was invalidated by the plaintiff's failure to use the material required of him in manufacturing the blackboards, from K. W. Whittemore, the patentee.

POLICEMEN'S HEARINGS.

New Charges Against Officers Being Disciplined—Lieutenant Under Fire.

Captain J. N. Frederick and Lieutenant Thomas J. Morley of the Pittsburgh police force was arraigned before the police board yesterday morning charged with neglect of duty. These officers were already under penalty on charges of a similar nature and only had started to serve the penalties imposed by the police board yesterday. They are alleged to have been out of their districts during their hours of duty. Director Harry Moore of the department of public safety said their cases would be taken up at the expiration of their penalties imposed by the police board on previous charges.

Lieutenant Charles A. Grimes was summoned before the board on charges made by Inspector Bernard McStay, who said they were shocking and unfit to be made public. Director Moore said Lieutenant Grimes would continue his duty until the charges had been investigated.

PRESIDENT IS WELL WATCHED; CRANKS ARE GUARDED AGAINST

There is no occasion for alarm in the number of reported cranks that recently have tried to invade the precincts of Sagamore Hill in order to interview President Roosevelt, according to the opinion of Capt. Charles Loeffler, doorkeeper at the White House, who is visiting friends in Allegheny. Capt. Loeffler has held his position at the White House since March, 1869, and no man in the country is more familiar with all classes of callers at the chief executive's door.

"Too great precautions cannot be taken to guard the president's safety," said Capt. Loeffler. "People with strange notions in their heads are likely to turn up at any time and cause trouble. These people may be perfectly rational in other matters, but when suddenly seized by the idea that they are divinely called to deal with the president, they are, to say the least, well worth watching. President Roosevelt has been comparatively free from unwelcome callers this summer."

Capt. Loeffler served with the Third and Fifth regiments, United States cavalry, during the civil war, having previously seen service in the regulars upon the plains in the 50s. With his wife and daughter he visited San Francisco to attend the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic and while in the west visited Yellowstone park and other noted Rocky mountain resorts. He is the guest of Joseph Kornblum of No. 1116 Fayette street, Allegheny, and will remain in the city until the end of the week.

P. R. R. MEN TO MAKE FREIGHT INSPECTION IN THE WEST

D. T. McCabe, freight traffic manager of the Pennsylvania lines, and George W. Dixon, freight traffic manager of the Pennsylvania railroad, have begun an inspection of all the important terminals west of Chicago. Such an inspection is unprecedented for the Pennsylvania system, for it is usually maintained that its methods of handling freight not only en route but through terminals, is about as near perfect as can be had. There is still some fear, however, that the Pennsylvania may again suffer from freight congestion, and to avoid this the heads of the freight traffic departments at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh have been instructed to inspect all important terminals of the larger western cities.

The inspection will have another far-reaching result. It will be determined which railroads have adequate terminals for doing interchange business with the Pennsylvania. Those that have not added to their equipment and improved their terminals will be given little business by the Pennsylvania system. It is expected that by the time the freight traffic officials complete their inspection the Pennsylvania will have excellent inside information.

The officials will travel over the Wabash, Burlington, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha and Northern Pacific railroads, visiting St. Louis, Chicago, Omaha, Duluth, Kansas City, St. Paul, Milwaukee and other western cities.

New Books Ready November 1.

It has been officially announced by passenger officials at a meeting held in Chicago that on November 1 the 1904 mileage interchangeable books will go into effect. The books will be good on all trains of the road using them and no questions will be asked as to the purchasers thereof. The official says that all of the western lines, with the possible exception of the Rock Island, will join the new bureau as soon as it is in operation.

Indian Official Here.

Neville Priestley, who has the title of undersecretary of the department of railways of India, arrived in Pittsburgh early last evening, accompanied by J. B. Hutchinson, assistant to the second vice president, and W. A. Pratt, acting chief engineer of the Pennsylvania railroad. The party left Philadelphia yesterday morning. En route here the Indian official was given a chance to see the large shops at Altoona. After spending a day here in inspecting the yards he will go to Chicago and St. Louis. He expects to spend 10 days in the west, after which he will go to Boston. It is said that Mr. Priestley has been sent to this country to make a thorough investigation into American railway operation with a view of reorganizing the Indian government lines along American ideas.

Railroad Notes.

J. P. Moore, general agent of the Louisville & Nashville at Lexington, Ky., has resigned to engage in private business.

Ernest Whelen, special passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines west at Cincinnati, has resigned. He has been with the Pennsylvania for over 20 years.

The Pennsylvania railroad has nearly completed the work of replacing the 25,000 miles of telegraph poles which were destroyed some time ago to make room for the postal telegraph wires.

B. W. Duer, superintendent of the Pittsburgh division of the Baltimore & Ohio, held a staff meeting yesterday in which the question of motive power took up the greater part of the discussion.

J. M. Schoonmaker, vice president and general manager of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, was in Philadelphia Tuesday in conference with Vice Presidents Pugh and Rea of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Invitations have been received here for the marriage of Walter E. Calloway, general passenger agent of the Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville railroad, to Miss Wilma Rhine of Home City, O., on October 6.

It is rumored that William H. Joyce, formerly freight traffic manager of the Pennsylvania railroad, may go with the Wabash in a similar capacity. The Louisville & Nashville and Queen & Crescent lines have inaugurated the method of drawing straws for the award of government contracts. Bids were opened a few days ago for the transportation of 500 soldiers, and the means of determining which road should haul them was done in this way. It was agreed beforehand that when a book was opened the first letter of the first word of the second line should be the talisman. If it were nearer L than Q, the Louisville & Nashville would win, and vice versa. Hereafter this method will be employed.

News of the Rivers.

Capt. W. L. Sibert, the United States engineer in charge of river improvements in this vicinity, yesterday opened bids for the rebuilding of the dam across the back channel of the Ohio river at Davis Island. Eight firms submitted bids, and the Bravo Contract Company was the lowest and was awarded the work. Captain Sibert says the rebuilding of the structure will cost about $60,000. It will be 425 feet wide and will be constructed on improved plans. It will be seven feet high, with a five-foot movable top. The top will be operated by hydraulic pressure.

The Annie Roberts, which had been abandoned by her owner, Capt. John F. Klein, where she sank in the Monongahela river, near McKeesport, several weeks ago, has been floated. The Mayflower was sent up to pump her out. This was accomplished, and she was towed to the city. It will be used by the American Bridge Company as a boarding-house for employes working at Ambridge.

Harry N. Hughes of Duquesne has completed work on a patent which may make him wealthy while at the same time revolutionizing the present methods of unloading coal, sand and other materials from barges and flats in the rivers. The machine consists of a huge tank or float which can be submerged until it rests on the bottom of the stream. The flat to be unloaded is towed into it and fastened, after which the float is brought to the surface by means of electric or steam pumps, and the barge turned partly over. The contents are dumped into chutes leading into railroad cars or other receptacles.

The Cricket is the only boat which can navigate the Ohio at present on account of the low stage of water.

The fog delayed the Morgantown and Brownsville packets so much that none arrived yesterday in time to return.

A special meeting of Harbor No. 25, Masters and Pilots, was held yesterday morning to get rid of accumulated business.

COMMITTED SUICIDE BY JUMPING INTO OCEAN

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Ernest Bixler, a young insurance man of this city, who was a passenger on the Clyde steamship Algonquin, which reached here today, jumped overboard near the mouth of the St. Johns river and was drowned. William Street, his roommate, shortly after found a note saying he intended to jump overboard. He was 28 years old, with bright business prospects and most pleasant family relations.

Jewish New Year Closed.

With the evening services last night the celebration of the Jewish New Year closed. All the local synagogues were thronged at the night sessions, which continued from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. At the noon-day services there was an exceptionally large attendance. A feature of the celebration of all Jewish holidays in this country is in the fact that nearly half the worshipers use the English tongue. Younger members hold Bibles printed in both English and their native tongue and in the scriptural reading and in the praise service two languages were used simultaneously.

ENCOURAGING FEATURES FOR OIL OPERATORS IN THE SOUTHWEST

There was a slight improvement in the development in the lower southwest fields yesterday. On the west side of the Pine Grove extension in Wetzel county, W. Va., the Kanawha Oil Company has drilled in its second test on the Jonah Morris farm and the well produced 160 barrels the first 24 hours and is expected to increase its production when drilled into the second pay streak. The same company's No. 1 on the Hutchinson farm is holding up at 100 barrels a day.

In the Middlebourn district, Tyler county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 2 on the S. L. Morgan farm into the Big Injun and the well is flowing salt water at the rate of 50 barrels an hour and has a strong gas pressure.

Northeast of the Pine Grove extension in Wetzel county, the Kanawha Oil Company is drilling in the top of the stray at its No. 1 on the Jack Morris farm. This test is located to the east of the South Penn Oil Company's producer on the Thomas J. Showalter farm, which is still producing 230 barrels a day. On the west side of the Showalter producer four wells have been abandoned when the two Sole farm wells came in dusters. Should the test on the Jack Morris farm prove to be a failure the north, west and east sides of the Showalter well will be out of the race for new production.

South of Mannington, Marion county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its test on the J. C. Pierpan farm, two miles south of the Gordon and has developed a gas pressure.

In the Fallen Timber Run district, in Wetzel county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 11 on the Fairfield Peterson farm 120 feet into the Big Injun and has no show for a producer. Benadum Bros. have completed their test on the S. E. Cain farm and have a 25-barrel producer in the Gordon. Abraham Bros.' test on the Winman Wolfe farm is producing 15 barrels a day from the Big Injun.

The South Penn Oil Company's test on the Higgins-Peterson farm is not good for more than 5 barrels a day in the Gordon. A. W. Mellon & Co.'s No. 3 on the Dennis Ice farm is holding up at 185 barrels a day. In the Folsom district the same company has drilled its test on the Morris farm to 40 feet below the Gordon and found nothing. It will shoot in the stray.

Near Findley, Tyler county, J. M. Sellers & Co. have completed a well on the N. C. Hays farm and have a duster in the Big Injun. Near Hebron, Tyler county, Reed & Duff's No. 2 on the Owens heirs' farm has developed a 100-barrel well, and Pittsburgh Mahaney heirs' farm 100 barrels each, and the Federal Oil Company's Nos. 3 and 4 P. C. Mahaney, 150 and 125 barrels a day respectively. In the St. Mary's district, Pleasants county, the United States Coal & Oil Company has completed No. 24 on the Isaac Pechtel farm and has a duster in the Cow Run sand.

In the vicinity of the producer on the Beckett farm, near Milton, Cabell county, four locations have been made and the rigs are building for test wells. The Eureka Pipe Line Company will lay a line to the well and connect it with its trunk line. A packer was placed in the Beckett farm well, but it failed to make it flow.

Developments on the Ohio were light yesterday. In the new Matamoras district, Washington county, Peter Grace & Co. have completed their test on the S. English farm and will have less than a 5-barrel pumper in the Keener sand. In the same district A. A. Stewart has completed a second test on the Collins heirs' farm and has a 5-barrel pumper in the Keener.

J. KAUFMANN & BROS. WIN DECISIVE VICTORY

Judge Collier Decides They Cannot Be Ousted from Valuable Property.

Judge Frederick H. Collier yesterday handed down his decision in the equity proceedings of J. Kaufmann & Bros. against John Liggett and Marcus A. Woodward, trustees under the will of Sarah A. Hitchcock, deceased, which involves the possession of the Smithfield street and Fifth avenue corner of the big department store.

The opinion and decision of the court is a victory for the plaintiffs. The case was taken into court on account of the failure of arbitrators to decide on the rental the owners should receive, as provided for under the original lease, given by the deceased to the plaintiffs, February 25, 1885.

Under that lease the plaintiffs were given possession of the ground having a frontage of 103 feet in Smithfield street and 82.92 feet in Fifth avenue, for 15 years from April 1, 1885, with the privilege of renewal for two terms of five years each, extending to 1903 and 1908. A similar frontage in Fifth avenue was given shortly afterward. A clause in the leases provided for the fixing of the rental for the renewals by a board of arbitrators, two of the four to be selected by either side. In the event of the arbitrators failing to agree they were to select an umpire. The clause also provided for a second board to act if the first failed.

The original lease expired in 1898 and a renewal of the lease with the trustees was effected, but at the expiration of the lease made with the trustees the controversy arose, as the two boards of arbitrators failed to reach a decision. Upon their failure to agree last fall the plaintiffs took the matter into court, including in their bill, the allegation that the defendants were liable to attempt dispossessing them.

Judge Collier, after reciting the history of the case, and citing a number of decisions, says:

"The plaintiffs are without fault, are ready and willing to pay the rent, have complied with terms of their leases and have vast interests at stake, which are threatened and should have relief."

The conclusions of law are as follows:

"First. That equity has jurisdiction.

"Second. That there is no sufficient remedy at law.

"Third. That the landlord and tenant acts of 1772 and 1863 have no application.

"Fourth. That defendants must be enjoined from interfering with the possession of the plaintiffs till further order of court."

A decree was ordered in accordance until further order of court.

SOCIETY.

PITTSBURGH society at home and abroad remembered yesterday the wedding of Miss Jennie Mae Coffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Coffin of Lynn, Mass., and Sterling Winston Childs of this city.

The wedding was a very handsome affair, conducted at the home of the bride's father and mother in Ocean street, and the marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. A. Gordon, pastor of the Old South church, Boston, Mass., an intimate friend of Mr. and Mrs. Coffin. The ceremony was privately conducted and witnessed only by the relatives and immediate friends of the bride and bridegroom, who then took part in a reception at the Coffin residence. It was followed by a large and brilliant reception attended by several hundred guests.

The marriage was solemnized at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The bride wore a gown of white satin and was attended by her sister, Miss Alice Coffin, as maid of honor, who was gowned in white chiffon. Frederick C. Walcott of Utica, N. Y., a college friend of Mr. Childs, was best man. The ushers were Walter Mackintosh of Pittsburgh; Edward R. Coffin, Charles Howland, Grosvenor B. Atterbury, Sanford Barnes, jr., L. F. Betts, New York; Howard Rogers, Cincinnati, and Winthrop Noyes, St. Paul.

The popularity of the young couple and the social prominence and wealth of the two families were shown in the superb collection of wedding gifts, whose value is said to reach a quarter of a million dollars. Among the large number of presents received were friends from Germany, England and all parts of the United States.

The bride is the daughter of Charles A. Coffin, president of the General Electric Company. She is a Farmington girl, and is well known among the younger society people of Pittsburgh, having visited Mrs. Thomas Darling of Wilkesbarre, when she was still Miss McClintock of Pittsburgh, and last year was the guest of Mrs. Winfield S. Shinas of Colonial Manor, a sister of Mr. Childs. Mr. Childs is a Yale man and a member of the law firm of White, Childs & Scott. He is one of the most popular cotillion leaders in Pittsburgh, and has shared the honor in leading the smart Monday Night dances with Frank Scott Willock and William H. Robinson, both of whom resigned their bachelorhood several months ago. After a short wedding trip, Mr. Childs will bring his bride to Pittsburgh.

Among the Pittsburgh guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Childs, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Childs, jr., Miss Virginia Johnston, Norman MacClintock, Walter MacClintock, the Misses Challant, Miss Guffey, Miss Bessie Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Graham Brown and about a dozen others. Twenty-five hundred invitations were issued for the reception, which was attended by 1,500 people.

Carter—Young.

One of the prettiest of early fall weddings took place last evening when Miss Etta Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldred W. Carter of Bouquet street, became the wife of Edwin James Young. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Charles F. Close of Milton avenue, Swissvale, a sister of the bride, with the Rev. Henry T. McClelland of the Bellefield Presbyterian church as officiant. In the bridal party were the best man, Norman Young, a brother of the bridegroom, and Miss Margaret Young as maid of honor. Two little nieces of the bride, Miss Letty Fleming Close and Miss Marjorie June Close, took their places in the bridal train as ribbon bearers. Miss Mary Walker served as flower girl. The bride was given away by her father.

White crepe meteor formed the bridal gown, which was cut en train and made with a bertha of duchesse lace. A tulle veil, fastened with an aigrette, was worn. The bride carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses, carrying pink roses and gowned in mousseline, Miss Young led the bridal party. The two little ribbon bearers wore dainty frocks of white with pink sashes and bows of pink ribbon in their hair and on their slippers. Hat-shaped baskets, carried by the ribbon bearers, held pink carnations. Little Miss Rae appeared in white without a touch of any other color, her flowers being white daisies.

The wedding was marked by the dainties of decorations. The Close home is a comparatively new one. Red was the prevailing color in the hall, where the walls are covered with deep red. The chandelier was particularly effective, having a shower of small red blossoms. The same chandelier decorations obtained in the parlor, a delicate green apartment. Pink in the decorations contrasted with the finishings of the room. A bower of green palms and ferns formed the background for the wedding party. The Flemish oak dining room, with its dark oriental walls, was resplendent in green, with a touch of color given by the pink and white of the centerpiece. After the usual wedding trip Mr. Young and his bride will be at home with Mr. and Mrs. Carter in Bouquet street. Mr. Young is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Young of Lothrop street.

A Triple Wedding.

Three marriages took place in the family of Mr. and Mrs. George Small of No. 128 Camp avenue, Braddock, last evening at 8 o'clock. The service which united the three couples was performed in the large double parlors of the handsome home by the Rev. William T. Slade of the First Congregational church of Braddock. The brides were the three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Small and were Miss Jennie E., Miss Blanche K. and Miss Nellie E. Miss Jennie was wedded to Harry W. Martin of Braddock, Miss Blanche became the wife of Ira F. Snyder of Huntingdon, Pa., and Miss Nellie married Clyde C. Carter of New Florence.

Miss Jennie Small wore a pale blue satin gown trimmed in cream-colored duchesse lace and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Blanche Small wore a pale blue satin with chiffon trimmings and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses, and Miss Nellie Small appeared in white net over white silk and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The guests numbered about 70 friends and relatives of the couples. A reception and supper followed the ceremony. There were no attendants.

The sisters are all members and have been active workers in the First Congregational church of Braddock and have excellent soprano voices, all being members of the church choir.

The young people met at practically the same time, more than a year ago, and the announcements of the engagements were made in June, about the same time for the three. The weddings were set for this month, each a week apart, but later plans were made for a triple ceremony. Owing to the large number of friends of the couples it was decided to restrict the invitations to relatives only. The couples will at once go to housekeeping in the Wallace flats in Hawkins avenue, North Braddock. The young men are engaged in business in Braddock and are prominent in social circles there.

Delightful Children's Party.

Mrs. Robert C. Hall of Herron Hill entertained yesterday afternoon with a delightful children's party in honor of her little daughter, Miss Anna Hall. The affair was planned to celebrate the fifth birthday anniversary of the young honor guest. The tables for the birthday dinner were placed in the dining room and parlor, a huge birthday cake with the usual adornment of candles occupying one of the tables. Pink carnations formed very pretty centerpieces, and favors of Dresden china maids, each carrying candy-filled baskets, were distributed to the guests. Miss Mary Haines Hall, director of physical training at the Pennsylvania College for Women, entertained the little ones with games on the lawn, after which a "pan pie" was opened in the summer house. The pie was a large broiler filled with bean, which concealed tissue-covered packages. In the packages were gifts for the recipients. Assisting Mrs. Hall were Mrs. Francis T. F. Lovejoy, Mrs. George Pearson, Mrs. Wallace H. Rowe, Mrs. Biddle Arthurs, Mrs. J. W. Marsh, Miss Hall and Miss Frances Sylter.

Among the guests were Miss Elizabeth Arthurs, Miss Marjory, Miss Francis Fleming and Kenneth Lovejoy, Miss Sarah and Miss Dorothy Rowe, Miss Elizabeth Sylter, Miss Sarah Elizabeth Marsh, Miss Helen Townley, Miss Gertrude Van Osten, Miss Lillian Little, Charles Robb Lee, Miss Emily and Verner Evennenden, Barnett McLean, Miss Alice Pearson, Harold and Louise Kinkaid and others.

Kramer—Weyels.

A wedding interesting to Braddock people was solemnized yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kramer of Valencia, Pa., formerly of Braddock, when their daughter, Miss Anna Marie, became the bride of John Weyels of Braddock. The service was performed at 11 o'clock, by the Rev. J. W. Miller of the First Presbyterian church of Valencia. Miss Mary Moderella of Braddock was bridesmaid, and William Durnall, also of Braddock, was best man. The guests numbered 150. After a wedding trip the couple will make their home in Braddock.

Wilson—Bown.

Miss Blanche Beatrice Wilson and James E. Bown, were quietly married last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Laura Virginia Cupps of Meyran avenue. The Rev. Alonzo Starke, pastor of the Oakland Baptist church, performed the ceremony at 6:30 o'clock. The bride, wearing a gown of white chiffon and carrying white roses, was attended by Miss Florence Staving of Allegheny. Miss Staving was attired in white mousseline and carried pink roses. Alexander Schiff of the East End served as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Bown will receive their friends after November 1 in Coltart square, where they will go to housekeeping on their return from an eastern trip.

The house last evening was simply decorated with vases of cut flowers, the doorways between the parlor and dining room being hung with a tasteful arrangement of green. About 40 guests were present. The bride is prominent in musical circles, having been a singer in the Shadyside Presbyterian and in the Oakland Baptist church choirs. Mr. Bown is connected with the Carter Electric Company.

For a Son and His Bride.

In honor of their son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stahl, a reception was given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Stahl, Grove avenue, Allegheny. The host and hostess were assisted in receiving their guests by Miss Voegel of Sharpsburg and their daughter, Miss Dorothy Stahl. A euchre was given in connection with the reception and a number of pretty prizes were awarded. The only decorations appeared on the tables, a large centerpiece of pink carnations decking the bride's table, the others bearing white carnations. Mrs. Stahl received in pink silk, the honor guest wearing her wedding gown of white satin, while the two assistants were in thin white gowns. Mrs. Lawrence Stahl was Miss Elva Walker of Parnassus, her marriage having been an event of September 8. She and her husband have just returned from their wedding trip and are visiting with Mr. Stahl's parents.

Will Have a Colonial Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Hall of Herron Hill will leave the city on Saturday for Aspinwall to take possession of their new home. The house is one of four on the old Ross farm, about a mile above Aspinwall, the whole farm of 355 acres having been bought by the Halls. The place originally belonged to Mrs. Aspinwall, for whom the town was named. In her will it was left to a hospital in Philadelphia, from which Mr. and Mrs. Hall secured it. Mrs. Hall is deeply interested in colonial homes, her house in the East End being furnished entirely with antique furniture, many pieces of which are famous. The Aspinwall house is the only one of its kind in Pennsylvania. It was built in 1832, with all the characteristics of the southern Virginia mansion of that time. The Hall family will remain at this place for a few weeks, intending later, when the house is remodeled, to make it their summer home.

Feightner—Kunkle.

Miss Blanche G. Feightner, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Feightner of Ludwick, and Arthur A. Kunkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Kunkle of Greensburg, were married yesterday afternoon in the First Reformed church of Youngwood by the Rev. Dr. C. R. Dieffenbacher. Both bride and bridegroom were baptized and confirmed by Dr. Dieffenbacher when he was pastor of the church. Only the near relatives and a few friends witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Kunkle will live in Monessen where Mr. Kunkle is employed by the American Tin Plate Company.

Thayer—Norris.

A wedding of interest in New Castle was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Thayer on Tuesday night when their eldest daughter, Miss Ina Thayer, was united in marriage to Casimir W. Norris of Milwaukee. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Ira A. Taylor, uncle of the bride, in the presence of 75 guests, after which a wedding dinner was served at the Thayer home. The couple left for a three weeks' eastern trip. They will reside in Milwaukee.

Tierney—Getty.

Miss Margaret Tierney and Michael A. Getty were united in marriage Tuesday evening at the home of the bride, in Piedmont, W. Va. This marriage was to have been a church affair, but owing to the recent death of the bride's mother and sister, it was changed to a quiet home wedding. The guests included only the relatives and intimate friends of the young people. The ceremony was followed by a supper and an informal reception, after which Mr. Getty and his bride left for a trip to the eastern cities.

Executive Board Meeting.

A meeting of the executive board of the permanent civic committee will be held this morning. It will be the first regular monthly meeting since the adjournment for the summer. Important lines of work for coming winter will be discussed. A form for a circular letter advocating the candidacy of Miss Kate McKnight for the presidency of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, will be presented and if approved will be sent to the various women's clubs in the state.

Smith—McFarland.

Miss Mary McDonald Smith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George W. Smith of Hollidaysburg, and Frank W. McFarland, were married at the home of the bride's parents last evening. The Rev. Edwin M. Bowman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated. Miss Louise Warringer of Montrose was the bridesmaid and Samuel C. Smith, brother of the bride, the best man.

Lingafelt—Lemon.

Miss Lillie C. Lingafelt of Hollidaysburg, and Charles S. Lemon of Philipsburg, son of former State Auditor John A. Lemon, were married in Zion Lutheran church yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. The Rev. W. W. Anstedt officiated. Miss Sara McMurtrie of Hollidaysburg was the bridesmaid and J. G. Stine of Osceola Mills was the best man.

The Last Summer Dance.

The last dance in the summer series given under the auspices of the Keystone Bicycle club will be held this evening at Oakwood park. The hours will be from 8 o'clock until 11:30. The dance is given under the management of Charles A. Bruce, George W. Glassburn and A. H. Behrenberg.

Wedding Day Set.

Invitations will go out next week for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Atwood Biggs and William Kuhn Dunbar. Miss Biggs is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Biggs of South Craig street. The wedding will be a pretty home affair on October 14.

Gilmore—Beighley.

Miss Elizabeth O. Gilmore, daughter of Mrs. Mary Brown, and Paul Beighley of Connellsville, surprised their friends by being married at the bride's residence yesterday morning. The Rev. C. M. Watson officiated. After the wedding the couple left for the east.

Notes of Society.

Miss Jennie Belle Ford, daugater of Albert Ford of Blairsville, was united in marriage yesterday morning with Harvey Vansgiver of Salem, O.

Miss Portia E. Binkard of West Monterey, who has been visiting friends in Verona, Wilkinsburg and the East End during the summer, returned to her home this week. On Friday last a number of young people from Wilkinsburg gave a picnic in Riverview park in honor of Miss Binkard.

Mrs. Katie A. Boyle will open a private class in physical culture on Monday afternoon in the Chatham school. The hours are from 2 o'clock until 6. Mrs. Boyle has just come from Ridgway, where she was a successful instructor in the high school, in St. Mary's and in the Benedictine convent school.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

IN A FEW months Pittsburgh will have a George Junior Republic. This is the latest project to be taken up by the women composing the juvenile court department of the Permanent Civic committee. Plans were suggested for the establishment of the republic at the meeting of the department yesterday afternoon in the Twentieth Century club, but no details have yet been arranged. The first step will be the raising of the money toward a fund with which to carry on this new feature of the juvenile court work. For this purpose all philanthropic and benevolent societies and organizations in addition to the clubs will be interested in the scheme and asked to aid in carrying it out. At the meeting yesterday afternoon were representatives from the United Presbyterian Women's society, which has shown much interest in this important feature of the civic work which the club women have taken up in Pittsburgh. According to the general plans of the women who are working for the children reached through the juvenile court, the republic in this city will be established on the same lines pursued by Mr. George and others who have succeeded in founding such institutions in New York state and elsewhere. The scheme is to take the children from the court room to the little community which is known as the republic, unless their cases are otherwise disposed of by the judge, and in the republic they will be placed among the most encouraging influences for good.

The meeting yesterday morning was a very interesting one and was largely attended. Reports were received from the probation officers, Mrs. Alice B. Montgomery and her assistants, Miss Chase and Mrs. McGarvy. Miss Chase is just closing her second month's work in the juvenile court, while Mrs. McGarvy has been there but three weeks. Since the first of May over 200 children have been looked after by Mrs. Montgomery and her assistants. The rooms of detention are almost completely fitted up, and there the children are kept awaiting the day their case is called in the juvenile court. A bathroom is being equipped and the rooms will be completely furnished and equipped by the first of October. The women ask for donations of toys, books, dolls and second-hand clothing, the former things to amuse and interest the children while they are kept in the rooms, and the clothing to give them when they enter and have been given a bath. A very efficient matron has been placed in charge who will carefully look after the children and care for them while they are in the rooms of detention.

The problem of what to do with the children when their cases have passed the court will be studied by many broad-minded women this winter, and the New Era club has set apart a day when it will discuss the work of the original George Junior Republic in New York and its successors in other parts of the country. The subject for the day is called "Sociological Studies," and among the topics which will be taken up are "Mob Law," the "Legal Rights of a Child," "Enlightened Methods of Dealing With the Criminal Classes" and "Farm Schools," the last two dealing with children especially.

Mrs. Richard R. Quay, chairman of the department, has not yet returned home, and Mrs. E. E. Crocker, the vice chairman, presided yesterday. There was a large attendance, though many still are out of town.

Strengthening Their Forces.

An important meeting of representative club women was held yesterday morning in the Twentieth Century club-house. Invitations for the meeting had been issued in the name of Mrs. George A. Gormly, president of the club, asking all club presidents and delegates and alternates from the different clubs of this section of the state to the State Federation, to meet for the purpose of informally discussing the various issues which will be presented at the Federation meeting in Carlisle. In the absence of Mrs. Gormly Miss Julia Morgan Harding, vice president of the Twentieth Century club, called the meeting to order and called Mrs. Franklin P. Iams, president of the New Era club, to the chair. Mrs. Edward Blaine Scull was appointed secretary.

A roll of the federated clubs of Allegheny county and adjoining counties was called in order to ascertain if possible how large a representation from this district will attend the meeting at Carlisle. Mrs. Iams, who has charge of accommodations for club women from this section, reported that the Hotel Wellington and the Metzgar institute will be the Pittsburgh headquarters, as they will be filled by the delegations from this city with a large over-flow which will be taken care of in private houses. Mrs. Mattie Patterson is in charge of transportation and reported that special Pullman cars will be attached to either the 9 or 10 o'clock train east on Monday evening, October 12, which will go through to Carlisle without change, provided a sufficient number of women make application to her. Otherwise those going must change cars at Harrisburg. These trains will be the only ones reaching Carlisle on Tuesday morning in time for the opening session of the federation on Tuesday afternoon. The day trains will leave Tuesday morning at 8:20 and 9, arriving in Carlisle late in the afternoon. Special card rates may be secured by application to Mrs. Mattie Patterson. Those who desire Pullman berths should also apply to Mrs. Patterson, 5300 Center avenue, Pittsburgh. All desiring to secure accommodations in Carlisle should communicate with Mrs. Franklin P. Iams, 307 Bakewell law building, Diamond and Grant streets, Pittsburgh.

A committee was appointed yesterday morning to prepare a circular letter presenting arguments in favor of Miss Kate C. McKnight's candidacy for the presidency of the State Federation. These circular letters will be sent to the club women throughout the state. The committee appointed consists of Miss Harding, Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, Miss Beulah Kennard, Mrs. E. E. Crocker and Mrs. Dallas Albert.

Miss McKnight has been very successful as an organizer and her interest and success in practical civic work place her prominently among leading club women throughout Pennsylvania. The work of Western Pennsylvania, and especially Pittsburgh club women in civics is quoted throughout the country, and was one of the most important features of the work of club women forming the basis of the report of Pennsylvania women at the meeting last year of the General Federation in Los angeles.

The child labor law will be one of the chief topics for discussion at Carlisle. The opposition to the passage of child labor laws comes principally from Western Pennsylvania, and a committee was appointed yesterday to secure statistics of Pittsburgh conditions to be presented at the Carlisle meeting. This committee consists of Mrs. Samuel S. Miller, Mrs. John Cowley and Mrs. Ludwig Koethen.

Tenement House Inspectors.

The appointment of two tenement house inspectors for Pittsburgh is still in abeyance. On Monday afternoon Mrs. Franklin P. Iams, chairman of the tenement house department of the permanent civic committee, and several other women of the department, were in conference with Director Moore of the board of health. Another conference with Director Moore and Mayor Hays will be held this week. Already there is a list of over 100 men for the office of tenement house inspectors, the majority of whom are eligible to the office for good political reasons. The list also includes two women applicants. If, instead of appointing a man and a woman to the two offices, two men be appointed, a proposition will be made to the tenement house department whereby its work for the best interests of the city and the thorough enforcement of the tenement house law in Pittsburgh can still be carried out, will be made. A meeting of the tenement house department will be held tomorrow morning in the Civic club rooms.

Post-Nuptial Announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Starr announce the marriage of their sister, Mrs. Jean Starr Redelsheimer, to Frank Sallinger of Richmond to Atlanta. Information blanks are now being received by prominent families in this city. The Social Register is unique. There are no advertisements in it and the information given includes the names of leads of families, maiden names of the married women, and the names of the sons and daughters in the order of their age, and the clubs, societies and colleges to which they may belong or have been graduated from.

Under the head of married maidens, the maiden names of the married women are given in alphabetical order, to serve as a convenient reference to the present married name.

What is known as "Dilatory Domiciles" will be issued by the Social Register in November, December, February and April for attachment in the front of the regular book, recording all the marriages and deaths and changes of residences to date, and in June a "Summer Social Register" will contain the country addresses of not only Pittsburgh, but also of all the cities covered at present by the Social Register—all in alphabetical order. The idea is that inasmuch as the residents of all these cities are liable to meet at the same watering places in summer, it is much more convenient that one book should cover their addresses.

The accuracy and utility of the Social Register is dependent upon the information received directly from the families interested.

Wanted Soldiers Barred.

CRIPPLE CREEK, COL., Sept. 23.—In the miners' libeas corpus cases today Attorney Enslen, representing the plaintiffs, withdrew because the court permitted the presence of armed soldiers, who have charge of the prisoners, in the court room. Other counsel, however, continued the case and the court announced it would render its decision tomorrow. The prisoners were returned to the guardhouse.

Thurston School Opened Yesterday.

Miss Alice Thurston has returned from Europe, where she made a study of education methods in Germany and Switzerland. Yesterday morning the school opened and greetings were extended to the returned principal and the new members of the faculty. Miss Thurston purposes to make a second trip abroad for the express purpose of giving exclusive attention to the newest and best methods of education.

An addition to the faculty this year is Miss Lois McHicks, who undertakes the position, new in Pittsburgh schools, of supervising the work of the primary and intermediate departments. Miss McHicks was for seven years supervisor of the Hensinger Experimental school in New York. Miss Thurston has secured the able assistance of Miss Sanderson, a graduate from one of the best-known physical training schools in the United States, the Boston Normal school of gymnastics. Another acquisition to the faculty is that of Mr. Wiggly, instructor of mathematics, who comes with the experience of several years' work at the "Gunnery," Dr. Gunn's school in Connecticut. The regular lecture course at the school will be carried on this year, the list of lecturers appearing later.

Social Register for Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh will now have a Social Register, the one which has proved so useful in New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore, being extended to include Pittsburgh and the southern cities from New York, in Louisville, Ky., on September 16. Mr. and Mrs. Sallinger will be at home after September 25 and until November 1 at the St. Lorenz Seventy-second street and Lexington avenue, New York.

For over a year Mrs. Sallinger was actively engaged in settlement work on the East Side. She occupied the responsible position as head of women's work at the Educational Alliance in Jefferson street and directed the alliance settlement work proper at 199 East Broadway. She was interested in other philanthropic work in that city and in Louisville, Ky., here former home.

Clagett—Beck.

One of the leading social events of the season was the marriage last evening of Miss Katherine Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. Luther S. Clagett of Blairsville, to Dr. Harvey Grant Beck of Baltimore, Md. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock in the Methodist Episcopal church, in the presence of many friends of the young couple. The church was handsomely decorated. Miss Laura Rugh played the wedding march, and the bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her away. Miss Eva Rangler of Lancaster was maid of honor; Miss Louise Knox of Pittsburgh, Miss Laura Graff, Miss Mary Graff, Miss Ella Ray and Miss Roberts all of Blairsville, were bridesmaids.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe de chine. The maid of honor wore white mousseline over yellow taffeta, and the bridesmaids wore white. The Rev. R. F. Beascell, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. Dr. Beck's attendants were Dr. Frank D. Sanger, Joseph Dunn, Raymond Bortner, of Baltimore; Dr. Dwight Cruikshank of Fairview, W. Va.; Ralph Smith and Frank Evans, of Blairsville. After a reception at the home of the bride, followed by a wedding supper, the couple left on an eastern wedding trip, and will make their home in Baltimore, where Dr. Beck is a practicing physician.

MACHINISTS—25 competent machinists of all classes to operate planers, lathes, boring mills, milling machines, as well as fitters and erecting men, all on steam engine work of high grade.

We operate an "Open Shop." We do not discriminate against union labor, nor do we permit the non-union mechanic to be coerced. Good place for the independent man of ability. We have the best shop in this country, best tools, best class of workmanship, most steady employment. We pay hourly wage rates as high as any other shops in this district, which is probably the best in the machine tool district of the United States. Our hourly wage rate varies from 37½ cents per hour down to 27½ cents per hour, to be individually adjusted according to each man's ability. For certain large machine tools we pay even higher hourly rates.

In addition we do much of our machine work at piece rates, which enables an active mechanic to earn very large wages. During May and June just passed, 29 of our machinists averaged to earn $115.00 per month per man. Apply in person at the works of the Westinghouse Machine Company, East Pittsburgh, Pa.

There will be a great boom famine about this city next spring. The man who depends on renting a house from April 1 next will meet with many disappointments and many will not be able to secure suitable places. This is the judgment of all persons informed on the conditions of the building business during the past year.

We therefore cannot urge too strongly the importance of buying your house this fall and avoid the danger of being disappointed next spring. We have a great variety of beautiful and attractive houses, most conveniently located, within a few minutes' trolley ride by two lines of trolley cars of business center of Pittsburgh, and the great factories of the South Side.

There is no more beautiful or healthy place about this city than

It is out of the smoke and dirt, has pure air, trees, birds and flowers. You can get more for your money in Knoxville, in all that goes to make for a comfortable and pleasant home, than anywhere else.

All we can do is to tell you about our houses, how cheap they are and how easy you can secure one. It is then up to you. Come and see for yourself or ask of those who have bought in Knoxville.

There will be a great boss famine about this city next spring. The man who depends on renting a house from April 1 next will find very many disappointments and many will not be able to secure suitable places. This is the judgment of all persons informed on the conditions of the building business during the past year.

We therefore cannot urge too strongly the importance of buying your house this fall and avoid the danger of being disappointed next spring. We have a very great variety of beautiful and attractive houses, most conveniently located, within a few minutes' trolley ride by two lines of trolley cars of business center of Pittsburgh, and the great factories of the South Side.

It is out of the smoke and dirt, has pure air, trees, birds and flowers. You can get more for your money in Knoxville, in all that goes to make for a comfortable and pleasant home, than anywhere else.

All we can do is to tell you about our houses, how cheap they are and how easy you can secure one. It is then up to you. Come and see for yourself or ask of those who have bought in Knoxville.

NEW LOW RECORDS FOR STEEL AND CONSOLS

Stock Market Continues Weak Without Apparent Cause—Additional Government Relief Measures for the Money Market.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

There was a repetition yesterday of a somewhat curious incident in the stock market which occurred last week. In London English consols declined to 88⅛, a new low record, and in Wall street United States Steel new 5s declined to 124, the lowest price ever quoted. The markets at home and abroad were dull and weak for no apparent cause—that is there were no new developments of an unfavorable character. On the contrary, there was at least one bit of news which under ordinary conditions would have been used as the basis for a rally in values. This was the announcement that Secretary Shaw would resume refunding operations to the extent of exchanging at least $20,000,000 government 2 per cent bonds for United States bonds of other issues. The object is to furnish national banks with a basis for circulation and as security for government deposits, the high prices of the older issues carrying them out of reach for such purposes. In addition it was announced that the government would anticipate the payment of the 3 per cent bonds which mature in February next, with interest to date of maturity, and that if any of these 5s are in use as security for public deposits the secretary would permit the substitution of municipal securities at 75 per cent of their face value. The amount of 5s which mature next February is about $19,000,000, and it is understood that the bulk of the outstanding issue is held in New York, having been accumulated earlier in the year in anticipation of prepayment. Comptroller of the Currency Ridgely was quoted as saying that this action by Secretary Shaw absolutely precludes any possibility of tight money this fall.

In view of the comparative strength of the New York banks—they reported a surplus last Saturday of more than $13,000,000, against a deficit for the corresponding week last year of more than $1,500,000—the necessity for government relief for the money market at this time is not apparent. The announcement had no effect upon the stock market. The latter opened irregular, averaging lower, on the decline of consols, and soon developed a decidedly weak tone. Amalgamated Copper was one of the weakest stocks, opening lower at 43⅜ and finally selling down to 41¾. The decline was accompanied by rumors of dissensions in the board relative to the question of continuing the dividend on the stock. United States Steel common held comparatively steady, and after declining to 17⅝, rallied to 18. The preferred opened a shade lower at 67¾, declined to 67½, and rallied to 68. The refunding 5 per cent bonds, on the other hand, were weak, a fall down to 72¾. For a time the stock did not follow this decline, but later on a common sold off to 17½ and the preferred to 67¾, all issues closing near the lowest prices of the day. American Car & Foundry, Colorado Fuel & Iron, Tennessee Coal & Iron, Sugar and General Electric ll declined, the losses ranging from 1 to ¾ per cent, the latter, General Electric, which sold at 150.

In the railroad list there was some irregularity, the weakest stocks being the standard issues of the east and south, while the grangers lost only small fractions. New York Central declined from 117½ to 116, closing at the lowest, a net loss of 2⅛ per cent from the close the previous day. The company reported an increase in gross earnings for the September quarter of $1,366,000, but a decrease in net earnings of $323,000 and a decrease in surplus of $198,000. Baltimore & Ohio was another weak feature, selling off from 93½ to 77½, or within a small fraction of the lowest price quoted during the August panic. Pennsylvania declined from 122⅞ to 121 and also closed at the lowest of the day. Reading and Erie each declined less than a point. The sharpest decline of all was in a heretofore inactive stock, Southern Railway preferred, a Morgan speciality which broke from 84¼ to 81 and closed at the decline. The common sold off to 39¾. The weakness of these issues seemed to affect Louisville & Nashville, which declined to 100½, or within less than a per cent of the panic price of August 10 last. Illinois Central, another north and south system, declined to and closed at 129. Southern Pacific declined 1½ per cent to 41¼. Northwest reported an increase in gross earnings for August of $828,900, but the stock declined 2 per cent to 154. While final prices on the general list were not in every instance the lowest of the day, the average showed a net loss, and the tone of the market was heavy at the close. The sales reached 466,000 shares.

The further decline in the grain markets, which puts wheat and corn on that much better export basis, was practically ignored by Wall street, which seems to be solely engaged in endeavoring to discount possibly adverse action next month on the Steel common dividend, and also measure the extent of the industrial reaction now in progress. The New York banks shipped $200,000 more currency to New Orleans, and sterling exchange was firm and higher, but rates on call loans remained easy at 2@2½ per cent. It will not be surprising if the Bank of England raises its minimum rate of discount to 4½ per cent, but foreign money and stock markets seem to have discounted the effect of such action.

There was a further falling off in trading on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday, and the tone of the market was less firm. Steel common led in point of activity, and after selling at 18 it declined to and closed at 17¾. The preferred declined to and closed at 67¾. Consolidated Coal sold off to 71 and the preferred to 95. Manufacturers Light & Heat was dull at 31. Brewing common declined a fraction to 27½, while the preferred remained unchanged at 48.

In the banking group the only quotable changes were advances of 2 per cent for Guarantee Trust, 1 per cent for Commonwealth Trust, and a decline of ½ for Iron City Trust. There was nothing doing in bonds.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Wall street again credited Pittsburgh with selling in that market, this time saying that the decline in Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania started on Pittsburgh selling. A local house sent a message in reply to an inquiry on the subject, suggesting that if Wall street looked nearer home it might find the source of the selling. It may be gratifying to local pride to be told that Pittsburgh is a factor in the market just now, but it is a little remarkable that the east did not "discover us" when we were buying the grains of stock which are now said to be going overboard.

There was a distinctly easier tendency in the local market yesterday, manifested in offerings by both home and nearby banks. The rate remained unchanged at 6 per cent on call and time loans.

Harbison-Walker common stock is nearing the Marsden class, so far as market value is concerned. It was bid only 5 this stock yesterday and 2, and the preferred sold at 50, just half the par value. The stock was never very widely distributed and there has been little public trading in it.

New York Central directors yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. E. H. Harriman and William Rockefeller attended the meeting. A director stated that no action was taken on the subject of raising funds for terminal improvements.

There have been no public transactions in Union Steel 5s, but private quotations are said to range from 95 to 97, or from 20 to 22 per cent above the price of United States Steel new 5s, a difference which local bond dealers say is not justified by the difference in securities.

Andrew Carter, a former prominent member of the Pittsburgh stock exchange, who retired from active participation in the local market about two years ago, and since then has traveled from the Atlantic to the Pacific, was in the Wall street district yesterday for the purpose to learn how widely distributed are the stocks of the United States Steel Corporation," he remarked. "I ran across many stockholders in California and elsewhere up to Pittsburgh. This month last year I was in Halifax, and a member of one banking and brokerage house there told me that he had bought at least 15,000 shares United States Steel, which had been paid for outright by investors. Last Sunday I was down in West Virginia. I heard there, too, of the activity in the Pittsburgh market, and out of curiosity I bought a newspaper. I spread it out at the financial page on the desk of the hotel clerk. He noticed by the interest in the quotations that I was there, east, west and south. The distrust of all corporations that would follow a passage of the dividend would be very widespread."

C. D. Bevington, assistant cashier of the Columbia National bank, has been elected secretary of the North American Savings Company. Heretofore W. A. Fraser has been secretary and treasurer of the company, but, owing to the rapid growth of the bank, the work is to be divided. The resignation of Mr. Bevington as assistant cashier of the Columbia National has been accepted, to effective September 30, and he will go to the North American Savings on October 1.

President Peters of the Texas Cotton Growers' association has issued a statement advising farmers to hold their crop and predicting 15-cent cotton before the end of the season.

The Westinghouse Electric directors have declared a quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent on the preferred and the assenting and the then outstanding stocks of the company. The dividend is payable October 1. Books close September 30 and open October 12.

Amos Lyons, who succeeded Russell Sage as the largest dealer in privileges in Wall street, has sold a number of 100-share calls on United States Steel common at 18½ for 200. The calls run four weeks from date of sale, and accordingly cover the period within which the next dividend on the common stock will be determined. Since the retirement of Russell Sage about the only dealer in privileges has been Amos Lyons. While he does not deal in options on as large a scale as Russell Sage did some years ago, Amos Lyons often has over 100 privileges outstanding. Like Russell Sage, he is over 80 years old, and is one of the most interesting characters in Wall street.

The offer by the secretary of the treasury to anticipate the redemption of the government 5s which mature next February offers so clear an opportunity to investors that there can be little doubt of its general acceptance. The offer to pay the interest to maturity now is equivalent to a 2 per cent rebate for the unaccrued interest. The offer is, therefore, in effect a premium for presenting the bonds for redemption. The additional provision that state and municipal bonds may be substituted for such of the government 5s as are held to secure circulation and government deposits will stimulate the offering of state and municipal bonds for the purpose of this substitution, which would have the effect of relieving the general market to some extent in a period of moderate confidence; but it proved powerless on yesterday's market.

Only $200,000 was deposited at the New York sub-treasury yesterday for transfer to New Orleans, compared with Tuesday's $1,000,000. But this brings the total transfers to that point for this week thus far up to $7,650,000, which is considerably in excess of any full week's transfers to that point in more than two years past. Chicago exchanges also sold to par, carrying an intimation that the western demand for currency, although belated on account of the late corn and spring wheat crops, is still to be reckoned with.

Under the heading "A Possible Two-Billionaire," the Philadelphia News Bureau says: "The stock market has fallen from its point as compared with a year ago, the average of railroads having declined more than 34 points. Many of the newer issues have made very marked decline from the high figures which were quoted when they were launched, and a few like Consolidated Lake Superior have been practically wiped out. The ordinary industrial list has lost about 20 points, but a number of these stocks which have not been quoted for a year or two are not included in the list. If they were, the average loss would be much greater. If it were possible to obtain the stock sheets at the market, the control of corporations with a capital of more than $1,700,000,000 could be purchased at this time for less than $1,200,000,000. This would be within the resources of John D. Rockefeller or Andrew Carnegie, and perhaps one or two other individual capitalists of this country. The companies which at the present bargain prices could be controlled for $1,200,000,000 at the present or recent market prices include the United States Steel, United States Leather, United States Realty, American Woolen and four other similar companies, and the Chicago Union Traction and the Reading, thus giving the owner an investment of $1,200,000,000 in passenger railways and the steam roads. With reasonable luck, such an investor might record his properties to the par value, and it is possible that in a few years he would find himself in control of corporate property of the market value of two thousand millions of dollars. It is evident that the possibilities of the growth of wealth in this country are not exhausted.

Ordered Out Pending a Settlement of the Wage Scale Dispute.

The lockout of the marble workers reached Pittsburgh yesterday. They received word from President Robert H. Du Bourg to come out until the wage scale dispute between the organization and the National Association of Marble Dealers has been settled. The strike, or lockout, will affect 200 skilled workmen in this city and will tie up several large buildings, including the Opera house.

The building Trades council will take the matter up Saturday and will probably call out all men working for any contractor handling material furnished by the marble dealers.

THE BEARS DEPRESSED SPECULATIVE SENTIMENT

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The Herald this (Thursday) morning says: Speculative sentiment was much depressed in Wall street yesterday by the more aggressive attitude of the bear contingent and the success which attended the efforts of the professionals in bringing about liquidation. The gloomy feeling was accentuated by the fact that the market depression occurred in the face of some important news developments of a highly favorable character.

It was a sore disappointment that the action of the secretary of the treasury should have fallen so flat. In the past the mere suggestion, with some show of authority for the statement, that the treasury department would anticipate bond interest has been sufficient to inspire enthusiasm. Yesterday the announcement that $20,000,000 of bonds could be refunded, and that $19,000,000 could be redeemed now, with about six months' interest, was followed simply by weakness in the market more pronounced than anything witnessed since early August.

GREYS' ANNIVERSARY

Flag Raising, Dress Parade and Supper Are Features of the Program.

The 72d anniversary of the organization of the Duquesne Greys, will be observed today by the Veteran corps, Duquesne Greys, Eighteenth regiment, on the armory grounds at Craft avenue and Forbes street. Every member of the regiment has worked with patriotic enthusiasm together with the old members of the Greys, in order to make the meeting a success, and a large gathering is looked for.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon a guard mount will take place, after which a steel flagpole 70 feet high will be raised and a flag unfurled from its halyards. The flag was presented by Capt. Hugh P. David. The Veteran corps will be in charge of Col. L. T. Brom. At 4:30 o'clock the entire regiment will assemble for dress parade under Lieut. Col. J. C. Kay. The mess tents of the various companies will be raised upon the lawn, where supper will be served. The Eighteenth regiment band will furnish the music during the afternoon and evening.

Among the guests will be many officers of prominence in the National Guard of Pennsylvania and among the local contingent of the United States army. Maj. Gen. Charles Miller, Brig. Gen. John A. Wiley, Brig. Gen. Willis J. Hulings, of the Sixteenth regiment; Capt. U. W. Griffiths, commandant of the local recruiting station; Capt. Charles Hendler, of the Third regiment; Lieut. H. H. Grip of the Sheridan troop; the members of the governor's staff, the division and Second brigade staffs and several of the officers of the Ninth regular infantry sitting in the court-martial at the Allegheny arsenal, are expected to attend

IRON AND STEEL MARKET QUIET

Overproduction Thought to Be Cause of the Present Slow Condition.

FURNACES TO SHUT DOWN

Little Demand for Foundry and Gray Forge Iron—Tinplate Business Never Was Better—Coke Trade Active, but Car Shortage Confronts Shippers.

Business in the iron and steel market can hardly be called quiet so good this week as last, orders not having come in as freely for finished material, where the demand had somewhat the appearance of brightening a week ago. Various reasons are assigned for the failure of the season to respond as quickly as usual to the conditions supposed to influence manufacturing at this time of the year, and the probabilities are that the causes assigned are all proportionately responsible. There is unanimity of opinion among manufacturers that business is not as brisk as it should be, and, while no one admits being disheartened, the period of activity is deferred, and the waiting policy in force for so long among buyers still is prevalent. One large producer gave it as his opinion that overproduction was the prime cause for present slack conditions, all kinds of finished material having been turned out in such large quantities that there was more than could be consumed quickly, and it will be necessary for the market to become cleaned up of existing stocks to some extent before there can be a quick request for supplies.

Strikes among the building trades have stopped a large amount of work in that line, and structural material is not wanted in any great amount. If there was as much demand for structural iron and steel as for other lines, business would be active enough. Railroads, however, are deferring many contemplated improvements, and a number of buildings which had been looked upon as enterprises for the near future will be let alone until the atmosphere has become clearer. During the fall and winter there will be considerable work in the completion of buildings already started, but there will be few new enterprises put under way.

Bessemer Pig Quiet.

Bessemer pig iron is comparatively quiet, and prices range from $16 to $17, valley furnace, with most of the selling at the lower figure, while one sale of 500 tons is reported at $15 50. As an offset to this a sale of 5,000 tons was made to $16 50. Most of the buying is in small lots of 100 to 200 tons, and purchasers are hunting bargains to cover these wants. Valley furnaces will take hold of the situation and observe some support at the meeting of furnace men is to be held on Saturday of this week, at which time a course of action will be decided, looking toward the closing of blast furnaces part time. While details may be to be arranged, the plan is now fully discussed is that of shutting down furnaces for 30 or 60 days each in turns, to limit production. Another suggestion is to close all the furnaces for three months, in all events there will be a curtailing of the total output, which is expected to have a salutary effect upon the situation. Sellers of pig iron assert that there will be a better business before the close of the present year, but admit the disappointment that it has not come before now.

Foundry iron is very slow, ruling figures ranging at about $15 25 to $15 75, Pittsburgh delivery. While there is some inquiry, demand is quiet. Gray forge iron is slow, the last reported sale being at $14 75. For both foundry and forge iron there is an attempt being made to uphold prices, but admitting them to a higher range, but few furnaces selling at the figures reported, others preferring to stand by better figures rather than make sales at the low point.

There is nothing in the way of special feature in billets, prices holding at $27 for Bessemer and $28 for open hearth, with few sales reported.

The closing down of the Pencoyd iron works occasioned no surprise among manufacturers, such a course of procedure being looked upon as most natural upon the part of a mill of which the output is almost exclusively structural material. The shut down may be only temporary, but the plant is likely to be permanently affected by the future removal of all mills affiliated with the American Bridge Company to Ambridge. Orders for structural material are not coming in freely, and there is some accumulation of stock which has not been taken out. Local producers are feeling this condition, and hope to see a more active market inside of the next two or three weeks. All lines of finished material are unchanged in price, and no change in figures seems to be contemplated. Tinplate is very active, and there is reason to believe the usual shutdown will not occur this fall. Sheet iron and steel are not so active, and trade, while better than at the first of the month, is not so active as it was six weeks ago. This is largely due to labor troubles, jobbers throughout the country not having found their stocks reduced to the usual extent, and not buying heavily.

Coke demand is good and manufacturers are able to find buyers for all they can ship. The difficulty continues to be with securing cars, blockades now existing on several roads which have delayed consignments for over a month. Producers of coke are wary about making contracts on account of the difficulty in making deliveries. Conditions in this line of business are stiffening up, largely due to the fact that consumers know a car shortage is inevitable, and are anxious to protect their wants while it is possible.

Autumn Demand Starts.

The coming of the fall season and the setting in of seasonable weather, in the cool mornings and evenings, has stirred the hardware trade to the effect that they are commencing to look about them for supplies of cold weather goods, if they have not already protected their stocks. This is moving business in such a manner as to bring a largely increased volume of trade, particularly in housefurnishing goods. In addition to this it has spurred dealers forward to getting their general stocks in good shape for the fall trade, which they feel is going to be very good. All indications point to a large business, notwithstanding the apparent disturbances in Wall street and in the stock market. Nails and wire are moving out in larger volume than ever was known at this time of year, the demand being simply terrific, and the call for strong sizes of nails, such as 8's and 10's, making it almost impossible to keep a stock and fill orders. Builders' hardware continues to move in good volume, the building business seeming to retain some degree of activity in this section. Albion tools are in increasing demand.

Trade in bicycles and bicycle sundries is remarkable for the time of the year, riders in many cases having apparently put off buying wheels until the latter part of the season, and judging from the sundries which are moving, almost every one in the country is having repairs made to his bicycle that has been in use from time to time.

A fair movement continues in window glass, notwithstanding the disturbed condition of the market, orders for good lots coming in from dealers who have been able to sufficient supplies for contractors and consumers. This indicates that stocks in most hands are low, and business in better shape than it might seem to be. Mastic paints, colors and varnishes continue to move actively. A slight advance has taken place in linseed oil, denoting an upward tendency in this important commodity. Prices in general are firm, with some few advances in certain lines.

AN UPWARD MOVEMENT EXPECTED FOR PIG IRON

It Is Expected That Action by Furnacemen Will Check the Downward Prices.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The Iron Age tomorrow will print the following: "If the movement inaugurated by furnacemen, both east and west, within the past week, brings about the restriction of production expected, a change will undoubtedly be felt in the pig iron trade, which has thus far been the weakest branch of the iron and steel business. A meeting of the furnace owners of the Mahoning and Shenango valleys, to be held in Pittsburgh on Saturday, and another meeting of eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey furnace owners was held in New York on Tuesday. The common object of these meetings, although they were not held in collusion, will determine whether some action could not be taken to check the downward movement of prices. While no agreement was made with regard to prices, it was decided that restriction of production was necessary. No definite plan was announced, but it is understood that as soon as possible a number of furnaces are to be blown. It was found on interchanging views that few northern furnace companies are now in a position to manufacture pig iron at a profit. It would certainly be bad business policy to pile much pig iron produced at present cost. It is expected that other meetings will be held this week both in the east and the west, at which other furnace owners will be expected to be present, and some definite movement toward restricting production will be widened.

Action of this kind is imperative, as the consumption of pig iron is being reduced from week to week. The continuous lowering of prices causes buyers to hold off and checks business all along the line.

The lessening demand for finished products is shown by the closing of some important establishments during the past week. The outlook for the future in the structural trade is exceedingly bright, it being stated by leading manufacturers, who have made a thorough canvass of the situation, that if eliminating all the doubtful projects, the work in sight aggregates 200,000 tons more than at the corresponding time in 1902. Many projects will be run on prospects, and meanwhile some of the structural works are being closed to do away with the placing of further orders in this line.

The manufacturers constituting the billet association met in this city on last Thursday and, contrary to general expectation, decided to maintain prices on the basis previously established. It was thought that a reduction would result from any reduction in prices at this time, notwithstanding the lower rates being named by outside manufacturers.

It is learned that the most satisfactory trade reports to learn that the wire trade is in phenomenally good condition. The actual business placed for immediate shipments of wire rods and wire in the mills thus far this month is the largest in three years.

Labor troubles among vessel men on the lakes will curtail the movement of iron ore from the mines to lower lake ports, and may cause the indefinite closing of important mining operations in the Lake Superior district. This will not affect the operations of furnaces, however, as the ore supply under any conditions will be ample for the coming winter.

OAKLAND FLATS SOLD TO OHIO MAN

BIG PURCHASE NEAR CAPE MAY

Swissvale Frontage Brings $60,000—A Federal Street Deal of $21,000—Building Projects and Small Residence Sales—New Telephone Headquarters.

The "Oakland" apartments, at the northeast corner of Forbes and Halket streets, have been sold by Dr. John J. Sayle of this city for $125,000, the deal having been made through the office of A. Z. Byers & Co. The apartments are not only among the very best in the city, but from a revenue standpoint are an excellent investment at the amount paid. They were built about two years ago and occupy a lot 60x127 feet. The building is a five-story brick and terra cotta structure, containing 26 suites of six rooms and bath each. The flats are all finished in hardwood and separated by fire walls. To many the most attractive feature of the apartments is that the heat and light plant is located in a separate building on the rear of the lot, thus doing away with any jar in the building and the overheating of the lower floors in summer, which is so common where the plant is underneath the building. The buyer of the property is Leonard Schilling of Salem, O. In part payment for it he tendered a very choice plot of frontage at Detroit and Dartmouth streets, West Side, Cleveland, which was put into the deal at $25,000. This property is in the famous Lakeside district, near the palatial home of Senator M. A. Hanna, and as Dr. Sayle will shortly return to Cleveland to locate, it will probably be improved next year.

Pittsburghers Invest $30,000.

A syndicate of local capitalists headed by John W. Mages has bought from the Cape May Real Estate Company a large tract of property at Sewell's Point, New Cape May, for about $30,000. The property includes the well-known Excursion House, which will be at once enlarged and remodeled for a first-class place of entertainment. The grounds adjacent to this building will be fitted up for special attractions, among which will be a switchback railway and other novel features. Provision has been made for dining rooms, hospital and reading rooms for the employes and for double the switchboard capacity of any plant now in McKeesport.

Architects George S. Orth & Bros. have awarded the contract to John H. Trimble & Bro. of Allegheny for the erection of a $25,000 residence for Gilbert Black at Fifth and Denniston avenues. The same architects are receiving estimates on the two-story bank and office building of the Bridgeville Trust Company.

Another commission house is shortly to locate near the Allegheny Valley railroad yards, where a cluster of downtown firms moved last spring. The buildings at the corner of Twenty-first and Smallman streets are being remodeled for the use of the commission houses, which, it is said, will move about November 1.

Swissvale Frontage Purchased.

A deal for seven acres of Swissvale frontage, referred to in The Gazette some time ago, has been closed, the amount involved being in the neighborhood of $60,000. The property is located between Mrs. Elizabeth S. Newmyer and was purchased by William Pore. It is situated on the east side of the Pennsylvania railroad, extending from the tracks to Westmoreland avenue and lying between the Lloyd hotel property and the Galey plan of Lloyd, Both Union and Hampton streets intersect the property. Most of the frontage in this vicinity has already been plotted and sold, and the Galey plan is now being built solidly, principally with houses costing from $5,000 to $8,000. It is understood that Mr. Pore will have the Newmyer property plotted and placed on the market early in the spring, conditions will be ample for the coming winter.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

A fine strike of Galena, running high in silver, has been made in the Copper Reward claim, Libby district, Montana.

Wallace Thayer of Moffats, N. Y., accompanied by an expert, is making an examination of the Amber mine at Park, Mont., with a view to reopening that property.

The statement of the Clinton Mining Company of Boulder, Colo., shows shipments for August were 24,000 pounds of smelting ore, which yielded 1,610 tons. Eighty-eight tons were 376 pounds of matte or free gold ore, which produced 177.51 ounces of gold, for which the Denver mint gave $3,674 60, making a total output for the month of 87,752 lb, 1760 375 pounds running a little over $47 per pound. The average value of the ore was $240 per ton.

A letter from Idaho Springs, Colo., says: Specifications are being drawn for the immediate concentrating plant for the consolidated Gem Mines Company, to be erected near the mouth of the Newhouse tunnel. The first section of the big mill will have a capacity of 100 tons per 24 hours. In connection with the concentrating plant a cyanide process is to be used. The second section will be erected later, probably of 500-ton capacity additional.

The Grand Central of Telluride passed the September dividend, which was earned, and will use the surplus to open lower levels in the mine.

FRESH EGG SUPPLIES ARE VERY SCARCE

Firm Butter Market—Oat and Wheat Straw Make Advance. Grapes Higher.

Shortage in the supply of fresh eggs becomes more serious every day, and stocks are so low as to cause prices to rule very strong. This being moulting season, chickens are not laying profusely, and it is difficult to gather up shipments for consignment to the city markets. Dealers hope that with a continuance of open weather for a few weeks there will be improvement in the supply, but in the meantime eggs are scarce and high. While nominal prices for selects continue to rule at 23 and 24 cents, it is not unusual to hear of sales at 25 cents for strictly select stock, as eggs do not run well now, candling causing a loss of several dozens to the case. Storage stock is being brought out and sold as fresh quite commonly. 22 to 23 cents being asked for eggs of this kind.

Butter rules firm at the advance of last Monday and is selling freely, dealers expecting further advances before the end of the month. Cheese is firm and recent advances in price are easily sustained.

There was no change made in the price of hay yesterday, but straw is scarce and strong, prices for oat and wheat advancing 50 cents a ton. Ear corn is steady, and there was no further decline in shelled, which was not in heavy receipt yesterday. Mill feed remains firm at quoted figures, with supplies moderate.

Business among jobbers in groceries is better than it was a week ago, and an active demand pervades nearly all of seasonable lines. Sugar is selling freely, and has again become a bone of contention among dealers, cutting being heard of for the purpose of making sales. A stand has been taken to uphold prices by the wholesalers' association, and has been adhered to for some time, but it is understood sharp competition has occasioned a departure from strictly 1-8th point advance orders, while other goods are offered by purchasers. Coffee is steady at old prices, while flour holds its own as quoted. Navy beans are firm, and the supply is not large enough to make it likely there will be any radical lowering of quotations for some time. Canned corn maintains its strong position, and tomatoes, while packs will likely be large, are kept firm by the shortage in corn. Dried and evaporated fruits are unchanged.

Yesterday was a very quiet day in the produce market, and there was not much change from the quotations. Grapes were scarce and Concords are higher in price. California pears also went forward, owing to reduced supplies. There is but a limited supply of peaches, and quotations are held at the advance recently made. Apples are plentiful, of good quality, and are selling freely.

Plenty of fresh tomatoes continue to reach market, and quotations are just about steady. Corn is the only good supply, and prices cling to former rangs.

NORRIS VISITED PRISON DISGUISED AS DOCTOR

Veteran Detective Unable to Identify Confidence Man Captured by Farmers.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

STEUBENVILLE, O., Sept. 23.—Assuming the role of a corn doctor, John T. Norris, the veteran detective of Springfield, visited the county jail today and view the wounded confidence men. He was unable to identify either. They would not talk, but he surmises they come from Milwaukee, Chicago, or St. Louis.

Higgins suffers much from his injured eye and put in a bad night. Wade, or "Hurd," is getting along all right. Neither man will talk. The two men were practically identified this afternoon as members of the celebrated Tuscarawas county gang of green goods and confidence men. The big man who gave his name as John Wade is said to be Ben Beam, the leader of the band. The identification was made by John P. Simpkins, a stone mason of Portland station, who went to school with many members of the gang.

The slender man who has a buckshot in his eyeball, was thought by Simpkins to be Newt Topping, a partner of Beam's, but after looking at him Simpkins said the prisoner was not Tapping. Members of the Tuscarawas gang have been arrested in a dozen different states within the past two years. When at home Beam is said to engage in the lumber business.

A gang of Italian laborers today went to work on the old Ramsey farm, about a mile and a half southeast of Washington, and the work will now proceed rapidly until completion. Patrick Foley has the contract for constructing four miles of the Greene county line between Washington and Lagonda.

Savings Banks in Schools.

COSHOCTON, O., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—The local board of education has decided to establish a penny savings department in the public schools, declaring that thrift and economy are two important branches of American life that need cultivation, and which the tendency is to sadly neglect.

ANOTHER APPEAL FOR AID.

Epidemic of Typhoid Fever from the Jeanette Disaster Still Flourishes.

GREENSBURG, PA., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Another cause for alarm on account of disease has arisen in the Brush Creek valley which was swept by the flood of July 3. A number of cases of typhoid fever have been reported and their cause can be traced to the water from the wells which were filled with debris. A number of hydrants will be placed throughout the town for the use of the poor residents.

James L. Kennedy, secretary of the relief committee, was in Greensburg today and appealed to Congressman George F. Huff and State Senator Cyrus E. Woods for assistance. They promised to visit Philadelphia and ask for aid a second time from the state board of health.

Simply Breathe It

The pleasantest, most convenient and the only scientific method for the treatment and cure of catarrh is Hyomei. Simply put twenty drops of Hyomei in the inhaler that comes with every package and then breathe it for a few minutes four times a day.

It seems remarkable that as simple a way of treating catarrh will effect a cure, but the most important discoveries of science has always been the simplest. By breathing Hyomei in this way every particle of air that enters the air passages of the throat and head and goes into the lungs is charged with a healing balsam that kills the germs and bacilli of catarrh and soothes and allays all irritation.

The first day's use of Hyomei will show a decided improvement and in a short time there will be no further trouble from catarrh. Its action is rapid and lasting.

You take no risk in buying Hyomei. A complete outfit costs $1.00, and if after using you can say that it has not helped you Schilling Bros. Co., Penn and Frankstown avenues, will return your money. What other treatment for catarrh is sold under a guarantee like this?

Man Aged 102 Years Celebrates Birthday

ERIE, PA., Sept. 23.—The friends and relatives of Ebenezer Matthews from miles around, as well as from Ohio, Michigan and New York, gathered at Wellsburg today to day to do him honor and to assist him in celebrating his 102nd birthday. He is the oldest man in this county and probably in the state. Mr. Matthews is still in fairly good health and thoroughly enjoyed the monster picnic of which he was today the central figure. Ex-District Attorney Paul A. Benson of this city, delivered the principal congratulatory address.
